Post Speeds To Edmonton With Record Held Certain

World Flier 10 Hours Ahead of His Old Mark at Fairbanks, Alaska.

Meets Fair Weather In Canadian Wilds

Expects to Land in New York City Early Tomorrow Morning.

Fairbanks, Alaska, July 21 (AP).—Wiley Post, Oklahoma pilot, hopped off from Fairbanks at 5:45 p. m. (10:45 p. m. Eastern standard time) today for Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, in continuation of his solo flight around the world.

He was 10 hours ahead of the Post-Gatty time at this point.

Post was on the ground here 7 hours and 3 minutes, after arriving from Flat, Alaska, where his plane was damaged slightly in landing in a cross wind yesterday.

His elapsed time at the take-off was 162 hours, 35 minutes, against a time of 172 hours 33 minutes he and Harold Gatty, navigator, had established at their hop-off from Fairbanks for New York on their globe circling flight in 1931.

Weather Reported Better.

The sun was shining and weather was reported improving all along his 1,450-mile route over the Canadian wilds. About 300 motor cars surrounded the field here when the airman took off.

Before leaving Fairbanks Post said he hoped to beat his old record and probably reach New York early Sunday morning.

Post landed in Fairbanks at 10:42 a. m. (3:42 p. m., Eastern standard time) today and expressed confidence that he would set a new globe-girdling record despite his unexpected delay at Flat, Alaska, yesterday.

Guided to Fairbanks by Joe Crosson, pioneer Alaska pilot, Post came to this city in the heart of the Territory after a flight of 3 hours and 14 minutes from Flat.

Refreshed by six hours' sleep last night while mechanics repaired his damaged landing gear, Post seemed to be fit when he brought the Winnie Mae to a perfect landing.

Eats Large Meal.

An hour after he came down, he had attended to details of servicing the plane with gasoline and oil, and was eating a substantial meal.

He said he expected to reach Edmonton, 1,450 miles away, at 4 a. m. Edmonton time (6 a. m. E. S. T.) tomorrow morning, pause there half an hour and speed on toward New York, a distance of 2,200 miles.

He lost about 20 hours of his lead over the old record, set by himself and Harold Gatty in 1931, when he became lost over the interior of Alaska yesterday and then nosed his plane over in the emergency landing at Flat.

Post and Gatty flew from Fairbanks to Edmonton in 10 hours 11 minutes, after a 6-hour stop in Fairbanks. Post expects to negotiate the flight in 9 hours. Post and Gatty were halted at Edmonton slightly more than 8 hours, while Post hopes to be there only 30 minutes.

New York Expecting Post's Arrival Tonight

New York, July 21 (AP).—Wiley Post's representatives here expressed complete confidence tonight that the flier would zoom into Floyd Bennett Field soon after midnight tomorrow, well ahead of the globe-girdling record he set out to beat.

So assured was everybody concerned that a new record was within Post's grasp that Lee Trenholm, his agent, and Mayor John P. O'Brien arranged a conference for tomorrow morning to plan the details of his welcome.

Jolson Blackens Eye of Winchell

Columnist's Orb Suffers in Fisticuffs Battle in Hollywood.

Hollywood, July 21 (U.P.).—Al Jolson, stage and screen comedian, engaged in a fist fight with Walter Winchell, Broadway columnist, before a crowd of several thousand fans at the Hollywood Arena tonight. Winchell suffered a black eye before friends separated the participants.

Onlookers said Winchell on his way to a seat passed Jolson, who was with his wife, Ruby Keeler, the actress. Jolson and Winchell exchanged a few brief words in undertones. Suddenly the comedian drew back and "landed" his right in the columnist's eye, according to witnesses.

Few blows were exchanged before Hal Wallis, film producer and husband of Louise Fazenda, stepped between them and pulled the angered Jolson away. Winchell continued to his seat. He told newsmen he would take no action against the comedian.

Wedding Is Today

Ruth Googins And Roosevelt To Wed Today

Plan Honeymoon in West Following Ceremony in Iowa City.

Burlington, Iowa, July 21 (AP).—Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, arrived here tonight at 11:22 p. m., by automobile from Chicago and went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Swiler, uncle and aunt of Miss Ruth Googins, 23, Fort Worth, Texas, girl to whom he will be married tomorrow.

In the Roosevelt party were Elliott's sister, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Miller, of Chicago.

The 22-year-old son of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt had no comment to make of an official statement which had been issued a few hours earlier, declaring that his wedding would be tomorrow.

His arrival here climaxed a day of rumors concerning the impending nuptials which were consistently denied by both the bridegroom-to-be and his attorney, Samuel Platt, of Reno, in several interviews in Chicago.

The pretty Fort Worth society girl remained in seclusion throughout the day in the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Harriet Swiler.

"I'll tell you all about it Sunday," her mother said. "I'm just here visiting my brother, George C. Swiler."

Only members of the immediate family and close friends will attend the wedding, relatives of Miss Googins said. The officiating minister had not been determined.

Immediately after the ceremony, the newlyweds plan to start Westward on their honeymoon.

President Keeps Silent On Wedding of Elliott

(Associated Press.)

There was no comment at the White House yesterday regarding the reports of the forthcoming wedding today of Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, at Burlington, Ia.

The President did not discuss the matter even with intimate friends.

Transocean Flier Is Believed Lost

Dakar, Senegal, Africa, July 21, (AP).—Fears that another transatlantic flight attempt has come to grief was expressed today when no word came concerning a German aviator named Wirtschaft, who set out to fly across the South Atlantic in a small airplane with Pernambuco, Brazil, as his goal.

Wirtschaft hopped off from here Thursday soon after he arrived from Berlin, with stops at Barcelona, Spain, and Casablanca, in Morocco.

His take-off duplicated the recent unheralded departure of Capt. Stanislaus Skapzynski, Polish aviator, who flew from San Luis, Senegal, to Brazil last May without advance notice.

Dern and Wife Return To Salt Lake City

Salt Lake City, July 21 (AP).—George H. Dern, for eight years Governor of Utah, returned to his home State today as Secretary of War for the first time since he assumed that office.

With Mrs. Dern, he arrived at the Salt Lake Airport early this afternoon aboard an army transport plane. In the throng which greeted them were their daughters, Mrs. Harry Baxter and Miss Betsy Dern. Secretary Dern will speak at the National Governors' Conference in Sacramento, Calif., next week.

Louisiana Hangs Three For Police Slaying

New Orleans, July 21 (AP).—Three Negroes were hanged in quick succession in Orleans Parish Prison today for the slaying in 1930 of Patrolman William Blumstein, who was attempting to arrest them in connection with robbery. They had unsuccessfully taken their cases to the United States Supreme Court. Gov. Allen declined to interfere.

Oregon Wets Ahead, 3 to 2, In Early Vote

293 Precincts Ballot 21,169 to 14,419 in Favor of Liquor.

Will Be 20th State to Back Change; Colorado Goes to Poll in Fall.

Portland, Ore., July 21 (AP).—A great wave of wet votes in Multnomah County (Portland) and a substantial vote along the same line in the rest of the State indicated tonight that Oregon had voted for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

In the metropolitian area the vote against prohibition ran between three and four to one. In the rest of the State the wet total was considerably less.

Returns from 293 precincts out of 1,787 gave 21,169 for repeal, and 14,419 against repeal.

Trend Expected to Continue.

Twenty-seven Multnomah County precincts gave 1,655 for Federal repeal, and 497 against. The State repeal vote in the same metropolitian area was 1,513 for and 552 against.

All observers agreed there was every reason to expect the present proportion would continue and that Oregon would be the twentieth State to adopt the Twenty-first amendment, which would repeal the eighteenth.

Election officials estimated that less than half of the 444,009 registered voters exercised their franchise. Counting of the ballots was proceeding slowly, double election boards having been abolished.

(Associated Press.)

With three Southern States definitely chalked up on the side of the repealists, the voting on a Constitutional amendment that would eject prohibition from the basic law of the Nation shifted yesterday to the Pacific Coast State of Oregon.

At the same time, in the Nation's Capital Gov. Johnson of Colorado gave assurance that 36 States—the number necessary to ratify a Constitutional amendment—would vote this year. With 35 already having made definite arrangements to vote, Mr. Johnson said he would call a special session of his State's Legislature and ask it to fix September 5 as a date for balloting.

The nineteen States that so far have voted have approved repeal, the narrowest margin being that in Tennessee on Thursday. With a few score missing precincts, the repeal majority there was a little under 10,000.

Farley Still Optimistic.

This Postmaster General Farley said was "close but it's O. K." He reiterated his prediction that every State passing on the question would go for repeal.

F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Antisaloon League, said however, that without political pressure the State would have remained dry. He predicted repeal would be given a setback in 23 of the States yet to vote.

In Nashville, John F. Baggett, chairman of the prohibition campaign, charged the "grossest possible fraud" had been practiced in Memphis and Nashville and said the vote was being studied carefully with a view to contesting the election.

Russia Concentrating Troops at Frontier

Tokyo, July 21 (U.P.).—Usually reliable sources said tonight that the Soviet Russian army was busy concentrating forces east of China, in Siberia, and near the Manchurian frontier. The concentrations were said to be along the Onon River. Passengers on trans-Siberian trains said the windows of the coaches had been screened and they were forbidden to look out while passing through that area.

Representative Knutson Injured in Auto Accident

St. Cloud, Minn., July 21 (AP).—Representative Harold Knutson, of St. Cloud, was believed to have suffered two rib fractures today as he drove his automobile into a roadside ditch to avoid a collision.

He saw a car approaching as he passed a truck.

Job-Seekers Warned To Shun Washington

(Associated Press.)

The Public Works Administration yesterday warned job-seekers not to come to Washington because 99 per cent of them would be disappointed. Secretary Ickes, Public Works Administrator, said the staff at Washington would be limited to a small technical force. Employment on the projects themselves will be handled locally, he added.

Gulf Storm Warning Issued by Bureau

(Associated Press.)

The Weather Bureau last night issued the following storm warning:

Advisory, 9:30 p. m. Gulf disturbance, apparently of moderate intensity, centered about 200 miles east-southeast of Brownsville, Tex., moving north-northwestward about 10 miles per hour. Caution advised small vessels in path.

Norwegian Royalty Delays Visit to U. S.

Oslo, Norway, July 21 (AP).—Crown Prince Olaf and Crown Princess Martha have decided to postpone their visit to the United States, scheduled for the fall.

Reports from the farming districts of the Middle West, where many Norwegian-Americans live, have reached the crown prince, and fearing that his visit may be inconvenient to the population, he has postponed the trip until a more favorable time.

Minimum U. S. Pay to Wedded Folk Studied

President Awaits Report From Commission Before Acting.

By Robert C. Albright.

The President is taking no steps toward liberalization of the so-called married workers' clause of the economy act, pending a study of the proposal by the Civil Service Commission, it was stated yesterday at the White House.

This was the first intimation the Commission has been consulted in the matter of providing a minimum salary below which heads of departments will not go, in dismissing married employes whose mates are in the service.

It was known the question of re-employing married workers already dismissed has been under consideration by the National Industrial Recovery Board, of which Secretary of Commerce Roper is chairman.

Secretary Roper promises action on the proposal at the board's Monday meeting when an opinion by Attorney General Cummings on the extent to which liberalization might proceed under the law, will be thoroughly aired.

None Certified.

Meanwhile, the commission is certifying no married workers for re-employment, and recently stated it has no authority to do so under the law. Whether it will so report to the President on completion of the study the White House said it is making, could not be determined last night.

Definite instructions on preparation of a preferential list of all legitimate Civil Service jobless for reemployment in the new Federal agencies, yesterday was transmitted to the commission through Secretary Roper.

The President previously had advised Chairman Harry B. Mitchell to work out a plan for reviewing complaints of unfair efficiency ratings, many instances of which recently have come to light.

While the commission reported continued acceleration of appointments from existing reemployment lists, it became apparent yesterday that rehiring is not keeping pace with distress among Federal jobless.

Start Hunt for Jobs.

An independent effort to find work for needy workers who lost out in the hard-hit Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce was started yesterday by H. Russell Amory, personal officer for the bureau. He has the backing of Secretary Roper and other officials. The bureau's "distress list" yesterday carried abut 35 names. In addition, the bureau has been able to take back a few men to replace some transferred to jobs under the new national recovery set-up.

To obviate possibility of further reductions in the bureau, officials yesterday started to scale down salaries of those in key positions.

These reductions will range from $200 to $1,200 a year, officials said.

The action stood out in high contrast to appeals for wage increases in industry being broadcast by National Recovery Administrator Hugh Johnson.

Inquiry on Milk May Expand to Cover Country

The Washington milk inquiry is leading into such ramifications as to control that it likely will result in a national investigation by the Senate, Elwood H. Seal, special counsel of the Senate milk committee, predicted yesterday after a conference with a Baltimore attorney.

Seal also stated that reports so far from accountants checking the books of local dairies indicate there is at least a partial monopoly in local milk distribution, as both the Chevy Chase and the Chestnut Farms dairies are owned entirely by the National Dairy Products Corporation, with headquarters in New York. These two dairies sell about 65 per cent of the milk consumed in Washington.

The investigator yesterday heard the story of a milk truck driver who charged he frequently had been practically robbed of his meager salary of $18 a week by a series of deductions. If he failed to brink back all the bottles he was charged with, $2.50 was deducted, he said, and other deductions were made from time to time on unsubstantiated charges that he had failed to turn in all collections, although his accounts had checked previously.

Payless Some Weeks.

There were times, the driver told Seal, that he didn't draw a cent for a week's work, and even weeks when his deductions more than counteracted his salary.

Charles G. Page, Baltimore attorney for a group of milk producers who have filed a protest with the Department of Agriculture against a milk code submitted by the Maryland State Dairymen's Association, conferred with Seal yesterday afternoon.

It was agreed that an investigation would be made of the work of Isaac W. Heaps, coordinator of milk sales for Washington and Baltimore, who also is manager of the Eastern States Milk Marketing Association. Heaps draws $20,000 a year from the Maryland Dairymen's Association and $6,000, less 15 per cent, from the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association, which serves the District.

Hints Heaps Too Friendly.

Page charged in his brief that the Fairfield Western Maryland Dairy, which is owned by National Dairies and sells about 75 per cent of Baltimore's milk, had obtained an increase in salary for Heaps by offering him a $20,000 position. The brief intimated that Heaps is unduly friendly with National Dairies as a result.

One Washington dairy has confirmed findings of rate cutting, Seal said, and admits selling milk regularly priced at 13 cents a quart for 11 cents to favored customers.

Seal is studying copies of hearings recently conducted by the House of Commons of the Canadian Parliament during a milk inquiry which was based on complaints very similar to those being investigated in Washington.

Italian Plane With 4 Believed Lost in Sea

Rome, July 21 (AP).—The Italian Aero-Express Co., announced today it believed one of its seaplanes commanded by Maj. Giorgio Pesel Parvis, carrying a crew of two men and two Italian passengers, had been lost in the sea between Athens and Rhodes.

The announcement followed upon a search conducted by Greek and Italian airplanes and two torpedo boats since the seaplane was reported overdue at Rhodes Wednesday on its regular Brindisi-Athens-Rhodes cruise.

Recovery Plan Speeded By War-Drive Methods; Works Funds Loosed

Back at Desk Following Illness, President Resumes Routine.

Denies Speculative Buying Has Endangered Nation's Recovery.

By Lawrence Sullivan.

Completely restored by four days of relaxation in his study, President Roosevelt returned to his desk in the Executive Offices yesterday afternoon and immediately resumed his normal daily routine.

Amused by exaggerated reports of his illness which had been circulated in New York, Mr. Roosevelt assured his press conference that he had suffered only a slight indisposition and that he was ready now to resume active daily direction of the Administration's many-sided recovery program.

Informed of the groundless rumors which had attributed his brief holiday to a "grave illness," President Roosevelt laughed heartily and demanded, "Do I look it?"

A glance at his ruddy face was answer enough to his audience.

Unalarmed by Stock Prices.

The President also set at rest a report that he contemplated vigorous action to stem the sharp recession in security and commodity prices on the principal exchanges. Mr. Roosevelt is satisfied that this week's reaction in the speculative markets has in no way endangered the vast recovery program. He agrees that speculative buying may have overreached itself in both stocks and commodities, but he does not believe that the situation calls for any action by the Federal Government.

Earlier in the day, Gen. Hugh Johnson, director of the National Recovery Administration, had expressed about the same idea.

"I've been expecting this any day," he said vigorously. "Anybody who had a grain of information was bound to see that this was coming."

Meets With Cabinet.

This statement appeared to interpret perfectly President Roosevelt's view of the speculative reaction. The White House has repeatedly made a sharp distinction between firmly grounded price advances and that extra upswing which has been described in the highest official circles as "mere speculative froth." This distinction applies particularly to commodities, according to those who have heard the President on the subject.

After a state luncheon yesterday in honor of Ras Desta Demtu, the visiting representative of the Emperor of Ethiopia, President Roosevelt presided at the regular Friday Cabinet meeting and then held his routine press conference. He was at the Executive offices three hours.

Studies Works Program.

Earlier in the day he had conferred with Secretary Ickes and Budget Director Douglas on details of the public works program. Nominations for the ten regional advisers and the subsidiary State advisory boards were presented at the White House by Secretary Ickes. President Roosevelt plans to announce these appointments early next week.

To Go to Hyde Park.

After getting the public works program under full steam next week, President Roosevelt will close up shop at the White House for another 10-day vacation at his Hyde Park home. He plans a complete rest. He will return to the Capital about mid-August, and, unless unexpected developments then require his presence, he may return to Hyde Park for the remainder of the month.

The President has planned this vacation for at least two months. It was discussed informally at the White House before Mr. Roosevelt left on the Amberjack cruise, late in June. The final decision to leave Washington next Friday night, however, was not reached until it was certain that the industrial recovery and public works programs were well under way.

The President is gratified by the progress of the recovery program on all fronts.

Roosevelt Speaks Over Air Monday

Topic Is Unannounced, But Summary of Work Since Last Talk Is Likely.

President Roosevelt, speaking from the oval room in the White House, will address the Nation Monday night over combined networks of the National and Columbia Broadcasting Cos.

Although no indication has been given as to the President's topic, it is expected he will summarize activities of the administration since last reporting by radio May 7. He will speak from 9:30 to 10 p. m.

The Chief Executive also will broadcast on the following night. He is scheduled to give a brief greeting to the governors' conference at San Francisco, from 11 to 11:15 p. m.

Electric Industry Sets 40-Cent Pay

Manufacturers Agree on Hourly Wage Under Recovery Code.

(Associated Press.)

Electrical manufacturers last night recommended to the recovery administration a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour for that industry's code of fair competition.

This figure, reached after an afternoon of conferences, was five cents an hour more than the original recommendation. W. L. Allen, deputy administrator, who received the higher figure, had suggested that the industry seek an upward revision.

Along with the increase to 40 cents went a boost from $14 to $15 a week for the white collar classes. But the working week was left at 36 hours for factory employes and 40 hours for all others.

Stocks Tumble Again; Trading Record Is Set

(Associated Press.)

Stocks went into a tailspin yesterday in frenzied trading in the securities marts that had no counterpart since the 1929 crash, and suspension of grain trading at Chicago, Kansas City, Minneapolis and Duluth, was continued through today.

On the New York exchange, 9,592,370 shares were traded in the greatest turnover since October 30, 1929. The ticker was as much as 43 minutes behind, a new late record for the present high speed machine.

Prices were off on leading issues from 3 to 17 points, but support in the end of the trading session saw partial recovery and gave hopes, observers said, that the three-day recession was nearing an end.

Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade suspended grain futures trading for Saturday. Grain marts elsewhere were expected to follow suit. Futures trading in grains was suspended all over the United States yesterday, after action to that end by the Chicago board Thursday night.

Cash trading was permitted, but the business done was small. Already the grain marts have set regulations to limit daily fluctuations when futures trading is resumed.

Rumors that the New York and Chicago stock exchanges would close failed to materialize into fact. Cotton and securities markets in Chicago will operate today, closing at 11 a. m., one hour early.

Peter B. Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, said the grain futures suspension was extended after requests from outside exchanges and from the grain trade, generally, because clerical staffs were exhausted from handling the enormous amount of business.

Hitler Planes Scatter Handbills in Austria

Vienna, July 21 (AP).—Nazi airplanes today raided a long section of Austria bordering on Germany, from Reutte through Kufstein to Bischofshofen to Salzburg to Reid, scattering handbills denouncing the Dollfuss government and urging Austrian Hitlerites to action.

Defense planes took off in pursuit but were unable to overtake the Nazi craft. The Vienna government, convinced that the planes came from Germany, telegraphed the Austrian minister at Berlin to lodge a protest.

Lindberghs Forced Down in Labrador

Halifax, Nova Scotia, July 21 (AP). Slightly more than two hours after they had taken off from Cartwright, Labrador, for Julianehaab, Greenland, Col. and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh landed their plane at Hopedale, about 150 miles from Cartwright.

A wireless from Belle Isle to the marine department here said they turned back because of fog.

Three Burn to Death In Tank Car Blast

Gladwin, Iowa, July 21 (AP).—Three transients were killed today when an oil car of a freight train on the Milwaukee road exploded, set fire to the train, destroyed the Gladwin depot and a general store.

Carbo Named Secretary Of Ecuadorean Legation

Quito, Ecuador, July 21 (AP).—Luis Alberto Carbo, former president of the Mortgage Bank, today was named secretary of the Ecuadorean Legation at Washington.

Nationwide Educational Program to Utilize Every Medium.

Administration Officials Confident of Wage and Hour Acceptance.

By J. Bernard McDonnell.

Confident the stupendous blanket wage and employment increasing program will be successful, administration officials yesterday drove forward with their plans to revive the economic vitality of the Nation.

President Roosevelt, it was said, is pleased with results of the drive so far and is optimistic regarding the future.

Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, sponsor of the blanket wage and hours plan, was equally confident and disclosed that he had received many inquiries and pledges of support from business and industrial leaders.

Plans to insure the adoption of the blanket wage and hour schedules call for a Nation-wide program of education which will utilize every available means, from churches to theaters, clubs, trade and civic associations, radio and advertising.

Regional Organization.

Not since the heat of the war days has there been such an effort made to appeal to the patriotism of the American people.

Formation of the various regional and State organizations which are to supplement the central recovery organization in Washington was begun. Gen. Johnson called on State and city chambers of commerce throughout the country to nominate candidates for the various local boards which are to be named by the President and those which are to be set up as advisers to the President's boards.

President Roosevelt is to make a personal appeal to the Nation over a Nation-wide radio hookup on Tuesday. Gen. Johnson, Donald Richberg, general counsel of the recovery administration, and others are to make radio addresses later.

August 1 has been set as the date for the start of the "emergency" employment and wage-boosting drive, and before September 1 administration officials are confident they will have received the signed pledges of millions of employers to accept the voluntary code set forth by the President.

Copies of the agreement, which have been officially described as personal agreements between the individual employer and the President, are to be distributed to 5,000,000 employers through the country by the Postoffice Department. Addressed return envelopes will be given also so that signers of the agreements may return them promptly to the regional offices of the Department of Commerce. These offices are to act as the clearing houses for the various districts.

September 1 Code Deadline.

The volunteer agreements are to remain effective until such time as individual industries submit specific codes and these are approved. Each signer agrees to speed submission of these industrial codes. The President has fixed September 1 as the date by which all codes must be submitted.

Gen. Johnson took occasion to decry use of the word ballyhoo to describe the campaign which his administration is launching to win wide acceptance of the volunteer code, which prescribes a 40-hour work week with a $12 to $15 minimum wage for white collar workers and a 35-hour week with 35 cents minimum wage for industrial workers.

"I suppose," he said, "there is nothing so apprehended by every human being as the results of unemployment and the fear of unemployment. I do not believe I am looking at one man here who is not affected, although he has a job. I know I am, and there is nobody that I know personally that is not apprehensive about some relative that perhaps he is trying to support.

"What we are dealing with here is an emergency situation of people out of work, out of work after

Public Works List Is Okayed By President

Provides Sufficient Work to Give Every Jobless Man Week's Time.

(Associated Press.)

A new list of public works projects was approved yesterday by President Roosevelt, as his aids announced funds already allotted would provide enough direct employment to give every jobless man in the Nation a week's work.

The nature of the projects approved was not disclosed, but they were believed to be part of the Federal building program under consideration by the Cabinet Board for Public Works, or the rivers and harbors and flood control proposals which the President ordered restudied.

Distribution of the $3,300,000,000 public works fund was expected to be speeded by the two conferences held today between the Chief Executive and Secretary Ickes, his Public Works Administrator.

Assistant Secretary Woodring, of the War Department, announced at the White House that he, the President and Ickes had agreed to allocate from the public works funds sufficient money to maintain the Army arsenals.

Nominate Administrators.

The Army asked for $13,000,000 for the manufacture of ammunition, but the Cabinet board had not acted on this or other War Department estimates and was reported to be antagonistic to them.

Since July 4 the arsenals have been on a four-day week and War Department officials estimated $13,000,000 was necessary to keep them busy. Mr. Roosevelt is not expected, however, to approve the big Army housing and mechanization program originally placed before the Cabinet board.

Ickes gave the President his recommendations for regional and State administrators through whom the bulk of the public works fund will be spent. The Chief Executive prepared to give them a final survey.

Minimum Wage Set.

While Ickes was at the White House, the public works administration announced $754,276,188 had been distributed for projects that would provide 13,070,788 men weeks of work, or give a quarter of a million men a full year's work.

Workers on State and local relief projects financed through Federal funds will receive a minimum wage of 30 cents a hour.

This was assured under rules issued by Harry L. Hopkins, emergency relief administrator, who sought to carry out the spirit of President Roosevelt's reemployment agreement by setting minimum wages and maximum hours.

At the same time Hopkins announced that local relief units had been authorized to extend aid to destitute families of striking wage earners.

Rates on Freight Due to Be Slashed

I. C. C. Members Expected to Reach Decision for Release August 1.

(Associated Press.)

Railroad freight rates, a large item in the cost of living, appeared certain yesterday to be reduced on September 30 around $100,000,000 a year for the country as a whole.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has been considering whether to order a general decrease in basic freight rates throughout the country. Several weeks ago the commission took under consideration an appeal of farm organizations and producers of basic commodities for a general rate cut in line with current economic conditions.

None of the commission officials would discuss the situation yesterday, but from other quarters it became known that members of the commission hope to have the decision ready for release August 1.

In connection with this case it was recalled that the commission was relieved by the last session of Congress of the necessity of having to attempt to provide a minimum earning power for the carriers as a whole. Heretofore, the valuation of the railroads had to be considered and an effort made to produce around 6 per cent of net income, a task the commission never succeeded in accomplishing.

Dr. King Made Chief In Milk Adjustment

Dr. Clyde L. King, chairman of the Public Utility Commission of Pennsylvania, has been appointed chief of the dairy section by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Dr. King is an authority on dairy problems and marketing. He is the author of a book, "Price of Milk," and has served as arbiter of prices for several metropolitan milk markets.

Dr. King has held many official positions supervising milk markets in the Eastern States. In 1916-18 he was chairman of the Tri-State Milk Commission of Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware. Dr. King's first duty as chief of the dairy section will be to supervise marketing agreements in fluid milk zones.

WJSV Goes Silent; Transmitter Blamed

A sudden breakdown in the transmitter at Alexandria was given last night as the reason for radio station WJSV remaining silent for a 20-minute period. A musical program was interrupted from 8:55 to 9:15 p. m., while the trouble was corrected.

An application by WJSV for a permanent license was docketed for hearing yesterday by the Radio Commission. A protest from WHOM, Jersey City, N. J., caused the hearing order, it was announced. The Jersey station protested that the directional antenna used by WJSV set up interference.

Muscle Shoals Offers No Jobs, Is Warning

(Associated Press.)

The Tennessee Valley Authority yesterday appealed again to job seekers to stay away from Muscle Shoals, announcing there is no immediate need of labor there.

Many unemployed have gone to that vicinity, the authority said, under the misapprehension that Government work is available and are now stranded there.

"The plight of these unfortunates constitutes an unnecessary drain on local relief agencies," the authority said.

Divers Remove Safe of Sunken Treasure Ship

Former Mexican Emperor's Crown Jewels Believed in Strongbox.

Norfolk, Va., July 21 (U.P.).—The salvage tug Salvor wirelessed agents today that divers had removed the safe from the gold-laden steamer Merida, which went down in 1911 with $5,000,000 in golden nuggets, rubies and emeralds.

Capt. H. L. Bowdoin, commanding the salvage expedition, said the safe has not been opened.

The strongbox was believed to contain the crown jewels of the fallen Emperor Maxmillian, of Mexico.

The safe was salvaged from the purser's office, which adjoins a room in the hull believed to contain $4,000,000 in fortunes of the Madero revolutionists.

A few days before the Merida went down after a crash in the fog with the steamer Admiral Farragut, the revolutionists stormed Vera Cruz and placed their treasuries aboard the steamer.

6 Men and Woman Held in Rum Cases

U. S. Commissioner Frees Pumphrey Man After He Proves Innocence.

In a series of hearings yesterday before United States Commissioner J. Frank Parran, at Upper Marlboro, six men and one woman were held for the Federal court. All were charged with manufacture and possession of whisky.

Andrew Dennison, of Capitol Heights, whose case had been deferred since May 12, was among the first to be heard. Dennison, when arrested at the site of an alleged still near his home, was then awaiting trial on similar charges as the result of a previous arrest. Mary S. Knott and Huston Greenway, both of Clinton, Md., arrested yesterday by Federal agents, were held under $1,000 bond for the court. They were found near a 15-gallon still at Clinton.

Proving his innocence in connection with the operation of a 150-gallon still near Pumphrey, Md., Earl Cargill, of that town, was released by Commissioner Parran. Allie Cofer, Indianhead, Md., and Joseph Day. Pumphrey, both colored, who were arrested with Cargill, were held for the court.

Scope of Oil Industry Code Worries Heads

Must Determine If Rules Apply to All Stores Selling Products.

(Associated Press.)

Whether drug stores with a gasoline pump and similar retailers should adhere to the 40-hour week and minimum pay proposed for filling station employes yesterday put before the emergency National committee of the oil industry one of its most vexing problems.

How many retail outlets the labor provisions of the pending trade practice plan should apply to was discussed in a report of a subcommittee headed by Harry F. Sinclair, on which the full committee will decide what to recommend to the Government.

Before taking up Sinclair's report, the committee assured independent interests they would have equal representation with the big companies on the executive committee of the emergency committee, which met yesterday to prepare for the opening of hearings on Monday before Hugh S. Johnson, Industrial Recovery Administrator, on the proposed oil code.

Sinclair's report presented two diametrically opposed views, one calling for some form of regulation for all retail outlets and the other proposing the exemption from the code of all retail agencies.

"This is the most important thing we have before us, and one of the most difficult to handle," Sinclair said.

The difficulty arises, the report explained, because oil and its products are sold at retail by many agencies not exclusively engaged in the oil business, such as drug stores with gasoline pumps, hardware stores that sell lubricating oil, and the like.

One position was that it would be impracticable to apply the code to those outlets not exclusively engaged in distributing oil or its products which would mean "ruinous competition" to those under the code.

The report set forth that the estimate of 240,000 employes expected to be added by a 40-hour week would be reduced to about 94,000 if all retail outlets were not under the labor section.

The 26 members of the national committee representing the producing division were assigned to draw up one set of eight nominees, while the 28 members for the refining and marketing division will present eight others. The full committee will consider the names tomorrow.

Baptists Deplore Divorce Increase

Report Read at Charlottesville Session Shows Half of Marriages in Peril.

Charlottesville, Va., July 21.—At the closing session of the 143d annual meeting of the Albemarle Baptist Association, at Preddys Creek Church, erected 153 years ago, the report on social service and temperance, read by the Rev. Byron Davis, of this city, deplored the increase in the divorce rate and declared the most persistent enemy of society is the liquor traffic.

Referring to an estimate that by 1950, if there were no diminution of divorce rate increase, one-fourth of all marriage rites being celebrated in the United States would end in divorce, the report declared the prediction seems to be in course of fulfillment.

As a means of strengthening the home, the report advised that pastors preach more often upon the value of character rather than circumstances as the foundation of home life; that married persons and those about to be married be educated in divine beauty and design of the home.

Storm Crushes Huge Shed on 107 Workmen

1 Killed, 14 Hurt as Freak Wind Rips Ontario Ship Warehouse.

Point Edward, Ont., July 21 (AP).—A freak windstorm, ripping with sudden fierceness over the loading sheds of the Canadian Steamship Lines here today, lifted the 1,200-foot long structure into the air and dropped it on 107 workmen, killing 1, injuring 14 and imprisoning all for nearly half an hour.

Russell Main, 27, Sarnia laborer, was killed by a falling beam. The others, caught under the falling wreckage, suffered injuries ranging from broken legs and arms to minor bruises. All were taken to hospitals in Sarnia, where physicians said they would recover.

Witnesses said the storm struck suddenly during a heavy rain and subsided with equal suddenness. Two gusts of wind, they said, apparently met while traveling in opposite directions, creating a small tornado. The long, narrow shed was lifted into the air, dropping in sections onto the workmen below, who were busily loading sacks of flour onto freight cars.

All available police ambulances from Sarnia, a short distance to the south, and from Port Huron, Mich., across the St. Clair River, were rushed to the scene. Volunteer workmen, directed by provincial police, quickly aided the men in reaching safety.

Officials said they have not determined the damage to the sheds.

Two Scientists To Retire July 31

Retrenchment Forces Out Dr. T. S. Palmer and Vernon Bailey.

Two of the outstanding scientsts of the Biological Survey will be retired July 31, it was announced yesterday.

They are Vernon Bailey, chief field naturalist, who will soon be 70, and Dr. T. S. Palmer, well-known conservationist, who is 65.

Bailey has been in the Government service 46 years. Dr. Palmer has 44 to his credit.

Although Federal retrenchment is the indirect cause of their retirement, both men are ready to give up their jobs.

Bailey is rated as one of the thousand leading scientific men of the country. He is president of the American Society of Mammologists and a former president of the Biological Society of Washington.

Dr. Palmer is noted for his activities in game protection. He has acted as chief of the Biological Survey over extended periods.

Boycott Warning Given Americans

Palma, Mallorca, July 21 (U.P.). The five Americans released from Palma Jail yesterday after 44 days were alarmed today by native threats to boycott them pending their trial on charges of attacking a civil guard.

With strong anti-American feeling among the natives because of resentment of articles written by foreigners concerning Mallorca, there have been various indications of boycott in the last week, climaxed today by orders from four of the Americans to move out of their villa.

"We met our landlord this morning," said Roderick F. Mead, of New York, while he and Edmund W. Blodgett, of Stamford, Conn., were telling the story of their long imprisonment. "He said we must give up our villa at Saint Augustine, near Palma, where four of us have been staying before we were taken to jail.

"We don't know where we'll go."

Loudoun Doctors Back Roosevelt

Leesburg, Va., July 21 (AP).—Dr. W. O. Bailey, secretary of the Loudoun Medical Society, said today that the society at its June meeting authorized a letter to President Roosevelt "indorsing President Roosevelt's program and objecting to United States Senators Glass and Byrd not having supported him on several votes."

This week, Dr. Bailey said, the Fauquier Medical Society, meeting jointly with the Loudoun group, indorsed the letter and joined in a letter correcting a statement in the previous letter as to the number of times Senator Byrd had voted against administration measures.

Neither Dr. Bailey, nor Dr. Harry Gibson, president of the society, would make public the letters, but said they had no objections to reporters being present at meetings.

Nazis Expel Cleric In Church Protest

Bielefeld, Germany, July 21 (AP). The Rev. Martin Niemoeller, one of the closest collaborators of the Rev. Friedrich von Bobelschwingh, chosen late in May by non-Nazi Protestant Church groups as Reich bishop, today was excluded from the Nazi party. He had been a member since 1926.

The reason for the exclusion was that Niemoeller had joined a score of Westphalian Nazi ministers in a protest against the manner in which Nazi German Christians were dragging politics into the church, endangering church liberty.

It was expected the other signers also would be read out of the party.

Niemoeller collaborated closely with Von Bodelschwingh especially in the establishing of voluntary labor camps.

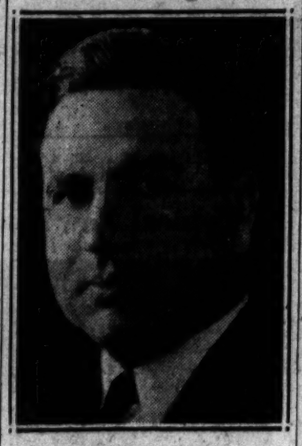
Submits Resignation.



ROY ST. LEWIS, last member of Little Cabinet of Hoover administration, resigns as Assistant Attorney General.

Roy St. Lewis Quits Justice Bureau Post

Last of the Hoover "Little Cabinet" Resigns as Aid to Cummings.

The President yesterday accepted the resignation of Assistant Attorney General Roy St. Lewis, who asked to be relieved of his duties August 5.

Mr. St. Lewis was the only remaining member of the little Cabinet of the Hoover administration and had been in charge of the civil division of the Department of Justice for the last two years.

Mr. and Mrs. St. Lewis, who have been living at Wardman Park Hotel, plan to leave soon for a vacation trip to Canada and Europe, after which Mr. St. Lewis will return to private practice.

Convicted of Murder.

As United States attorney in Oklahoma, he prosecuted many notorious criminals, among whom were W. K. Hale, a wealthy cattleman, and John K. Ramsey, who are now serving life sentences for wholesale murder of Osage Indians. Before his appointment to that position he was one of the Oklahoma attorneys for the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad.

In a letter to Mr. St. Lewis, accepting his resignation, the President said:

"I take this opportunity to express my appreciation of the services you have rendered the Government and to wish for you an abundance of success in the practice of your profession."

Praise for Cummings.

In his letter of resignation to the President Mr. St. Lewis spoke highly of the effective work Attorney General Cummings is doing.

Mr. St. Lewis is a member of the American Bar Association, Oklahoma State and County Bar Associations and the Kappa Sigma and Phi Alpha Delta fraternities. He is also a thirty-second degree Mason, a Shriner and a member of the Moose organization.

Helvering Outlines Cotton Tax Rates

Levy of 4.2 Cents a Pound Applies to Processors on August 1.

(Associated Press.)

Commissioner Halvering of Internal Revenue yesterday outlined the rates applicable to cotton products when the 4.2 cents a pound tax goes into effect upon processors August 1.

The 4.2 cents a pound rate will apply to cotton that has been ginned at the time it is put into processing or manufacture.

All cotton in process at the moment the tax takes effect, including yarn, fabric, thread, twines, roving, silver, laps and all other forms, will be taxed at the rate of 4.4184 cents per pound. The same rate would apply to the cotton content of any processed product and on separate retail stocks of cotton products held by a retail dealer and not sold within 30 days.

Talmadge Quotes Bible in Oustings

Atlanta, July 21 (AP).—Gov. Eugene Talmadge today threw the Georgia Public Service Commission out of office, quoted scripture in contending the commissioners had violated the laws of Moses, and appointed a new commission which immediately discharged everybody connected with the old order.

The governor found a lengthy hearing showed the commissioners had permitted power, telephone and freight rates to be fixed too high and had accepted favors of passes from railroad and bus companies.

It was the second State department the governor has taken charge of within a little more than a month. On June 19 he declared martial law, seized the highway department and the capitol offices with State troops and declared the offices of two highway board members vacated.

President Praises Balbo to Italian King

(United Press.)

The daring flight of Gen. Italo Balbo and his Italian air armada was hailed by President Roosevelt as "evidence of the many bonds of good will and true friendship which exists between our two countries."

He included this sentiment in a personal message to King Victor Emmanuel III. Acting Secretary of State Phillips also instructed Ambassador Long, at Rome, to convey to Prime Minister Mussolini Mr. Roosevelt's expressions of admiration for Gen. Balbo and his officers.

four years of the most exhausting depression that ever hit any country any time.

"Here is an effort to apply a general rule, with a complete set of safety valves to deal with the exceptions. You are going to have everybody under the authority of this act, which allows everybody to act together for the purpose of getting rid of this unemployment situation."

Gen. Johnson cited the willingness of industry to ban child labor. Employers were willing, he said, because they knew their competitors would do the same thing. He cited this as an example of what would be done in the future and auguring for acceptance of the volunteer code.

Three Groups Adjourn.

While the launching of the volunteer code occupied much of the spotlight of attention, the rest of the recovery administration machinery ground out its grist.

Public hearings on three industries were adjourned. These were on the codes submitted by the shipbuilding and repair, cloak and suit and the electrical industries. Hearings on the lumber industry continued.

Dr. William F. Ogburn, member of the Consumers Advisory Board of the administration, moved at the cloak and suit hearing to block unreasonable price advances. He urged inclusion of a provision to assure only reasonable advances in prices. Morris W. Heft, former president of the Merchant Ladies Garment Association, warned his fellow members that if prices continued to advance as rapidly as they have been, the result would be chaos. Labor pleaded for a 30-hour work week and a minimum wage higher than the manufacturers proposed.

Shipbuilders Divided.

Conclusion of the shipbuilding code hearing found labor and operators as far apart on the question of wages and hours as they had been at the beginning. Neither was there any indication that the lumber men had produced evidence to convert Gen. Johnson to their proposed schedules. The recovery administrator characterized the rates as entirely unacceptable. Deputy Administrator A. D. Whiteside, who conducted the hearing, said he expected to submit his recommendations to Gen. Johnson by Tuesday.

Hearings on the code of the electric industry were brought to a conclusion with prospects that an agreement would be reached between divisions of the industry on disputed provisions. Some had complained the code would tend toward monopoly. Others, such as battery manufacturers, wanted to be excepted from its provisions. Labor wants certain changes in phraseology, too, and these are to be discussed and a report submitted immediately.

Underwear Last Coded.

President Roosevelt, by executive order, brought the knit underwear and textile finishing industries under the provisions of the cotton textile code, pending approval of individual codes.

The American Lace Manufacturers Association, representing 75 per cent of the industry, submitted a code providing for a 40-hour week and a $13 minimum wage, with an 80-hour week limitation on use of machinery.

Representatives of both the coal and oil industries gathered in private meetings in hotels and in conferences with administration officials, trying to work out differences between groups prior to formal submission of codes.

Grayson Will Attend Ceremony for Bishop

Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson has been designated as President Roosevelt's representative at a celebration to be held July 25 in honor of Bishop Thomas F. Gailor, of Tennessee, it was announced yesterday at the White House.

The celebration will commemorate Bishop Gailor's fortieth year as Protestant Episcopal bishop of Tennessee, and his twenty-fifth year as chancellor of the University of the South. Admiral Grayson served the President as chairman of the inaugural committee.

Veteran Asks Search For Missing Spouse

A disabled war veteran in Durham, N. C., asked Washington police last night to start a search for his wife who is believed to be somewhere in Washington. The veteran, Charles B. Smith, stated that his wife, Lulu, started to Washington Wednesday to confer with the Veterans Administration concerning his compensation, and she has not been heard from since.

4 of Family Slain; Police Seek Fifth

Pembroke, Ont., July 21 (AP).—Four members of the Bradley family were killed today at their home at Demers Centre, Alumette Island. Police searched for a fifth in the belief that he was the slayer.

The dead are Joseph Bradley, 65; Mary Bradley, 68, his wife; Maria Bradley, 35, his daughter; and John Bradley, an uncle of Tom Bradley, 45, whom the police seek.

Neighbors heard a fight in the Bradley house between 5 and 6 o'clock this morning. They asked Father D. J. Harrington, of Chapeau, Que., to investigate, and he discovered three bodies on the floor. Apparently the victims had been killed by rifle bullets.

Later, while the authorities were searching the bush surrounding the little community, they found the body of John Bradley.

Mrs. Foraker, 86, Expires in Ohio

Was Widow of Former U. S. Senator and Governor of State.

Cincinnati, July 21 (AP).—Mrs. Julia Bundy Foraker, widow of a former Ohio governor and United States senator, died today at the age of 86.

Most of her lifetime on the "inside" of politics, she died wishing for a few more years in which to seek abolition of the direct primary and longer, but single, terms for elective officials.

With her when she died were her two daughters, Mrs. Florence Matthews and Mrs. Victor N. Pushman, of Washington, D. C. A third, Mrs. King Wainwright, lives at Bryn Mawr, Pa. Surviving also is a sister, Mrs. Eliza Wells, of Wellston, Ohio, her birthplace.

Lone Grey Vet Has His Day at Bull Run Rally

'Colonel' Rose Steals Show and Chuckles Drown Out Candidates' Speeches.

By Harold Stone
(Washington Post Roving Reporter).

Virginia's three Democratic gubernatorial candidates yesterday fought a battle of words all over the old Bull Run battle grounds—and lost. A white-haired "boy" of 87, in a worn gray uniform of the Confederacy, took them to camp like Beauregard took McDowell. Even the ghosts of this lone warrior's comrades, who are said to inhabit the battle ground, must have chuckled as they met, last night, to discuss the rout.

It all began with a picnic affair that was intended originally to be sort of a pilgrimage and memorial gathering on the battle ground. Then the politicians, Joseph T. Deal, W. Worth Smith, jr., and George C. Peery, decided here was a chance to get their messages across to a sizeable audience of voters. They were right—1,000 or more visited the battle ground during the day.

But the political speakers reckoned without counting "Col." A. F. Rose, of the Forty-third Virginia Battalion of Mosby's command. The "colonel," actually a private throughout his term of service with the Confederate forces, waited until two of the speakers had finished their addresses and the folks had just about finished the fried chicken and cake to stage his little show—then captured the audience completely.

Ladies Give Him a Hand.

The first speaker spoke at length and with feeling about taxes and help for the farmer and what have you. The second speaker spoke about some more taxes and some more aid for the farmer and various other issues dear to the heart of the politician and near to the pocketbook of the taxpayer. Then, with the weight of these discourses on their shoulders and the job of assimilating them ahead, the audience adjourned to the lunch baskets.

Everyone was about through eating—just to the stage where they were about to tear the morning's speeches apart and look them over, when someone upon the platform began singing "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia." It was the "colonel." Several of the ladies joined him. Then the audience took up the song.

From "Virginny" the "Colonel" went into:

"I'm an old-time Confederate,
Just an old-time Confederate;
I'm an old-time Confederate,
And it's good enough for me."

In a jiffy the whole crowd was singing. The "Colonel's" gray coattails stood straight out as he did a jig for the folks just as he had done for the rest of his comrades around the campfire back in '63. The "Colonel" was a boy, 16, then, but he doubtless did no better job of dancing then than he did yesterday.

Day Spoiled for Politics.

By the time he got through the "Colonel" had ruined the day for the politicians. With his songs and antics he had reminded the folks of the reason for their gathering. One of the thinning ranks of gray had challenged the forgetfulness of the day—and won.

Well, the final speaker began his talk.

"Do you mean to tell me that it is right to assess the property of an individual at 33 1-3 per cent of its value as a basis of taxation, and then assess the railroads the full valuation of their property?" he shouted.

"The 'Colonel' put on a mean dance fer an old man, didn't he?" came the voice near the reporter's elbow.

"Yep, sure did," was the reply.

"One of my worthy opponents is against everything," shouted the speaker. "His campaign card says he's 100 per cent against the Byrd administration. How can you——"

"Not many of the old Confederate veterans left, are there?" said the gentleman in the second row to the man across the aisle.

And So It Went.

"No, they're going fast," said the neighbor. "Shame, too. Guess we'll never know what those who fought here on this field really had to go through. It musta' been tough, though."

Finally, the speaker cut his speech short. The audience was thinking about something else—something closer to the heart of every true Southerner than politics—the reason for their pilgrimage to the battle grounds to pay tribute to those who "there gave their lives that the Nation might live." Only once did they respond to the address with applause, and that was when President Roosevelt's name was mentioned.

The speaking over, the crowd rushed up to shake the "Colonel's" hand, almost intruding upon the presentation of a Civil War belt, which belonged to a Capt. Chambers, to the battleground museum. The presentation was made by Mrs. Norma Hardy Britten for Camp 171 of the U. C. V., and was the gift of Robert W. Wilson, member of the camp, who went through the war with Capt. Chambers.

The belt was received by Senator John W. Rust, president of the National Battlefields and Confederate Parks Association. Senator Rust presided over the program of the day.

American Team Nears Bridge Play Victory

London, July 21 (AP).—The American team under the leadership of Ely Culbertson stretched its lead in the international contest contract bridge tournament, for a trophy posted by Charles M. Schwab, to 9,150 points tonight, leaving the English quartet an almost hopeless task in the remaining 50 boards.

The score at the end of the 250th board was United States, 83,200 points; England, 74,050.

3 Marines Hurt In Plane Crash As Motor Fails

Capt. C. T. Brooks Among Trio Injured in Fall at Chicago Port.

Chicago, July 21 (AP).—A new Marine Corps amphibian plane faltered as it climbed up from the Chicago Municipal Airport today and, with motor dead, plunged to the prairie with its crew of three.

Lieut. Theodore Millard, of Great Barrington, Mass., the pilot, received a fractured ankle and possibly internal injuries.

Capt. C. T. Brooks, Washington, received a broken leg and head bruises.

Less serious injuries were received by the chief gunner's mate, Michael Wodarczyk, nicknamed "Bad Mike." He is a veteran of the Fifth Marines, decorated with the Medal Militaire and two Croix de Guerre for services in France, and was a combat flier in the Nicaraguan campaign.

The single-motored plane, manned by the officers from Qauntico, Va., had started out with a sister ship for Belleville, Ill., and San Diego, where the two amphibians were to be put in service.

Lieut. Millard said his motor went dead when he had lifted the ship only 50 feet, barely clearing airport hangars, before it fell. Wings and landing gear were shattered by the impact and the plane nosed over on the ground.

The other plane turned back to the port.

Mrs. E. J. Everett Funeral Is Today

Long-Time D. C. Resident Dies as the Result of Fractured Hip.

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma J. Everett, resident of Washington for 62 years, will be held today at 2 p. m. at Calvary Baptist church. Services will be conducted by the Rev. Phillip Murray and Dr. William Allen Wilbur. Burial will be in Rock Creek cemetery.

Born 88 years ago in Nova Scotia, she was married in 1869 to the late Shepard S. Everett in Chelsea, Mass. She died yesterday in Garfield hospital as a result of a broken hip she received in a fall about 10 days ago. She had been living for several years with a daughter, Mrs. Prentiss Willson, 2940 Albemarle street.

Surviving are four children: William Wade Everett, George Nichols Everett and Mrs. Willson, all of Washington; and Mrs. Fred H. Hayn, of Los Angeles.

C. P. Waite Rites At Church Today

Funeral services for Charles P. Waite will be held at the home of a son, Dr. Charles P. Waite, jr., 4927 Brandywine street, today at 9:30 a. m., followed by requiem mass at St. Ann's Catholic Church, Tenleytown. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

After 32 years in the employ of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Mr. Waite was retired in 1928. He was born in Chicago. After a long illness he died Wednesday in Emergency Hospital.

Mr. Waite was a member of Royal Arcanum Society, National Union and the Plate Printers' Union. Surviving are two sons: Dr. Charles P. Waite, jr., and Loring F. Waite.

'Tim' O'Connor Dies; Colorful Career Ended

Cut in Pension Aggravated Illness of Veteran Park Policeman.

The colorful career of Timothy "Tim" O'Connor, 65, soldier and veteran park policeman, ended yesterday in death. He died at his home, 624 H street southwest, after an illness of several years.

Members of his family said last night that a heart condition had been aggravated by the news that his pension had been cut recently.

Born in County Cork, Ireland, Mr. O'Connor came to this country in his youth, joining the Army in 1888. Under Theodore Roosevelt, he saw service in the Battle of San Juan Hill and various other fields during the Spanish-American War. For his work in the Philippines and in China he was twice recommended for a certificate of merit.

After his discharge from the Army in 1902 he came to Washington and was given a place on the park police force, where he remained until 1928. He was the father of William O'Connor, Seventh Precinct policeman.

He is survived by Mrs. O'Connor and eight children, Mrs. Mary Crapo, Thersa, Joseph, William, Margaret, Catherine, Agnes and Elizabeth O'Connor, all of Washington.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Dominic's Catholic Church. Interment will be in Arlington National Gemetery.

"Brain Trust's" Victory Seen in Blanket Code

Dr. Tugwell Mapped Plan in 1929; It Goes Further Than Some Wanted.

By Raymond Clapper.
(Copyright, 1933, by United Press.)

In the instant during which press wires flashed into newspaper offices that President Roosevelt was calling upon every employer to join in a blanket recovery move, a major triumph was registered for the celebrated "brain trust."

True, there were some mixed feelings. In certain respects the plan goes further than some of the "brain trust" would go. Some opposed the high-pressure publicity feature and the implied boycott involved in encouraging consumers to patronize only business houses which display the Blue Eagle, signifying their cooperation with the National Recovery Administration.

On the whole, however, the NRA is the full blossoming of a plan which had long germinated in the brilliant minds of the "brain trust," including Dr. Rexford Tugwell, now Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, and Adolph A. Berle, now adviser to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and to a lesser extent Dr. Raymond Moley, Assistant Secretary of State, who is slightly more conservative in his economics than the other two. No one man was the exclusive author of the specific act. It was the product of many minds. Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson was especially active in drafting the act, drawing on his experience with the War Industries Board.

Lecture Room Incubation.

The underlying conception of regimentation of business through Government control goes back long before March 4. It was taking form in the college lecture rooms of the "brain trust" in the rollicking days of 1928-1929, when most persons thought the old system was about to guarantee a chicken in every pot and two cars in every garage.

Four or five years ago Dr. Tugwell, now 42, sharp-featured, with a razor-blade mind, was looking beyond the big board of the New York Stock Exchange, where steel was hitting 250. His recent book, "Industrial Discipline," was written about five years ago. It was published early this year.

In the book is the essence of the Roosevelt policy outlined back in the boom days by this young professor with suspension of the anti-trust laws, protection of consumers, of working standards and wage levels.

Tugwell's Definite Forecast.

He definitely forecast thus:

"The question whether we do not need something more than an enforcement of competition and a defining of its standards is being insistently raised. Do we need some kind of compulsion to efficiency, to adhere to the common purpose? It seems quite apparent to many theorists that the Government must supplement whatever forces there are in private industry which work in this direction; that it must modify its suppression of monopoly where these suppressive efforts interfere with planning for equilibrium.

"In doing this, it is said, it need not neglect the protection of workers and consumers; indeed, this protection is the reason for a change of policy. It must, for instance, require that wider planning and closer integration among businesses shall not result in so limiting production as to restrict consumers' access to foods. It must also require that working standards and wage levels shall be protected. They can and should be consistently increased as more efficient central organization is achieved."

The college professor who thus forecast what is now being attempted in Washington has in the meantime become one of the chief advisers to the President and is himself one of those in authority in administering one phase of the program.

Balbo Whiskers as Fashion Won't Do, Capital Girls Say

Man Has to Look Very Handsome to Wear Them, One Woman Says; Adorn Italian Youth to Make Them Seem Important.

Bicycles, maybe, but Balbo beards, never!

This cheerful news comes to Washington men from Washington women. Sweeping eastward is a fad of bicycle riding, just about to claim its disciples in Washington. The prospect is not so pleasant for the swains who prefer a side-by-side seat for two, with no more exertion than is required to depress an accelerator.

But Balbo, sweeping out of the East with his beard, has threatened to set another and more disturbing style. Some Chicago men already have started such beards. Naturally, what the women think of American men with beards is important, and the crowds that hailed the Italian hero were questioned.

"Well," said one young lady. "It doesn't look so bad on him." And then she looked very searchingly at the features of the reporter. "But one would have to be very handsome to wear such a beard effectively." The opinion of such a person is not worth considering.

"They tell us the youthful official in Italy must wear such a beard to appear worthy of the responsibility he bears," said another beard-style arbiter. "We don't think our American men need such a superficial mark of distinction." Smart girl, that!

"Upon close examination," said one of the girls fortunate enough to enjoy face-to-face conversation with the general, "I must say the adornment seems to be a bit moth-eaten. I've tried to picture my Henry with such a beard, and the thought is painful. And besides, Balbo lisped a bit Do you suppose the beard could have caused that?"

So it looks safe for a while, boys. We may have to pedal some two-seater bikes, but we won't have to trim Van Dykes.

Missing Girl Wedded; On Her Way to Europe

Clinton, Conn., July 21 (AP).—Search for Miss Natalie E. Carr, 19, of New York, who left her aunt's home here July 13 and did not return, has been ended by State police at request of Mrs. Emily Carr, of New York, her mother.

Mrs. Carr today said she had received a letter from her daughter containing the information that Miss Carr was married to "Tom," a Yale graduate who had been working as a garage mechanic, and was on her way to Europe.

U. S. Delegates Going Back to London in Fall

Agreements on Grain Output and Silver Still Main Objects of Parley.

By Harold T. J. Horan.

The American delegation will return to the economic conference when it meets again in the autumn, it was learned here yesterday in high official circles. Although the American delegates will not enjoy the respite of the spa season and the grouse shooting, as their European colleagues will, they will nevertheless return to London to grapple with the problems that are still left unfinished.

The main points of discussion for the delegates then will be substantially what they have been now, namely, some measure of agreement on world grain production and an international agreement on silver. On both of these points the American delegation have been actively leading the other delegates.

This will not preclude the other features of the agenda from the conference. There still seems to be no indication that the United States will definitely take up the matter of currency stabilization, although it was freely admitted that internal recovery of the United States after three or four months will have reached the point where a certain degree of comparative economic stability has been secured.

U. S. "Pat" on Currency.

At the end of two or three months, the President will have the advice of many of his councilors, who, like Bernard M. Baruch, will have spent some time there and will be able to report on the probable result of any stabilization. These considerations give rise to optimistic predictions about the activity of the second phase of the economic conference.

It was emphatically made clear that the continuance of the conference is regarded here as a very necessary feature of the world recovery, and that under no circumstances would the United States participate in any move to end its labors now.

Senator Pittman has been actively engaged in canvassing the delegates of the various nations in an effort to round up a certain degree of unanimity among them for silver. To date, his efforts have not been completely successful. The time between now and autumn will certainly do much to help along the case of silver agreement, and perhaps clear the way for definite understanding between the delegations at that time.

The grain problem is of another stamp. There, the outlook for international agreement to reduce acreage or control prices seems not so favorable. One of the most difficult factors that Henry Morgenthau has had to deal with at the conference has been the opposition from certain Danubian countries which had adjusted the wheat problem to their own satisfaction and decline to make any rectification of their agreements now. Then again, the spirit of cooperation has been lacking among the delegates of the various nations, on many matters, but chiefly on the matter involving international grain agreement.

Hull Due Here Soon.

All of these common problems will be helped by the forthcoming recess of the conference. Secretary of State Hull is expected to be in Washington shortly after the first of next month and he will then take up the threads of the conference from this side. Perhaps in informal diplomatic negotiation, he may get further in his tariff program than London has permitted.

In the meantime, the negotiations of the United States for reciprocal tariff agreements with Sweden and Portugal of the European nations and with Argentina, Colombia, Brazil, and eventually Chile and Uruguay, continue here. Their successful culmination will do much to bring the London Conference at its next session to another appreciation of the American tariff position and Secretary Hull undoubtedly find considerably more agreement with his proposals.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick's Services Today

Requiem Mass to Be Held at Church of Blessed Sacrament.

Requiem mass for Mrs. Elizabeth Kelly Fitzpatrick, wife of Dr. John C. Fitzpatrick, George Washington Bicentennial Commission editor, will be held this morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, Chevy Chase Circle. Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery. The Rev. Thomas G. Smythe, rector of the church, will officiate.

Pallbearers will be Dr. Leo F. Stock, Dr. Charles Paullin, Dr. Edmund C. Burnett, Dr. James Meng, James N. Fitzpatrick and George T. Howard.

A native of Trenton, N. J., Mrs. Fitzpatrick has lived in Chevy Chase for the past four years and in Washington for the prior six years. Until recently she was a research worker with the Bicentennial Commission. She was graduated from the Sacred Heart Academy, Trenton, and St. Elizabeth's College, Convent Station, Trenton, N. J. Mrs. Fitzpatrick had been ill for ten days with pneumonia. She died Wednesday at her home, 6508 Brookeville road, Chevy Chase, Md.

Maj. Gen. C. G. Morton Will Be Buried Here

San Francisco, July 21 (AP).—The ashes of Maj. Gen. Charles G. Morton, retired, who died from an infection caused by premature explosion of a firecracker, were sent East today for burial at Arlington National Cemetery.

The body was cremated here.

Mother, Daughter Granted Paroles

Frankfort, Ky., July 21 (AP).—Mrs. Daisy Wright, 23, mother of a six-months-old baby boy, and her mother, Mrs. Grace Chapman, 43, will be eligible for release from the State Reformatory here August 2, as a result of paroles signed today by Acting Governor A. B. Chandler on recommendation of the Department of Public Welfare Board.

The baby, Danny Lee Wright, who was born here February 2, the same day the mother was received from Greenup County to serve a year's sentence for grand larceny, has been cared for at the prison by the mother and grandmother. The baby also has had attention of other inmates of the women's department.

Mrs. Chapman was sentenced in Greenup County to serve a year's sentence on the same charge as her daughter. They formerly lived in Huntington, W. Va.

New York Goes Wild as Balbo Airmen Parade

Two Million Persons See Procession; O'Brien Presents Medal.

New York, July 21 (AP).—The narrow streets of the financial district rang today with shouts for Gen. Italo Balbo as the Italian air minister and his companion aviators paraded up Broadway under a swirling mass of ticker tape and confetti.

The official civic reception for the 96 men of the air armada reached a peak of excitement almost equal to that exhibited over the return of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh from his flight to Paris.

From the Battery to City Hall Gen. Balbo and his men rode behind rows of khaki-clad soldiers, bluejackets, and marines to receive the formal acclaim of what Mayor John P. O'Brien described as the "largest Italian city in the world."

At a brief ceremony in the aldermanic chamber the mayor pinned on the breast of the youthful air minister the city's gold and platinum medal of valor. He presented other medals to the full company of aviators.

Credit to Mussolini.

"I would like you to understand," said Balbo, in a brief speech of appreciation, "that my mission would not be complete if I did not explain that it was the organizing genius of Benito Mussolini which made the flight possible.

"He told us to come to America—and here we are."

Then he ended suddenly: "Viva America!" Viva Italia!"

Chief Inspector John O'Brien estimated that more than 2,000,000 persons witnessed the procession between the Battery and Midtown Hotel, to which the Italians were escorted for luncheon.

But the largest—and noisest—throng was along the portion of the route to the City Hall.

From the mayor's reception the fliers skirted the edge of the city's Italian section, where another tremendous ovation was given them. Then the procession rolled on uptown amid continued rounds of cheers.

Rossi Attends Luncheon.

Ambassador Rossi of Italy was among the guetss at the luncheon given by Generoso Pope, chairman of the reception committee. He alone had ridden with Balbo during the parade.

After the luncheon the aviators were rushed to Long Island City, where in Madison Square Garden Bowl, 70,000 members of Italian-American societies waited to greet them.

Then their program called for a dinner and afterward a reception and supper arranged by the Italy-America Society.

Tomorrow and Sunday the Italians have asked for a chance to rest in preparation for their homeward flight, which is set tentatively to start Monday.

Hawks Plans Nonstop N. Y.-to-Regina Flight

New York, July 21 (AP).—Frank Hawks, speed flier, announced today that on Monday he will make a nonstop flight from New York to Regina, Saskatchewan, to be present at the opening of the grain exhibition there.

He said he hoped to cover the 1,620-mile distance in about 10 hours.

Mrs. Lucy Swanton Rites Set for Today

Headed Women's Single Tax Club and Led in Other Bodies.

Funeral services for Mrs. Lucy R. Swanton, 1464 Belmont street, will be held at the Church of the Holy City today at 2 p. m. Mrs. Alice Thatcher Post will direct the services. Burial will be private.

Born in Jamaica, Long Island, she came to Washington after she was married to Walter I. Swanton in St. Louis in 1904. She was president of the Women's Single Tax Club, chairman of the education committee of the Columbia Heights Citizens Association and a member of the Order of the Eastern Star, the Mount Pleasant Chapter of the W. C. T. U. and the Laymen's League of the Homeopathic Foundation.

Surviving are her husband; two daughters, Lucy and Edith; a son, Walter, and her mother and brother, who live in St. Louis.

Mrs. Frank P. Randall Dead.

Mrs. Frank P. Randall, an employe in the adjutant general's office of the War Department for several years before her marriage four years ago, died Wednesday in St. Petersburg, Fla., following a brief illness. Mrs. Randall was formerly Emma H. Zigler, of Washington. She will be buried in St. Petersburg.

Fred Eden Files Suits In Illinois Auto Crash

Peoria, Ill., July 21.—Two damage suits for $5,000 each were filed in Peoria County Circuit Court today by Fred Eden, Washington, D. C., referee in bankruptcy, against Al Cohen, of Chicago, following an automobile accident Thursday in which Mr. Eden and his son James were cut and bruised.

Cohen, who was arrested after his automobile crashed into the car in which Mr. Eden, his son and brother, E. J. Eden, Pekin, Ill., were riding, gave bail today for a hearing in police court July 27 on charges of reckless driving and failure to stop for a boulevard.

Prof. Vaughan Resigns Post At Georgetown

Surgeon to Be Succeeded by Dr. J. A. Cahill, Jr., Staff Member.

Severing the active ties of 35 years with the Georgetown University Hospital and Medical School, Dr. George Tully Vaughan, 74, has resigned as chief surgeon and professor of surgery. He has been succeeded by Dr. James A. Cahill, jr., promoted from the medical faculty.

Dr. Vaughan had been identified with the Georgetown Hospital longer than any other staff member, with the exception of the late Dr. George M. Kober. He joined the hospital as chief surgeon the year it was established, 1897. He served as a major in the Spanish-American War as a surgeon, with the American forces that occupied Vera Cruz in 1914 and during the World War.

Dr. Vaughan resigned because of advanced years. He will be retained in the capacity of professor emeritus.

Dr. Cahill, who was graduated from the school in 1915, served during the World War as a captain in the Army Medical Corps.

Dr. Cahill is a fellow of the American College of Surgeons and active in the American Medical Association and Medical Society of the District of Columbia.

G. W. Lecturer Sees New Canal As Aid to Peace

Predicts Central American Objections to Waterway Will Vanish.

"Hope for the establishment of a great Central American republic and the prospect of developing the region through an interoceanic canal across Nicaragua have been underlying motives shaping the history of Central America," Dr. Roscoe Joy Hill, of the Nicaraguan Claims Commission, explained yesterday in the last of a series of lectures at George Washington University.

Central Americon union has never been attained, however, because "there are too few sincere unionists and far too many politicians, who prefer to act on the small stage of the separate republics," he said.

With such a varied racial makeup as is found in the five states, it is stretching a point to speak freely of the "Central American family," Dr. Hill pointed out. There are divergent viewpoints and characteristics, he declared.

Back of all the relations between the United States and Nicaragua has been the canal idea, he said. Protection of the Panama Canal, elimination of the possibility of competition through another canal built by some other power, and the security which would be obtained through two canals controlled by the United States, have been the objectives sought, he asserted.

The speaker predicted that when the United States is ready to build the canal all the objections of the Central American states will fade and the final arrangements will be carried out with ease and in perfect harmony among the countries.

Silence Broken, Uncle Believes O'Connell Safe

Leader of Clan Discounts Secret Return of Man or Ransom Reports.

Albany, N. Y., July 21 (AP).—Rumors that a ransom had been paid for the kidnaped John J. O'Connell, jr., that he had been returned secretly and a score of other reports were swept away today when Edward J., head of clan O'Connell, for the first time answered the questions of reporters. The interview was by telephone.

Ed, uncle of the missing youth, and a power in New York State Democratic circles, answered 14 questions submitted. Until today, he and Daniel P., the other uncle, and John J., sr., (Solly), the father, had refused to talk of the kidnaping. Neither would they aid the officers. Silence, the kidnap band warned, was necessary to insure the hostage's safety. Young O'Connell was kidnaped July 7.

Ed said no ransom had been paid, and he added he had no information that it was anything but a ransom snatch. Politics, beer and revenge all had been advanced as possible motives.

Only through the remote and indecisive exchange of notes has the family been in contact with the abductors, added O'Connell. The notes were letters from the gang demanding $250,000 and lists of go-betweens. The O'Connell answers were advertisements in Albany and New York City papers in code.

"Do you believe the boy is safe?" was one of the questions.

The voice of the unruffled political "boss" faltered a bit as he answered "Yes." Asked a reason for the optimism, he replied, "Just a feeling."

The present status of the case, explained the captive's uncle, was "waiting for news," which was not further explained.

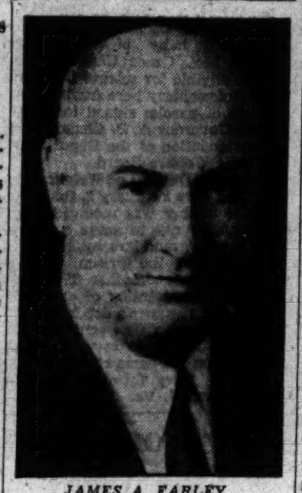
Farley Accepts Invitation As Fire Parade Chairman

Postmaster General Joins War Secretary Dern to Aid Firefighters.



JAMES A. FARLEY.

Postmaster General James A. Farley joined hands with Governmental and District heads yesterday in helping firemen make this year's Labor Day parade the biggest in its history.

Mr. Farley, in a letter to the parade committee, stated his willingness to serve as an honorary chairman of the parade committee. On Thursday Secretary of War George H. Dern accepted an invitation for an honorary chairmanship.

This marks the first time that high Government officials have helped the fire fighters with their greatest of all celebrations, and the news of their cooperation was heartily received by District firemen and volunteers in Maryland and Virginia.

Possibility that two more governors may sit with Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland and review the parade was seen yesterday as Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, parade marshal, heard from Gov. Harry Moore of New Jersey and Gov. Hill McAllister of Tennessee.

Both State executives said they were making plans to be in Washington for the Labor Day event, and that if nothing interferes they will watch fire fighters from all parts of the country march by in the most colorful pageant ever participated in by firemen.

Both the New Jersey and Tennessee governors expressed their approval of such a parade as the Labor Day event, and it is believed that their interest will help in securing fire companies in their respective States for the celebration.

Yesterday the parade committee was informed that the District Fire Department this year will change platoons so that firemen who have missed the parade in the past will be able to view this one.

Sergt. Bargagni stated he was revising his list of chairmen from members of the department to conform to the new platoon arrangement, and, when this is completed, will call a meeting of his associates.

Meanwhile, Noble F. Rushe, vice president of the National Firemen's Association; George Finger, its organizer; Alfred L. Geiger, its treasurer, and T. Weston Scott, its secretary, are busy on plans for the parade. Many details are being taken care of by this group, especially the convention, which will be held on Sunday night before the parade Labor Day.

World-Famous Geologists in Session Today

New Discoveries Are to Be Reported and Discussed at Congress Here.

Geologists from throughout the world will open the sixteenth session of the International Geological Congress in Washington today.

Many new and momentous discoveries by the men of science who make the earth's rocks read history are expected to be reported in the papers to be read before the group.

The session will begin this morning with a meeting of the council of the group at the United States Chamber of Commerce Building.

Historic time—the measurement of the antiquity of the earth and of the various great epochs of its history—will be the subject of several papers by leading geologists at the technical session in the afternoon.

Included among the speakers on geologic time will be Dr. Alfred C. Lane, of Tufts College, who will report on "Rating the Geologic Clock." "Dating by Radioactivity" will be the subject of Dr. W. G. Foye's paper.

Each night an entertainment will be provided for the visitors. Tonight it will be a smoker at the Shoreham Hotel, preceded by an address by Douglas Johnson on "A Geomorphic Traverse of the United States."

Matthew Hanna Gets Guatemala Diplomat Post

Is Career Man Who Entered Service in 1917; West Point Graduate.

Continuing the reshuffling of our ministers to Central America, President Roosevelt yesterday appointed Matthew E. Hanna to be Minister to Guatemala.

Mr. Hanna entered the diplomatic service in 1917, after a career in the Army. He is now Minister to Nicaragua.

The reshuffling process started recently when Jefferson Caffrey, Minister to Colombia, was appointed Assistant Secretary of State. Sheldon Whitehouse, Minister to Guatemala, was transferred to the legation in Colombia. Mr. Hanna will fill the White House vacancy, but this leaves a vacancy in Guatemala.

Mr. Hanna graduated from West Point in 1897 and served in the War with Spain. He was cited for gallantry at the Battle of San Juan Hill, and later served as aide-de-camp to Gen. Leonard Wood. His Army career includes duty as military attache at Havana and a period during which he was a special agent of this country in Panama. He has been an instructor at the War College and a captain on the General Staff. He was special U. S. representative at the German maneuvers in 1911.

He initiated his diplomatic career by volunteering for duty in the embassy in Mexico City in 1917. He served there until 1921 when he became chief of the division of Mexican Affairs of the Department of State. Mr. Hanna held this Washington post until 1924 when he went to the embassy at Berlin. He has been Minister to Nicaragua since 1929.

The President also yesterday appointed Fowless W. Lanier to be U. S. Attorney for North Dakota, and John W. Holland to be U. S. Attorney for the Southern District of Florida.

Party Plum Lost In Anne Arundel

Immigration Post Ended; Frank S. Revell Was in Line for It.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 21.—Democrats of Anne Arundel County in general, and Frank S. Revell, party leader, in particular, were given a severe jolt today when it became known that the post of immigration commissioner for the district, including Maryland, for which Mr. Revell was slated, has been abolished by the Government's economy.

Thomas B. R. Mudd, Republican, of Charles County, who had held the office since 1923 by appointment of the late President Coolidge, yesterday formally resigned. It is planned to have only a district director in the future, and the duties have been assumed by Albert R. Archbald, who has been under civil service since 1904. Archbald is a native of Massachusetts.

The immigration post paid a salary of $5,600 and there had been a scramble for it since the beginning of the Roosevelt administration. Leaders had centered on Mr. Revell in a field of more than a dozen. Mr. Revell is a clerk of the Anne Arundel County Circuit Court.

Ethiopian Crisis Lifts—

Prince, Whose Air Force Was Wrecked by American Aviator, Presents Lion Skins to President Roosevelt.

(United Press.)

International diplomacy survived a crisis yesterday when President Roosevelt and Prince Ras Desta Demtu, of Ethiopia, managed to have luncheon together, despite the fact one of them was indisposed and the other was on a partial religious fast.

Mr. Roosevelt, who has been slightly ill for four days, invited Secretary of the Navy Swanson, Acting Secretary of State Phillips and a group of Army and Navy officers to meet the Prince, who is the son-in-law of Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, conquering lion of the tribe of Judah and defender of the faith.

Reports drifting out of the White House dining room indicated the Prince was enjoying American food, despite his partial fast.

Something worried Washington yesterday. It was what kind of costume the prince would wear to a luncheon. When he arrived four days ago he was wearing a pair of riding breeches, a white hat and a dark, knee-length coat. Why he selected riding breeches for a train trip remains unexplained.

Gaudy Garments.

But the next day he did a quick-change act and appeared in a 3-foot hat of lion skin, satin trousers and a waist-length coat. There was considerable excitement around the White House today as to what costume the prince would choose. No one was surprised when he showed up in tight-fitting white trousers and a white coat embroidered with green. What did come as somewhat of a shock was the fact that the prince chose a pith helmet similar to those used by African lion hunters. On the front of the helmet was the golden star of Judah.

Lion Skins for President.

In the blue room of the White House, while the Marine Band still was blaring the Ethiopian national anthem, the prince opened a box he has been jealously guarding since his arrival.

He took out two lion skins and handed them to President Roosevelt. The President said he was delighted to have two lion skins, especially since the prince had gone to the trouble of killing the lions himself.

Then the prince took out a photograph of Emperor Haile Selassie, elaborately framed in gold, and handed that to Mr. Roosevelt. The President said he was delighted to have that, too.

The prince bowed low, almost to the tip of his patent leather shoes, and said he was delighted to give the President two lion skins.

Then everybody went in to lunch.

Washed Out Air Force.

The prince's visit was made to thank the United States for sending a delegation to the recent coronation of Emperor Haile Selassie.

For during the coronation the dark clouds of controversy blotted out the sunlight between Ethiopia and the United States of America, all caused by Col. Hubert Julian, an American Negro aviator. The emperor accorded Julian the honor of flying his favorite plane. He did a power dive right in front of the emperor's throne. Result, a bad crack-up, in which the plane was hurt much worse than was the colonel.

Ethiopian imprecations filled the air, the emporer banished the colonel right on the spot, and it looked like international complications would ensue. It seems that in a single power dive the colonel had rendered the Ethiopian air force extinct.

But Mr. Roosevelt and the prince patched that all up today. There are now no hard feelings.

Woman Goes to Jail, Convicted of Assault

Beatrice Simms, Rosaryville, Md., who was arrested July 15 on charges of assaulting Bertha E. Brown, Rosaryville, was fined $10 and costs in the Marlboro police court yesterday. Unable to pay the fine, she was committed to the Marlboro jail. Cecil Brown, Rosaryville, arrested at the same time by County Policeman G. W. Gray, paid a fine of $18.50 for assaulting William Brown.

Another assault case, which occurred a few days later at Trueman's Point, resulted in the court imposing a fine of $15 and costs on Ralph Bailey, Eagle Harbor. The arrest was made by Policeman R. A. Naylor.

Given New Post.

MATTHEW E. HANNA,
Minister to Nicaragua, who was yesterday appointed Minister to Guatemala. Mr. Hanna was stationed here from 1921 to 1924 as chief of the division of Mexican Affairs of the Department of State.

Federal Home Loan Offices Ready Monday

Kiwanis Camp Is Ready; Street Name Changing in Alexandria Fought.

The Washington Post Bureau.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The Home Owners Loan Corporation will open its offices in the rooms of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce in the 100 block North Washington street on Monday, with H. Bruce Green, of Arlington County, in charge and Lewis M. Ansley, of Alexandria, as chief appraiser. The furniture for the office, which is being furnished by the Government, arrived yesterday and is now being installed.

It is understood a large number of persons will shortly make application for loans to the local office. This office will make loans for Alexandria, Winchester and Fredericksburg, and the counties of Arlington, Clarke, Culpeper, Fairfax, Fauquier, Frederick, King George, Loudon, Madison, Orange, Prince William, Rappahannock, Stafford and Spottsylvania.

The Boys' Camp of the Alexandria Kiwanis Club, located in Fairfax County, 7 miles southwest of Alexandria, will be formally opened Monday, according to present plans. Five boys registered at the camp Thursday and spent the night, and ten more will be escorted to the camp Monday morning by members of the club, headed by President Irving Diener, leaving the city at 8:30 a. m.

A limit of ten days at the camp has been placed for each relay of boys and girls, so as to afford the privileges to as many as possible. Clarence K. Ale will be instructor of the boys; the Alexandria Nurses Association will provide a nurse, and there will be a cook, private rooms having been provided for these. The boys will sleep in the large dormitory.

In referring to the list of candidates for delegate to the Virginia House of Representatives in the Democratic primary of August 1, the name of Joseph H. Kretchmer was inadvertently omitted.

The candidates are J. Fred Birrell, incumbent; Clyde B. Lanham, Paul L. Delaney, Thomas Priest and Joseph H. Kretchmer.

The Alexandria Park and Planning Commission has decided to submit to the city council recommendations for changes in the names of 60 to 70 streets in the Rosemont section and the newly annexed territory. Some of these proposed changes are considered necessary because of duplications and in other cases streets will be given the names of prominent Virginians.

It was recently proposed to change the name of Lee street to Water street, the latter, it was claimed, having been the original name; and also to change Russell road, Washington terrace and Braddock road. These changes, however, were decided against.

A former attempt to change the names of Alexandria streets met with such decided opposition on the part of residents that the matter was dropped after being referred to the city council for action. Opposition to some of the changes now proposed was also encountered. The desire of the Park and Planning Commission is to have the name of the streets arranged in alphabetical order. A former plan proposed to use numbers instead of names in many cases.

A counterfeit $10 bill was tendered yesterday to Mrs. Edgar S. Bayol, cashier of the Virginia Public Service Co. in Alexandria by the proprietress of a rooming house, in payment of an electric light bill. The woman explained that she had received the spurious note from a transient roomer who spent one night in her house, paid his bill with the counterfeit and received change.

Compromise Reached On Fair Gate Closing

Chicago, July 21 (AP).—A midnight gate-closing rule for the Century of Progress, and 2 a. m. closing hour for concessionaires, except on Saturdays, was the compromise agreed upon today by fair officials and a concessionaires' committee. On Saturday nights concessions may remain open till the last patron leaves.

Fair officials, who had previously proposed that fair gates close at 11:30 p. m. and concessions at midnight, said that enforcement of the new rule would be tempered with consideration for visitors. Concessionaires had urged gate closing at 1 a. m. and a 3 a. m. closing hour for concessions.

Educators See Need of Change In High Schools

Dr. Spaulding, of Harvard, Urges "Six-Three-Three" as Basis of System.

Investigation indicated the value of reorganization of the educational system on the basis of the six-year elementary school, three-year junior high school, and three-year senior high school in place of the old eight-year elementary, four-year high school system. Dr. F. T. Spaulding, of Harvard University, yesterday told the George Washington University Conference on the National Survey of Secondary Education at its closing session.

Dr. Carl A. Jessen, of the Office of Education, summed up for the conference the significant findings of the investigation into 994 high schools in this country, which was conducted by the National Survey.

The value of the survey is twofold, he said. In the first place, educational administrators, teachers, professors, school board members, and others interested in the improvement of secondary education, Dr. Jessen explained, may discover from the survey what are the practices of outstanding schools. In the second place, the procedures of the survey were set up in such a way, he added, that they can be duplicated in the local school system so that the school official who wishes to investigate his own local situation can find in the survey procedures to follow.

Covers 400 Pages.

The findings of the survey have been made available by the Office of Education in 28 printed monographs occupying over 4,000 pages. Dr. Jessen said:

"In a country where education is so highly decentralized as it is in the United States it is to be expected that a great deal of variety in practice will exist.

"The National Survey of Secondary Education set out to study specific practices in those schools where these various practices appear to be most outstanding, promising, innovational and significant, so that those at work in secondary schools may be able to note the progress and trends in all States and sections, and will, in consequence, be able to give more comprehensive and systematic consideration to the steps to be taken in improving their own practices."

Enlists Eleven Experts.

The five-day conference, presented through the summer sessions of the George Washington University School of Education, has enlisted as lecturers 11 of the experts who participated in the Nation-wide survey of high schools. This survey was made under direction of Dr. William John Cooper, former Commissioner of Education, and now professor of education in the university.

Dr. William Cullen French was chairman of the conference.

Anne Arundel Schools Reopen September 6

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 21.—Public schools throughout Anne Arundel County will reopen for the regular term September 6, it was announced today by the county board of education.

Girl-Charge Bail Denied.

Annapolis, Md., July 21 (Special). Arrested for an offense against two girls under 16 years of age, Paul Edwards and Harold Watkins, of Fort George G. Meade, were committed to the Anne Arundel County Jail, without bail, to await action of the grand jury at the October term of court.

Chevy Chase Churches Join For Services

Union Vesper Program Set for Tomorrow Evening; Dr. Hand to Talk.

A union vesper service, with all Protestant churches of Chevy Chase participating, will be held tomorrow evening from 7 to 8 on the lawn of All Saints Episcopal Church, Chevy Chase Circle. Dr. J. Phelps Hand, pastor of Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, will be the speaker. Dr. Henry W. Snyder, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, will preside.

Dr. Hand's subject at the morning service of his own church will be another in a series of "Messages of Obscure and Forgotten Lives." This week's sermon will deal with "Two Women at the Mill."

Dr. Snyder will speak on the subject "Dead, Yet Alive," at the 11 o'clock service at St. Paul's Church.

The morning service at All Saints Church will be conducted by the Rev. Edward Slater Dunlap, in the absence of the rector, the Rev. Henry Teller Cooke. The Rev. Mr. Dunlap will speak on the subject "Is God Indifferent?" He also will have charge of the service at 7:30 a. m.

"Blindness" will be the subject of Dr. J. Hillman Hollister, pastor of the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, at the morning service. Harold Martin, tenor, will sing "Just for Today." This will be Dr. Hollister's last sermon before his vacation.

The Chevy Chase Baptist Church will hear the Rev. Edward O. Clark, pastor, speaking on "The Holding Power of Goodness," at the morning service.

Boy, 11, Sings For Meals and Parents' Also

Curly-Headed D. C. Youth Makes Tommy Tucker Look Like Piker.

Little Tommy Tucker, who sang for his supper, was a piker beside 11-year-old Philip Arnold, of 1115 K street northwest. Philip sings on the sidewalks of Washington for not only his supper but for his stepmother's and father's as well. In fact, he sings for their breakfast, too. Lunch is omitted.

Philip was found singing before the open windows of a Government office building on Pennsylvania avenue yesterday afternoon. He was singing "I Like Mountain Music," while the hot sun beat down on his curly head. He was dressed in overalls and tennis shoes.

His audience consisted of a few clerks at the windows of the building, a taxicab driver and two little boys, the latter smaller and more ragged than the singer. The little boys, William Allen Fletcher and Tommy Jones, of 1215 Tenth street northwest, had been trailing Philip all day with the hope that he would take them to the movies, if he made more than was necessary for the evening meal.

Philip goes to all parts of Washington singing. His reportoire includes "Somebody Loves You," "Wabash Moon," "Stormy Weather," "Betty Co-ed," "Just an Old Mountain Girl" and "Home on the Range."

He memorizes the words and music by listening to a song. He has made as much as $8 in one day. His father, Charles C. Arnold, was a guard at the Federal Institution for Women at Alderson, Va., until four months ago. He has had a few odd jobs since.

Philip says he hopes to be a real singer some day, like George Jessel or Al Jolson.

"They were once street singers," he points out, "like me."

Gas Dealers Near Here Assail Code

Mackey Will Protest Plan to Johnson; 200 See Independents' Ruin.

Capt. Crandal Mackey, former Commonwealth's Attorney for Arlington County, yesterday was retained to represent the more than 200 independent gasoline dealers in Alexandria City and Arlington and Fairfax Counties at the hearing Monday morning before Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson on the question of prices.

The dealers claim that to put into effect the proposed petroleum industry code, which prohibits oil companies to pay any part of the gasoline taxes, spells ruin to independent dealers in this area.

F. E. Dove, speaking for the dealers, declared not only will the owners of the stations suffer but it means the throwing out of employment at least 400 men.

Maryland Man Held On Charge by Woman

Charged with criminal assault on Ruth Howe, 35, who gave an address in the 1200 block of N street northwest, Milton Ketchum, 30, Capitol Heights, Md., was held for action of the Prince Georges County grand jury yesterday after a hearing at Marlboro.

Justice of the Peace Thomas D. Griffith, who held the hearing in the County jail, listened to several witnesses who testified the man was at home when the assault is alleged to have occurred. Ketchum was defended by J. Wilson Ryon, of Hyattsville.

Grover Payne Named Fund Drive Chairman

Gilbert L. Hall, chairman of the Citizens Relief Committee, organized to assist the Arlington County Welfare Board in raising funds for relief work, announces the appointment of Grover E. Payne as chairman of the campaign committee in charge of the drive for funds. The committee plans to start the drive this year about the middle of October and conclude its work prior to the time the Community Chest drive opens in Washington.

Washington Man Held In Maryland Slaying

A man giving the name of Robbert Dockery, 38, colored, of Washington, was arrested by Prince Georges County policemen yesterday in connection with the death of another colored man earlier in the day at Columbia Park, Md.

The slain man, tentatively identified as a Washington resident named T. W. Morgan, 30, was found in bushes at the roadside by two dairymen. A bullet had pierced his skull.

Prince Gives Rings To Policemen Here

Motorcycle Policemen C. L. Smith and H. L. Woods will remember the visit to Washington of Ras Desta Demtu, special ambassador of the Emperior of Ethiopia.

In appreciation of their service as escorts, the prince presented each with a gold ring before he left the city yesterday.

The rings, the token of good luck from Ethiopia, were presented at the Mayflower Hotel.

Nearby Firemen Join In Annapolis Parade

Annapolis, Md., July 21.—Firefighters of Cottage City and Mount Ranier, Prince Georges County, joined comrades of Annapolis and Anne Arundel County in a big parade here tonight in connection with the annual fair of the West Annapolis Volunteer Laddies, now in progress. The parade moved through the principal streets of the city and suburban communities.

Nearby Resorts Lure Washington Residents to Week-Ends of Pleasure

Thrills Await Vacationers in Nearby Spots

Wide Range of Sports and Other Attractions in Easy Reach.

Within easy access to Washington, and easily reached by most means of transportation, may be found a variety of attractions to satisfy every vacation desire. Healthful recreation, swimming, golfing, sightseeing, mountain climbing, fishing or "just resting" all are within easy reach of the Capital City.

In Frederick, the quaint town of Barbara Frietchie fame, stands a replica of the home from which Dame Barbara is said to have waved the Union flag in the face of the enemy troops as they marched by her home, the same flag being on display along with other relics rich in Civil War history. The flag-waving act of the 95-year-old woman was made immortal by the famous poem, "Barbara Frietchie," by John Greenleaf Whittier.

Also in Frederick is the Francis Scott Key Hotel, named after the author of "The Star-Spangled Banner," who lies buried in Mount Olivet Cemetery, in Frederick.

Popular for Week-Ends.

This hotel, modern and fireproof throughout, has been widely acclaimed by Washington patrons as a delightful destination for a week-end trip or a drive for Sunday dinner.

Atop the Catoctin Mountains, overlooking the picturesque Middletown Valley, is Braddock Heights, the summer colony of cool, delightful mountain breezes, where the vacationist may enjoy golf, hiking, swimming and the beautiful mountain scenery.

The wide, spacious porches of the Hill Top House in Harpers Ferry, W. Va., afford the vacationist a view said to be unexcelled anywhere in the United States. Guests find this hotel a restful and convenient location for an enjoyable week-end drive. Situated high on the West Virginia hills, one obtains an excellent view of the surrounding country and the quaint village and monument of John Brown, a famous figure in the War Between the States.

Wide, open stretches of bay with good sandy bottoms await Washingtonians at Plum Point, on Chesapeake Bay, this week-end.

Much of the beach is shaded, adding to its popularity with those who enjoy picnics and outings. The new road from North Beach to Plum Point is now completed. It is smooth and hard-surfaced.

The beautiful picnic grounds at Herald Harbor, equipped with tables and benches, is ideally situated for annual outings, whether a week-end trip, vacation, or just to spend the day. Here the vacationist will find a fine orchestra for dancing each evening, a cafeteria and refreshment stand and crabs caught and cooked as you like them.

Arnold Bus Line Reduces Tariffs

Route Passes Through Most Beautiful Scenery of Virginia Counties.

Reduced fares have recently been announced by the Arnold Operated Bus Lines of the Washington, Virginia and Maryland Coach Co. on daily trips to Leesburg, Winchester and intermediate points. The coaches now leave from their terminal at 619 Twelfth street daily at 9 a. m., 2:15 p. m. and 5:15 p. m., and on Sundays and holidays at 9 a. m. and 6:15 p. m.

This route passes through some of the most scenic and picturesque parts of Loudoun and Frederick Counties in Virginia and is noted for its beautiful homes, estates and famed racing stables.

Crystal Caves Notable Sight In Blue Ridge

Natural Wonder Just Sixty Miles From Here in Maryland.

One of the greatest natural wonders of the Blue Ridge Mountains is the Crystal Grottoes of Maryland, formerly known as Washington Crystal Caverns, at Boonsboro, just 60 miles from Washington, over paved road via Frederick.

The first emotion felt by the visitor to the grottoes is one of wonder and surprise. There is never a dull moment throughout the entire journey and the mind does not have to be overworked or the imagination stretched to realize the Niagara Falls tumbling over the cliffs, formed from pure white limestone on the famous Garden of the Gods, the cactus gardens and other formations on the way into the caverns; and by gradual descent one reaches the floor, just 150 feet underground, and the ceiling at this point is 75 feet overhead.

Not-to-be-forgotten formations are the blanket market, stalactites, beautifully draped from the roof of the cave and of great breadth, but exceedingly thin — probably one-sixteenth of an inch. So wonderfully clear are these curious stalactite pendants that an electric light placed behind them shows through the stone.

Crystal Grottos are on the road to Antietam Battlefield and in the center of scenic and historic country. A pleasant circle trip can be made via the caverns to include either Harpers Ferry or Hagerstown.

Orkney Lures Thousands to Noted Springs

Popular Virginia Mountain Resort Is Featured by Southern Meals.

Many Washington people will be guests this season at Orkney Springs, which is one of the largest and most popular mountain resorts in Virginia, located 2,300 feet above sea level, picturesque and quaint in its remarkably cool and restful setting of great oaks, green lawns and virgin forests.

This charming hostelry of the Old South, dispensing true Southern hospitality, was named after the Earl of Orkney. Its 1,000 acres adjoin the Shenandoah National Forest of 500,000 acres, with its 500 miles of trails and 200 miles of road open to the public. Surely, nothing could be purer than the pine-laden breezes that come sweeping over three mountain ranges to the guests of Orkney.

Surveyed by Washington.

These lands were surveyed by George Washington, then a lad of 20 years. They were owned by Lord Culpeper, Lord Fairfax, "Light Horse" Harry Lee and Robert E. Lee. This land is full of romance and history, and is renowned for its wonderful mineral springs, which are true fountains of health.

Orkney, which has accommodations for 500 guests, is noted for the great beauty of the surrounding country, and for the ideal life of pleasure and recreation enjoyed by its guests. Golf, tennis, riding, dancing, swimming, bowling and hiking are but a few of the sports available.

Route Via Winchester.

Orkney is reached over all-paved roads, a number of routes through the beautiful scenic country of Virginia being available. The shortest route is via the Winchester road, turning at Boyce for White Post and Stephens City, then taking the Valley pike, No. 11, to Mount Jackson, from where a fine, newly paved 12-mile road leads over the mountains to Orkney Springs.

Accommodations at Orkney are of the best and special attention is given to the old Virginia meals for which the hostelry is famous.

Special Ferries For Water Rodeo

Annapolis-Claiborne Company Announces Three Round Trips Daily Set.

The Washington Post Federal Diary—I. W. L. A. Outdoorsman First annual Salt Water Rodeo being held at Tilghman's Island today and Sunday, is expected to increase the ferry service for the two days between Annapolis and Claiborne. B. Frank Sherman, general manager of the Claiborne-Annapolis Ferry Co., announces that three round trips will be made daily.

The eastern shore of Maryland, a paradise for sportsmen and fishermen is more easily and quickly reached by this direct water route, saving more than 100 miles of driving. According to Mr. Sherman travel to the eastern shore this year indicates an unusually successful season for beach resorts and fishing grounds in this vicinity.

Popularity Increases For Point Patience

Said by some to be Maryland's most beautiful resort, Point Patience is proving a very popular place for week-end outings, fishing trips and lengthy vacation stays. Located just 1 mile from Solomons, in the very heart of the fishing center on the Chesapeake Bay, one may find all to be desired for enjoyment and relaxation—boating, bathing, crabbing—in fact, all water sports, and the usual accommodations to supply these needs.

Excellent hotel facilities have been provided, as well as an excellent cuisine. Furnished cottages, for those who prefer this type of accommodation, may be either rented or purchased.

De Rizkie Star Of Circus at Seaside Park

Started Out to Be a Doctor; Now Gives Thrills for Customers' Ills.

The Great DeRizkie, whose aerial circus comes to Seaside Park, Chesapeake Beach, Md., for a week's engagement, starting Saturday, July 29, and giving two performances daily up to and including August 4, started out in life to be a physician.

While taking a course in an Eastern preparatory school, DeRizkie was one of the outstanding gymnasts. On finishing, DeRizkie decided that his mission in life was to thrill and amuse people, instead of caring for their bodies, so he became a circus performer. His first act with a circus was doing a juggling turn with a small motorized show.

DeRizkie's ambition was to perfect an act that was unusual and out of the ordinary. DeRizkie saw Ira Millette do his head balancing act in the Ringling Bros. circus and decided that was the type of an act for him to master and after several years' practice was doing an act similar.

New State Road To Randle Cliff

Resort's Pleasures Greatly Enhanced by New Ease of Access.

The completion of the new State road from Chesapeake Beach to Willows, Md., has been of great advantage to summer residents on the western shore of Chesapeake Bay adjacent to Washington and particularly to those whose cottages are located at Randle Cliff Beach.

Heretofore the single-track shore road and the roundabout county road were very great obstacles to the development and enjoyment of this bayside resort.

Nevertheless those who had cottages there endured these handicaps for the privilege of spending their vacations there, to enjoy the health giving air and salt water bathing, and to indulge themselves in complete physical and mental relaxation.

Randle Cliff Beach is 38 miles from Washington, D. C., and can be reached by auto in about an hour's drive at nominal speed, the entire distance through Maryland being traveled on beautiful wide State roads.

The Recovery Drive.

The administration is anxiously awaiting the public reaction to the plan which calls for wage-raising and re-employment by all industries, accompanied by a countrywide appeal to the people to patronize only those concerns which co-operate in the universal recovery movement.

This campaign, as elaborated by Gen. Hugh Johnson, recovery administrator, is essentially a plan to mobilize public opinion and concentrate it upon a national simultaneous movement by employers and consumers to reduce unemployment and increase the purchasing power of the worker. Employers are asked to make an agreement with the President to maintain a minimum schedule of wages, to limit hours of work, and to refrain from profiteering. Consumers are asked to patronize such employers as enter into this agreement. Any group which finds the agreement too onerous in any particular is free to form a trade code of its own, subject to presidential approval.

A publicity campaign of huge proportions, intended to reach every citizen in the country, is a necessary factor in this novel experiment in national psychology.

This co-operative regime is intended to operate only from August 1 to December 1. It is to be in the nature of a "drive," for the purpose of applying overwhelming united action against unemployment and insufficient wages. Apparently the sponsors of the plan expect that industrial codes and improved conditions will carry the country forward after winter sets in, without the necessity of prolonging the psychological pressure plan.

In many respects this campaign resembles the nationwide "drives" during the World War, when the people were made alive to the necessity of raising stupendous sums for prosecution of the war. The fever of war excitement does not prevail now, and it will be very interesting to note the effect of wartime propaganda methods as applied to a population that is apparently far from being unified in sentiment on any economic proposition. Every one, however, is anxious to end the depression. Every one wishes to see unemployment ended. If the campaign now beginning should be so fortunate as to catch the popular fancy and solidify popular sentiment, the psychological result in itself could not fail to have at least some constructively beneficial effects.

Modernizing the Rails.

While the railroads are maneuvering to bring their competitors under the same regulations as those to which the rails are subjected, they are also making a major effort to improve their own situation. The competition of trucks, passenger automobiles, pipe lines, buses and airplanes has given the carriers a somewhat different viewpoint on traffic problems. With new transportation agencies developing at a rapid pace, railroad executives are planning systematically for the improvement of their service. As a result marvelous new rail carriers are promised for use in the not distant future.

There has been a disposition to regard the railroads as old-fashioned and unprogressive. In view of the rapid development of motor transportation and airplane service some of this criticism is justified. But the railroads have not been entirely "asleep at the switch." For several years they have been attacking their basic problems by the research route. Coal in locomotive fire boxes has been made to yield far more energy than it did a few years ago. An almost uncanny device for locating defects in rails has eliminated former hazards to life and property. Safety equipment of many kinds has given the railroads an excellent reputation so far as the welfare of passengers is concerned.

Attention is now being given to other problems. Compared with the airplane, railroad travel has been slow. Yet experts find that trains may travel at a high rate of speed without danger if rails are properly laid and locomotives modernized. The stream-lined train is beginning to make its appearance. Untold energy has been wasted and speed has been retarded by the failure of engineers to consider wind resistance in the construction of passenger trains. Revolutionary designs are being developed, with prospects that rail transportation may once more compete with the airplane.

It is a serious mistake to assume that the railroads have reached the end of their rope. The process of their modernization should be facilitated by the railroad act passed by the last Congress. Under this measure the carriers may consolidate their train schedules, eliminate waste and duplication, and cooperate in the development of facilities to improve their public service. It is not impossible that the railroads, by taking advantage of all the improvements that science and engineering have made possible, may regain some of the traffic they have lost to more recently developed agents of transportation.

Cooperation Necessary.

Gov. White, of Ohio, has been informed that the Federal Government will not advance more money to that State for unemployment relief until it makes further efforts to help its own people. While the Ohio legislature was still in session Harry I. Hopkins, director of the Federal Relief Administration, informed Gov. White that it would be necessary to match with State funds any help sought from Washington. Officials at Columbus ignored this advice, and the legislature adjourned without making adequate provision for relief funds.

In refusing to advance the $4,000,000 requested by Gov. White Mr. Hopkins did not question the need for unemployment relief in that State. On the other hand, he is convinced that a considerable sum of money will be necessary to provide food and shelter for destitute Ohioans. The request for Federal aid was refused because Ohio has not made provision to share a reasonable part of the burden.

Obviously, the $500,000,000 appropriated by Congress for relief purposes would soon be exhausted if the Government should undertake to finance the relief programs of all the States without assistance from local agencies. Mr. Hopkins is willing to advance more funds to Ohio "on a matching basis," but he insists that the State shall do its part.

It seems to be extremely difficult to establish this policy. Some State officials are still imbued with the idea that part of the Federal relief fund is to be distributed on the basis of need without regard for local efforts to provide relief. In several States the legislatures adjourned with the belief that Uncle Sam had lifted the unemployment relief problem from their shoulders. Special sessions may be necessary to correct that assumption. Mr. Hopkins is quite justified in demanding cooperation before States are privileged to draw funds from the Federal Treasury. Firm maintenance of this policy is necessary to correct the impression left by Congress that the unallocated portion of the fund would be awarded upon a mere showing of empty relief coffers.

France and Italy.

Foreign comment on the four-power pact is taking a more favorable turn as France and Italy exchange assurances of willingness to co-operate. Premier Daladier is taking pains to impress upon Premier Mussolini the desire of France to adjust all questions that have affected the relations of the two governments. It is hoped that an understanding will be reached whereby the French and Italian navies can be developed without rivalry.

The most important field of co-operation between France and Italy is in the Danubian countries, which have gradually become associated in two blocs, one under the wing of Italy and the other under France. A hint is thrown out that the Franco-Italian efforts for European betterment will be directed toward relieving agricultural conditions in Hungary and Roumania. Jugoslavia is better off economically than some of her neighbors, although political disturbances are frequent. The Little Entente—Jugoslavia, Czechslovakia and Roumania—was very apprehensive that the four-power pact would open the way to revision of the Treaty of Versailles and thereby imperil the frontiers of those countries; but this fear seems to have been dispelled.

The economic balance maintained in the old Austro-Hungarian empire disappeared with the partition of the empire. Czechoslovakia, largely industrialized, is in need of the agricultural products of Hungary, which formerly were available within the empire; and Austria is in worse condition, with no hinterland to support its metropolis. Restoration of the exchange of products between those regions would help them all.

The heavy cost of excessive armaments adds to the difficulties of the Little Entente. Those countries are debtors to France for armaments which would not be needed except in case of a general European war. Firm peace and co-operation between France and Italy would go far to remove the fear of war, and might prove the key to the problem of disarmament.

Spain Releases Americans.

The five Americans held in prison at Palma, Majorca, for more than six weeks for an alleged minor assault upon a civil guard, have finally been admitted to bail by the military authorities, following a visit and report by Consul General Dawson of Barcelona and the direct intervention with the Madrid government by Ambassador Bowers. The incident illustrates the serious consequences which may result from insignificant happenings, due to differing laws and customs.

From the Anglo-Saxon point of view the Americans were subjected to unnecessary hardship and humiliation, considering the trifling character of the incident. According to various reports four Americans, including a young matron of 24, who attempted to intervene on behalf of a youth said to be inebriated, who was denied admission to the gaming room of a hotel, became involved in a dispute with a civil guard. The guard is said to have struck both the boy and the woman and was then in turn struck by one of the men; with the result that all five Americans were taken to prison.

As chronicled by various foreign correspondents, the affair was one that in America or England would have been settled immediately by a magistrate or night court by administering a small fine or reprimand. This inference, however, fails to take into account the extreme importance given in Spain to the authority of the famous Guardia Civil. The Americans in Majorca were evidently likewise ignorant of the special consideration accorded to these officers of the law. By striking one of them they became amenable, not to the civil authorities, but to a military court.

However much the dignity of the police may have been offended, there was apparently but little justification for confining foreign visitors in prison for weeks, not only without trial, but without preferring a formal charge that would enable them to secure bail.

When the case was fully presented to the Spanish authorities at Madrid the Americans were promptly released on bail, and they are now promised a speedy trial.

William L. Ward.

In every part of the country expressions of appreciation of the public services of the late William L. Ward testify to his high standing in national political councils. But his death last Sunday is most lamented in Westchester county, New York, by those neighbors and friends who knew him best, and who are beneficiaries of his remarkable genius in promoting good local government.

For thirty-seven years Mr. Ward was Republican county chairman of Westchester county. While not neglecting his responsibilities as leader in a wider sphere, Mr. Ward found his greatest delight in promoting the development of Westchester county. He was a pioneer in exploring the possibilities of county government. What he accomplished in Westchester county is an example to every county in the United States.

The park and highway system of Westchester county is not only the most extensive of any suburban county in the country, but it has been developed with the greatest foresight. Mr. Ward was the moving spirit in acquiring large acreages for park purposes when land was comparatively cheap. Similar undivided areas no longer exist, and even if they existed their present prices would be prohibitive. Playland and many other recreation resorts; Grasslands, a splendid institution for the relief of the needy and suffering; public golf links, a modern sanitation plant, and other works sponsored and carried to completion through Mr. Ward's efforts are enduring memorials of his public spirit and statecraft. Land values rose in consequence of his skillfully planned measures, so that the burden of cost of improvements is relatively light.

The high esteem in which Mr. Ward was held by his neighbors is fittingly expressed by the White Plains Reporter:

> The people liked him for his rugged honesty, for his faith in them and in the county, for his willingness to accept the responsibility for the proper conduct of their affairs. During the thirty-seven years he had wielded the gavel as county chairman, and exercised the power that came to him by virtue thereof, no suspicion was ever directed against him in any act of his, public or private. He was above reproach, and, feeling that their welfare would be safe in his hands, the people elected, year after year, Republican majorities to uphold his policies.

The county of Westchester, rich in the amenities of modern civilization, is an illustration of what may be accomplished by a public leader who builds upon the solid groundwork of home government. The same opportunities that were utilized by Mr. Ward may be found in other suburban counties throughout the country.

It's a good thing that modern fliers can circle the globe in a week, or they might not recognize the country when they got back.

As soon as a bushel of wheat reaches Chicago it becomes as inebriated as a whisky stock in Wall Street.

Lady Nicotine's Report.

From the Minneapolis Journal.

In a new and appropriate gown of soft clinging beige, trimmed with cloth of cloud (new color), with sleeves of faintly opalescent material, suede gloves and smoke colored shoes, Lady Nicotine, at her daintiest, makes new bow to the American public and brings new message. Indeed, it's true, says the lady, we people of the United States in May consumed 12,822,972,513 cigarettes, the greatest one month total ever known, passing the former record month, July, 1930, when we smoked 11,858,840,263.

Temptation to lay them end to end and see how far they'd go, always accompanies the numerically staggering statements of astronomical proportions that from time to time appear relative to something or other. One lays them, whatever they are, around the world, or a couple of times around, or to the moon, or maybe lands them three miles northeast of the Solomon Islands in the South Seas. But it breaks a pencil to try it in this case.

One multiplies the first long number above by two and three-quarters to find the inches represented, as that is about the length of a cigarette, divides it by twelve for feet, by 5,280 for miles, and after all this scaling down still has 354,171 miles of length, to lay out somewhere in some direction. It is only 25,000 miles around the world, and 238,000 to the moon. So what's the use?

Let's not assume that the ladies smoked most of these cigarettes. Far from it. The men consumed most of them. Nor do the figures represent tobacco consumption in its entirety. Father Nicotine still smokes his occasional cigar or pipeful, which run into big figures, an old-fashioned fellow still "chaws," while "snuising" goes on here and there.

Have the figures any significance other than that they reflect the activities of a large industry? Yes, indeed. Tobacco is a luxury. We could get along without it, but many of us like it. When personal economy is the vogue, we cut it out, or down. When we feel a little more secure financially, we are likely to indulge ourselves. Increased consumption of tobacco, while it represents waste, if one views it in that light, really is a well recognized economic indicator. It means that times are getting better.

The Toss-Up.

Post Haste.

As a forward-looking State, Tennessee escaped having its name changed to Tennessaw.

A majority in Tennessee decided it had received sufficient fame as being different from the other 47 through its distinctive views on evolution.

"The President urges that all wages be raised." Is Uncle Sam listening?

Gen. Johnson says the solution is to saturate the country with recovery propaganda. American grown-ups must be "educated."

No boycotts—perish the thought! The girls are just going to be told where to buy.

London flogged its first short shotgun bandits before sending them to prison. It's a good deherolizing practice.

Russia is ready to buy a billion of our goods with our money. Do you want to take part of this bet?

We hesitate to think what might have happened in London if Jim Farley had dropped in and exhorted the American delegates to stand firmly on the Chicago platform.

Now to see whether putting a 5-point hobble on commodity fluctuations will also be adopted by the stock exchange.

The opportunity is offered all of you to cooperate, coordinate and administrate yourselves in the world's greatest experiment in moral suasion.

Let the motto be: Raise wages and raze depression or be razzed.

"LaGuardia probable fusion candidate for mayor." But remember, New York has only 7,000,000 to choose from.

If you can't take the achievement of higher wages and shorter hours by war-time ballyhoo as seriously as Gen. Johnson, take it anyhow and join the great co-op.

The commodity and stock markets are joining in a petition to ask Uncle Sam when he is going to stop speculating in dollars.

This is no boot-strap lifting campaign; we are back to the good, old-fashioned idea of saving the Nation by signing the pledge.

It wasn't J. Farley who suggested that the repeal procession nearly went astray the first day J. Shouse was out of the country.

PAUL HUDSON.

Just Folks.

By Edgar A. Guest.

Divorce Court.

They who keep their home secure
Must countless little frets endure.

"Your honor, we can't get along.
We've tried a year or two,
But she says everything is wrong
That I prefer to do.
I have my faults. I'm apt to say,
Whene'er we disagree,
Harsh words; but I can't stand the way
She often flies at me!"

"Your honor, this I say of him,
Since first he married me
He's thought with every little whim
Of his I should agree.
He thinks his friends I should be glad
To welcome home to dine,
But plainly shows his temper bad
Before good friends of mine."

"Plaintiff, defendant, let me say
Not easy marriage seems;
Both must put selfish whims away
To realize their dreams.
Upon the earth no angels dwell,
A home of happiness
Lies not in having all things well,
But conquering selfishness."

Thus spake the judge: "Who'd keep secure
A home must countless frets endure."

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

By Robert Quillen

MY DEAR LOUISE: Last night I heard you and several of your girl chums discussing your hopes for the future. You agreed, as most girls agree in their dreams, that you would marry rich men.

Perhaps you were joking. If not—if you really believe that riches will bring you happiness—I have failed to teach you the fundamental truth on which the success of your life must depend: That the Kingdom of Heaven is within you.

Perhaps mere words are unable to teach anything. But surely you can learn from your own experience.

You have lived only in a small town, and your home and possessions and way of life are typical of America's middle class. You have known neither riches nor poverty.

Look back now and try to remember the times when you were unhappy—times when you were either dolefully depressed or acutely miserable.

Did lack of wealth have anything to do with it? Would you have been happy instead of miserable if you had been rich?

As a matter of fact, your unhappiness in every instance was caused by your state of health or your relationship with other people. And the wealth of the Indies wouldn't have made your head ache less or caused your parents and friends to behave in a manner more to your liking.

Isn't that proof enough? If it isn't lack of wealth that causes unhappiness, why suppose that wealth could make you happy?

Among the rights claimed in the Declaration of Independence is the pursuit of happiness. That pursuit is the chief business of our lives from the cradle to the grave. Almost everything we do is done in the hope that it will add to our happiness.

You will continue the pursuit all your days, but I warn you that nothing will come of it unless you learn that the source of happiness is within yourself.

A few summers ago you were bored and miserable in the mountains; this summer you are happy. Have the mountains changed? Or the people? The change is in you. You have found in yourself new resources of which to make happiness.

That is the whole secret. Some rich people are happy and some are miserable; some poor people are happy and some are miserable. It all depends on their capacity for happiness.

Given health, nothing else is essential to happiness except to love and be loved and to learn that one so blessed is the richest of the rich.

Love, DAD.

Political Comment

Crime War Must Be National.

Minneapolis Journal.

Senator Copeland brings word from Attorney General Homer Cummings that the business men of the country are uniting for war on crime. It is high time. For crime is ahead of organized society, otherwise the law, in employment of all the modern agencies for raid and flight.

Most police units remained in the carbine and horseback era when the bandits were preying on the law-abiding citizens by means of the machine gun and the automobile. Police forces of large cities failed to motorize until long after the need for such action was urgent. Radio communication with motorized police patrols came a little faster. But here in the Middle West, at least, while we are reading of gangster organizations comprising two to three hundred men, we have as yet advanced not much beyond the citizen posse stage of crime pursuit. Not only is there but loose connection between Federal and State arms of the law, but even such States as Minnesota still decline to unify their police organizations. State responsibility has been a matter of State pride, but the interstate nature of gangster crime just about makes it vanity instead of pride.

Making Uncle Sam Do It.

Topeka Capital.

During May of this year in 28 cities local relief was so far relaxed that no less than 72.7 per cent of total funds came from the United States Treasury. Localities provided 20.8 per cent and State funds 6.5 per cent. These were all by taxation. Private contributions made up the remaining 7 per cent. Total relief funds for the month were $29,500,000, of which $19,982,289 were from the Federal Government. In Chicago Federal aid made up 95.7 per cent of the total, and in Los Angeles 97.1 per cent. In Detroit private contributions amounted to $3,519 in a total relief budget close to $1,500,000, chiefly from Uncle Sam. No private contributions figured in the Los Angeles relief budget.

Soviet Recognition.

Brooklyn Eagle.

The assumption is general that recognition of Russia is a mere matter of time. Cessation of propaganda, validation of post-czarist debts, compensation for confiscated properties of American citizens—such has been the American recognition formula under Democratic and Republican administrations since 1919. Whether President Roosevelt intends to insist on this formula or whether he is prepared to repudiate it in favor of a formula of his own remains to be seen. Adroit rationalization of the American position will be required before recognition becomes a fact.

That's What They All Say.

Providence Journal.

The special assistant to the Attorney General in charge of the Federal crusade against racketeering and kidnaping, Joseph B. Keenan, says: "It is the patriotic duty of all citizens to make the United States a safe place in which to live. We have met the task in fighting foreign foes, attempting to make the world safe for democracy. It is obviously our more serious duty to make this country safe for its inhabitants."

There is no disputing our present obligation. It goes to the very heart of our national well-being. Terrorists are plying their ugly trade. They aim at the disruption of household safety and happiness. They are absolutely conscienceless. No one is immune from their plottings.

The terrorist ranks are believed to have been recruited from the bootlegging industry. The recruits are said to have turned from one form of lawlessness to another, now that the repeal of prohibition is imminent. Their new sphere of activities is odious and repellent and the forces of society must press with 100 per cent vigor against them.

The Once Over.

By H. I. Phillips.

THE GASOLINE BUYERS.

"What gas are you using these days?"

"I was using Zippo Special, but I gave it up."

"Didn't it give you good results?"

"Yes, but I didn't like its musical program."

• • • •

"Didjever try Presto?"

"Sure. I liked it for about six months, but after that its jokes got terrible."

"I have a friend who won't use anything else but Ko-Bo-Lox gas. He says it has all kinds of pep and a comedian who uses practically no old gags."

"Ko-Bo-Lox is a pretty good gas, but I don't care for that kind of comedy."

• • • •

"Ever try Duxfeld gas No. 2?"

"No. It's operating on a short wave length or something. We can't get it clearly on our set at all."

"I'll admit it has a lot of static, but it's a very good gas."

"I'll tell you about me. When I buy a motor fuel I always ask two questions: What's its entertainment value? and who's orchestra is it using?"

"That's fair enough. I do the same thing. Only I also want to know who's in the cast. If there's a crooner I'm off it."

"That's me, too. I never get any satisfaction out of gasoline that has a crooner."

• • • •

"You take a lubricating oil—I'm fussy about that, too. I know some fellers who drive up to a station and order any old oil, no matter whether it has a swell radio program or not. But I'm fussy. I insist on an oil that my whole family can listen to."

"What kind of oil does your family like?".

"It likes an oil with a little snappy music, plenty of comedy and maybe a male tenor."

"I'm just the opposite. I gave up a lubricating oil last month because it had too much tenor."

"Whatcher usin' now?"

"I'm using an oil that has nothing but a fiddler."

"I don't care for fiddlers. Gimme a good hillbilly orchestra oil every time. By the way, what tires are you using on your car these days?"

"I'm getting good results out of the Luther Schmolks tire."

"That ain't the name of the tire; that's the name of the radio comedian."

"Oh, don't be so technical!"

NO DISAGREEMENT.

The actors are working on a code. They want their unemployment limited to 40 hours a week.

Arkansas voted wet but the vote was small because of the fact so many of its people were in New York working in hillbilly bands.

Corn-on-the-cob consumption has already passed the 1932 peak.

Letters to the Editor.

Favors Masonry Type for New Bridge at Calvert Street.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial on the proposed new Calvert Street Bridge pleased me very much. The view from the bridge, up or down Rock Creek Valley, has been fresh and beautiful every one of the many times I have crossed it. For years it has been one of my favorites in the varied scenery of Washington. I am, therefore, glad that The Post favors a masonry bridge in preference to one of steel, although the latter would cost considerably less.

As a conspicuous feature of Rock Creek Parkway, a masonry bridge should take the place of the old structure.

W. T. T.

AROUND THE HORN.

Chile hopes to bring back to the Straits of Magellan at least a part of the importance they had in interoceanic shipping in the days before the Panama Canal was built. In order to make it worth while for ships to take the old course, the Chilean government has decided to establish a "zone of attraction" in southern Patagonia. The principal appeal is to be the port of Magellanes, which will be free to the goods of the world without any customs duties. Magellanes is the new name for the old port of Punta Arenas, which every old-time sailor who made the trip around the Horn will remember.

It is the belief of Chilean government officials and shippers that at present the fees charged by the Panama Canal will give Patagonia renewed importance. Many of the maritime nations have greatly depreciated currency and, therefore, find it difficult to pay the required canal tolls in gold. These countries, it is claimed, could operate their vessels the extra miles around South America cheaper than they could send them by way of Panama.

The free port of Magellanes will offer cheap provisioning and other facilities to merchant ships, with the hope that vessels coming from Europe bound for the west coast of South America, Australia or Asia will take the Magellanes route. It would seem, however that despite the Patagonian "zone of attraction," few ships could afford to increase so materially their sailing time for the sake of saving canal tolls.

AN IMMORTAL PHRASE.

The late Col. Charles E. Stanton, who said "Lafayette, we are here!" had the strange experience of coining a probably immortal phrase and of hearing it credited almost as often as it was quoted to another man. Even President Wilson and Marshal Foch in formal addresses attributed to Gen. Pershing the famous saying at the tomb of Lafayette in Picpus Cemetery on July 4, 1917. It was a natural error, says the New York Herald Tribune, for Gen. Pershing did speak extemporaneously on that occasion and it was easy for those not present to confuse his remarks with the preceding speech of Col. Stanton that ended in the supremely appropriate salute to the French hero.

Hamilton Bank Stock-Selling Campaign Ends

To Be Opened Shortly, Says Wells in Letter of Thanks to Buyers.

Thanks of the general subscription committee entrusted with the task of selling $1,250,000 worth of stock to start Hamilton National Bank of Washington, was expressed in a letter to the proposed bank's stockholders, made public yesterday on successful completion of the stock-selling campaign.

The letter, signed by Capt. Chester Wells, chairman of the committee, states: "It is with great satisfaction that I inform you that the stock of the Hamilton National Bank has been subscribed, and the opening of that institution assured. I am particularly gratified with the help given by depositors and stockholders who have comparatively small interests in the institutions which have, in effect, merged into the new bank. Without their help, sometimes given under sacrifice, the subscriptions would not yet be complete.

"I am also much gratified with the public spirit shown by a number of merchants and organizations who had no deposits and owned no stock in the several banks mentioned, but who, for the benefit of the community and for the benefit of depositors, whose accounts exceeded 120,000 in number, subscribed for capital stock and made it possible for the Hamilton National Bank to be organized.

"This new bank will shortly open under most auspicious circumstances. It will have more than 5,000 stockholders and an unprecedented number of accounts for a new bank. It will have eight conveniently located branches, all part and parcel of the main bank, protected by its assets. It will do a conservative national banking business."

St. Vincent Group To Hear Senator

McCarran, of Nevada, Will Be Speaker at Sunday Celebration.

Senator Patrick A. McCarran, of Nevada, will be the principal speaker at the centenary celebration of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul to be held Sunday at the Shrine of the Sacred Heart, Sixteenth street and Park Road.

Members of the society will receive holy communion at a special mass at 8 o'clock. Monsignor P. C. Gavan will preach. Following the mass breakfast will be served. Allen Pope and a committee are in charge of arrangements.

Following the breakfast, George J. Cleary, president of the Particular Council of Washington, will call the centenary meeting to order. Reports will be made by the presidents of the 35 parish conferences of the society.

A report on the activities of the special works committee will be made by Chairman Joseph A. Berberich.

Rev. John O'Grady, director of Catholic Charities of Washington, will also speak at this meeting.

Mattern, at Nome, Awaiting Advices

Nome, Alaska, July 21 (AP).—Jimmie Mattern, luckless around-the-world flier, planned today to remain here with his Russian rescuers for a short time, then go to Fairbanks, Alaska, to determine whether he shall complete his flight.

The Texan arrived here yesterday from Anadyr, Siberia, in a big Soviet seaplane operated by five Russians. Mattern, who hopped off from New York June 3, and crashed near Anadyr, said his own ship was a total loss.

At Fairbanks a conference with William Alexander, head of the New York rescue party, and message exchanges with his backers in New York and Chicago, were expected to determine whether he would fly back to Anadyr in a rescue plane and attempt to resume his solo hop.

Commander Levanovsky and his four comrades of the Soviet naval air corps, stationed at Sebastopol, on the Black Sea, had a hard time reaching Nome, as they had to dump gasoline to start from Anadyr and then ran out of fuel outside Nome Harbor. A tug pulled the seaplane to shore.

The Federal Diary

By George D. Riley.

Of course you read the Graphic Rating Scale in yesterday's Federal Diary.

The Man Who Walked Home.

EACH Navy Yard shop employe reports for duty each day, by throwing a metal tag, stamped with his muster number, from the "out" side of the tag-board to the "in" side. This is the shops' method of roll-call. If a tag is not thrown to the "in" side, the unexcused owner is known to be "absent without permission," and a letter of explanation is necessary.

One shop employe failed to appear on a certain Monday morning, and didn't phone in sick, or otherwise notify his supervisor of his absence.

On Tuesday, the workman appeared and was sent over to a Naval officer to make his explanation. He was soon excused, and as he disappeared in the direction of his shop, loud and boisterous laughter sounded from the officer's cubicle.

AND this was the workman's story that caused the outburst:

"Me and the wife (related the Navy Yard employe) was coming back from a beach last Sunday night. We'd had a swell time, too. But the wife, she wanted to drive the car home. I desisted—she persisted. Finally, I got angry. I ups and sez, says I: 'Woman, if you ask me once more to let you drive this car home—if you ask me just once more—why, I'll get out and walk home.'

"Well, sir...she asked me once more! I was so mad I hopped out of the car—gave her a dirty look—and marched off down the dark road. That was 10 o'clock at night.

"I didn't get home till 7 o'clock Monday morning. I had to walk all the way home, and I was so dogtired I just didn't care if I ever got to work, even if I was supposed to report at 8 o'clock that morning. I just had strength enough to flop into bed and sleep right through the day. That's my excuse, sir, for not coming to work that day. Beg pardon? ...What about the wife? Well, she was a bit mortified, the way I left her, but we're friends now—yes, sir, we're friends...Look 'ere, see this new pair of shoes?...Well, she bought them for me—to replace those I wore out, when she made me walk home."

Hundreds of tried and worthy men [have] practically devoted their lives [to the] interests of Uncle Sam. The[y are the] nucleus around which is [built the] variable personnel that co[mes and goes] with political tides. LAWS are made—sometimes to be broken—and sometimes to touch off whatever initiative may be latent in a character.

Julius T. King for many years was a carpenter in the Department of Agriculture. June 30, responsive to the general plan of releasements, he followed the procession. His wife being a culinary graduate and capable of making "goodies," and he being of virile constitution, they merged their assets.

Today Julius, undismayed by "economic" changes, is a sidewalk caterer and may be seen each week day in front of the South Buliding, Agriculture, serving the appetites of hungry employes. More power to you, Julius. Your "kick out" seems to have been a "kick off" to better things. (This case reminds one of the movie, "Looking Forward" using the title of F. D. R.'s recent book.)

THERE are limits to how high even Henry Morgenthau, jr., can rise.

Mr. Morgenthau boarded an elevator marked "Sixth Floor Only," in the old Southern Railway building. At the sixth floor the elevator stopped. "Seventh," called the governor of the Farm Credit Administration. His office is on the seventh.

"No, sir, this is as far as I go," the operator reminded.

Mr. Morgenthau may give credit where credit is due, to the farmers, but to an elevator operator it is cash and carry.

HORACE G. ARNOLD, a 30-year service employe, and lately attached to the Division of Accounts and Disbursements, Agriculture, said good-by to his official desk on Friday. Back in the late 90s, he began his academic career with Uncle Sam as a student tagger. He worked for a period at the Union Stockyards, Chicago; enjoyed a post-academic course in the Treasury, and matriculated in Agriculture until recently.

On July 31, he will be graduated and receive from the Federal University a master's degree—doctor of leisure. He plans to leave Washington next Wednesday for his former home, Columbus, Ohio. "Barley-voo," Horace!

IN the General Land Office, Interior, Monday, a veteran attorney accepted his release from life untimely.

For more than 30 years he had—true to traditions—toiled consistently as an exemplary Federal employe. He reported for duty in the morning seemingly in good health. During the afternoon, he received notice that his services would be no longer necessary. Two hours later his heart was still—a likely victim of merciless action. A lonesome age, unemployment, starvation — these are overmastering contemplations for any one to face, and especially for a person advanced in years. Many will deny that the end was hastened. They will question and counter-question, but death has sealed the verdict with finality.

Perhaps, the inconsiderateness of this situation may have its lesson for other administrative officials and may be they will be touched by that human characteristic dignified by the immortal bard—Mercy.

Scientists to Retire.

TWO men of science, veterans both, will retire from service in Agriculture, July 31. Dr. T. S. Palmer and Vernon Bailey, both Biological Survey, are familiar figures in the Survey's accomplishments. Their retirements will be keenly felt, says Paul G. Redington, chief of the Survey.

Dr. T. S. Palmer.

Dr. Palmer has served 44 years. He is known for his activities in game protection. Naturalists of this and other countries long have recognized him as a zoological historian and biographer and as an authority on the nomenclature of mammals.

He was chairman of the committee that prepared regulations under the migratory-bird law of 1913, and he also prepared the preliminary draft of the migratory-bird treaty of 1916 between the United States and Great Britain. Dr. Palmer has well served the interests of wild life and of the Biological Survey in drafting and administering protective regulations. He was instrumental in initiating legislation governing importations of game and other wild animals and birds from foreign countries and has cooperated with officials of the Customs Service in drafting regulations. He originated the present system of Federal publication of game laws and open-season posters and of directories of game-protective officials and organizations, and numerous official publications of the Biological Survey.

Vernon Bailey.

Monumental among his published writings is his "Index Generum Mammalium," issued by the Biological Survey in 1904 as North American Fauna No. 23.

Since 1917 Dr. Palmer has been secretary, American Ornithologists Union, in which capacity he is noted for his comprehensive statements regarding membership and accomplishments of the union, published annually in its journal, the Auk. Dr. Palmer is a fellow of the union and also of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and of the California Academy of Science. He has been first vice president of the National Association of Audubon Societies since 1905, and since 1924 has been president of the Audubon Society of the District of Columbia.

He has been serving as vice president of the American Society of Mammalogists since 1927, having declined, after election in 1933, to be president. Dr. Palmer is corresponding member of the Ornithologische Gesellschaft, Bavaria, and the Royal Hungarian Institute of Ornithology, and is an honorary member of the Society for the Preservation of the Fauna of the Empire (London), the Transvaal Game Protective Society (South Africa) and the International Association of Game, Fish and Conservation Commissioners. He is also a member of the American Bison Society, the Society of American Foresters, the National Parks Association and many other scientific and conservation organizations.

Vernon Bailey, chief field naturalist of the bureau, rated in "American Men of Science" since 1910 as among the thousand leading scientific men of the country, has achieved wide recognition for studies of the geographic distribution of mammals, birds and plants. Bureau officials consider his work in building up the survey's collections and files of information especially noteworthy. Practically every season since Mr. Bailey's first service has been marked by his field work in some part of the United States, and wild-life studies have taken him to every State and to Mexico and Canada. He has conducted biological surveys of Texas, New Mexico, North Dakota, and Oregon, and has published reports on mammals of Glacier National Park, and on animal life of the Carlsbad Caverns and of Yellowstone National Park. On pocket gophers and on ground squirrels of the Mississippi Valley he has prepared special publications based on his field work, and has revised classification of rodents in these and other genera. Recently the bureau added to the list of publications written by Mr. Bailey the "Mammals of New Mexico," in its North American Fauna Series. At present, as joint author with Dr. Florence Merriam Bailey, his wife, he has in press a work on the wild life of the Mammoth Cave region of Kentucky.

Public Printer Accuses Third In Fund Raising

Proofreader Faces Action; One Already Ousted, Another Demoted.

Public Printer George Carter revealed late yesterday that a third man, Lewis H. Smith, linotype operator at the Federal printing plant, is charged with taking part in the fund-soliciting campaign recently turned up by Department of Justice operatives.

Smith will be given until next Friday to explain his purported activities, Carter said. James E. Rennie, a proofreader, was discharged Wednesday for his part in the collections. The fund was solicited to fight against wage losses arising out of the economy act.

Frank S. Lerch, the other man said to have engaged in the soliciting, yesterday was reduced from assistant foreman to proofreader. He was not the subject of more severe punitive action, Carter said, because of his excellent record at the Government Printing Office.

Lerch will retire on August 11 under the automatic retirement provisions of the ecenomy act. The public printer said he did not want to deprive Lerch of this privilege.

The collections, Carter said, were made by obtaining signatures of about 50 employes on promissory notes. The notes were handled by a downtown bank. The employes signing the notes are not the subject of any official frown, it was learned. About $920 was involved, it was said.

Economy Closes Insect Station

Charlottesville Laboratory to Close; Workers Going to Arlington Farms.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 21.—The United States entomological laboratory on Rio road, north of the city, from which field operations have been conducted for nearly 20 years, will be closed this month and the bureau transferred to Arlington Farms, near Washington.

W. J. Phillips, who has been in charge of the station since it was opened here, said that he and F. F. Dickey, another worker at the station, would go to Arlington Farms. All activities here will cease before the end of July.

The transfer has been ordered in line with the economy program inaugurated by the Roosevelt Administration. The staff which has been located here will be given a laboratory in which to work at Arlington Farms, which is under the control of the Bureau of Plant Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Mr. Phillips and Mr. Dickey will be engaged there in the study of plants, in addition to their work with insect life, which occupied their entire time here.

China Is Threatened By New Civil Strife

Kalgan, China, July 21 (AP).—Civil war again threatens to disrupt China, with a strong army of national government troops almost at the gates of this historic Mongolian city.

The national government force, variously estimated at from 50,000 to 100,000 men, is preparing to cross swords with 50,000 disorganized, bedraggled warriors of Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang, who objects to Nanking's desire for peace with Japan and wishes the government to denounce the Tangku armistice.

Religious Programs

Dr. Evans Will Preach On "The Victory of Faith."

Dr. Albert Evans, associate minister, will preach on "The Victory of Faith," tomorrow morning at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

The Sunday evening vesper service will be observed as usual at 8 o'clock. At this service there will be the singing of the old gospel hymns and Dr. Evans will deliver a short meditation.

Oklahoma Pastor to Occupy Mount Vernon Place Pulpit.

Dr. Paul Quillian, pastor of St. Luke's M. E. Church South, Oklahoma City, will preach at Mount Vernon Place M. E. Church South, tomorrow morning. Dr. Quillan succeeded Dr. Forney Hutchinson at St. Luke's Church when the latter assumed pastorship of Mount Vernon Church.

At the evening worship Dr. Forney Hutchinson will preach on "The Winnie Mae." There will be special anthems by a large vested choir. The pastor will deliver addresses to the Methodist assembly at Lake Junaluska, N. C., July 30, 31 and August 1.

"The Divine Sculptor," Topic At First Congregational.

Dr. J. W. G. Ward will be the guest preacher at the First Congregational Church, Tenth and G streets northwest, at the 11 o'clock service tomorrow. He will preach on "The Divine Sculptor." Dr. Ward is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Oak Park, Ill. He is a prize medalist in elocution. Dr. Ward went to France during the World War to give recitals for the soldiers.

On Thursday at 6:45 o'clock, Miss Nell M. Berghout, director of religious education, will interpret the following religious pictures: "The Immaculate Conception," "Arrival of the Shepherds," "Christ and the Fisherman," "The Head of Christ," "Holy Women at the Tomb," "Peter and John," "Come Unto Me" and "The Nazarene."

San Antonio Minister At All Souls' Tomorrow.

After four Sundays at the Universalist National Memorial Church the union services in which that church, Mount Pleasant Congregational Church and All Souls' Unitarian Church are cooperating will be transferred for three Sundays to All Soul's Church, Sixteenth and Harvard streets. This coming Sunday the Rev. Arthur Shoenfeldt, of Cohasset, Mass., will occupy the pulpit, preaching on "The Lord Is My Shepherd."

Mr. Shoenfeldt was formerly minister of Unitarian churches in San Antonio, Tex., and Athol, Mass. The Ida May Gale Memorial Library, a special collection of current nonfiction, will be open for the circulation of books both before and after the service.

Laurence C. Staple, executive secretary of All Souls' Church, has just returned from the Isle of Shoals, N. H., where he attended the Religious Education Conference of the Unitarian Laymen's League. Others in attendance from the Washington church were Miss Elizabeth Hastings, Miss Laura Brundage, Miss Barbara Sinclair and Waldo Abbe.

Canon Stokes to Preach At Cathedral Evensong Service.

The Rev. Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, canon at Washington Cathedral for July, will preach on "Religion and Life" at the people's evensong service in the great choir tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The sermon at the celebration of the holy communion at 10:30 a. m. will be delivered by the Rev. Alfred Cheetham, of Silver Spring, Md.

The ladies attending the international geological congress, which is to meet in Washington next week, will make a group pilgrimage to the cathedral and the bishop's garden on Tuesday at 10 a. m. under the leadership of Mrs. Donald Hewett.

Among the notable pilgrims who visited Mount St. Albans last week was Ras Desta Demtu, son-in-law and special ambassador of the Emperor of Ethiopia, who inspected the cathedral after having tea in the refectory of the College of Preachers Building. The royal visitor was welcomed to the cathedral by Canon Stokes, Canon Raymond L. Wolven and the Rev. Dr. Edwin B. Niver, librarian of the College of Preachers. He showed particular interest in the Abyssinian processional cross and in the bound volume containing the four Gospels in Amharic presented to the cathedral two years ago by the Emperor of Ethiopia.

Radio Preacher to Speak at Evangelist Services.

Evangelistic services are now in progress in the big tent at Piney Branch road and Georgia avenue northwest. The Rev. Clark Forcey, radio preacher, in charge of "The Church of the Air," over WOL, is the evangelist.

Mrs. Forcey is the chorister, assisted by Harold Crumb as pianist, and the Metropolitan Male Quartet.

The meetings are nonsectarian and are held nightly at 8 o'clock, excepting Saturdays. Sunday's services are at 3 in the afternoon and at 8 in the evening.

Tomorrow at 3 o'clock Mr. Forcey will speak on "A Good Man."

Dr. MacKnight Will Preach At Ordination Service.

A special ordination service will be held at the Washington Institute Church of Christ, Inc., 1763 Corcoran street northwest, tomorrow at 8 p. m., in connection with the regular service.

The sermon will be preached by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. H. P. MacKnight. Music and messages will be other features of the service.

Dr. James H. Taylor Returns From Council in Belfast.

Dr. James H. Taylor, who has been spending several weeks in Ireland, Scotland and England, will preach in the morning at the Central Presbyterian Church and give an account of the Pan Presbyterian Council, which was recently held in Belfast, Ireland. This council meets every four years, alternating between this continent and Europe. The council is composed of reformed churches holding the Presbyterial system throughout the world. The largest constituencies are in the United States, Canada, Great Britain and Germany.

At the evening meeting reports will be received from the delegates to the Young People's Conference at Massanetta, Va. The following will take part: Evans Buchanan, Ella Harllee, Emily Johnston, Robert Moyer, Mary Poole Shannon, Helen Sheppard, and Helen Williamson.

Y. M. C. A. Speakers In Pulpits Tomorrow.

Christian Science Churches

"Truth" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from Psalms 100:5: "The Lord is good; His mercy is everlasting; and his truth endureth to all generations."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I will praise thee, O Lord, among the people; and I will sing praises unto thee among the nations. For thy mercy is great above the heavens; and thy truth reacheth unto the clouds." (Psalms 108:3,4).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Material sense never helps mortals to understand Spirit, God. Through spiritual sense only, man comprehends and loves Deity. The various contradictions of the Science of Mind by the material senses do not change the unseen Truth, which remains forever intact." (page 481).

Frederick Woman Injured in Crash

Fire Engine, Out of Control to Avoid Collision, Rams Building.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., July 21.—One woman was injured and damage estimated at more than $1,000 was caused today as a 4-ton fire engine, en route to a fire at the airport, struck an automobile and crashed into a store at Market and Third streets.

Mrs. Roy Kidd, 42, Walkerville, who was standing on Market street when the accident occurred, was carried by the engine into the building and hurled to the floor under the wreckage. She was taken to the City Hospital, cut about the face, neck and body.

James E. S. Brust, driver of the fire apparatus, and George Kolb, a fireman, were slightly cut about the right side of the face.

The building damaged was a restaurant at the northeast corner of the intersection. It is owned by William O. Kolb, and the restaurant is operated by William A. Miller, who opened it a few weeks ago. The Market street side of the restaurant was demolished, a large plate glass window broken to bits and the interior wrecked.

The automobile damaged was that of Dr. Bernard O. McClelland, who entered the street intersection as the fire engine came along 20 miles an hour. In an effort to avoid an accident, the engine driver swerved to one side of the street. Losing control, the engine bowled over a lamp post and crashed into the front of the building. A number of persons in the restaurant narrowly escaped injury.

Railway in Kansas To Transport Beer

Topeka, Kans., July 21 (AP).—The Missouri Pacific Railroad announced today it would accept shipments of 3.2 beer into Kansas, subject to billings as "cereal beverage and non-intoxicating."

Officials of other railroads expressed belief they would do likewise.

Beer has been sold openly at many places in the State since a recent ruling by the State supreme court that it is up to juries and the trial court to decide whether 3.2 beer is "intoxicating," and hence in violation of the State dry law. There have been numerous acquittals, including several truckers of beer. Most of the beer transported into the State has been moved by trucks.

Culbertson on Bridge

OBVIOUS OVERBIDDING.

IN Contract Bridge the bidding sometimes follows such lines that a contract is reached which appears, on its face, impossible of fulfillment. Confronted with such a situation, timid and weak-hearted players immediately give up, but those who are resourceful strive to find a way of redeeming the excesses of bidding by unusual methods of play.

A recent Duplicate game produced the hand below:

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

At most tables a contract of three notrump or four hearts was reached and made—in some cases with an overtrick, but at one table, through a misunderstanding in the bidding, a Slam in hearts was the final contract. The bidding had gone as follows:

(Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs).

North	East	South	West
1♠	Pass	2NT(1)	Pass
4NT(2)	Pass	5♡(3)	Pass
6♡(4)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—South explained that his hand was too strong for a simple Takeout in hearts and very much too strong to bid one notrump. He said that he disliked the bid of the heart suit at this point, as his partner would infer a five-card length.

2—North's bid is certainly correct. The hand contains 4½ honor-tricks, 2 tricks above what South has a right to expect. If South can contract for two notrump on the basis of a minimum North holding, then North certainly can make an immediate Slam try by bidding four notrump.

3—South probably should have passed the bid of four notrump, but he thought his partner was using the Four-Five Notrump Slam Bidding Convention, and felt obligated to find some response to what he construed as a Forcing bid.

4—While the fact that South has not bid hearts at once in response to spades probably denies the possession of 3½ honor-tricks, North knows that there are very few combinations that justify a bid of two notrump, in response to the Opening Bid, that do not give a play for game, and feels that with his own honor holdings and heart support the Small Slam is probably safe.

West did not have an easy choice of a lead, but eventually decided in favor of opening the spade suit, in which he held length, rather than leading away from his tenace in diamonds or his singly guarded club King.

When the Dummy was spread it was apparent to South that only the greatest of good luck, coupled with careful timing of the play of the suits, could enable him to realize his contract. However, he rightly decided that nothing was to be lost by trying.

He won the first trick with the spade Queen in his own hand, and led a low diamond, finessing the Queen. When this held, he could see a faint chance of realizing his contract. The Ace of diamonds was laid down and he returned to his own hand by leading the 9 of hearts and overtaking with the Knave. Now a diamond was led and ruffed with the Ace of Trumps in Dummy, the last trump led, and the remaining trumps picked up. The only chance now of making the hand rested on a finesse in the spade suit, as South had been compelled to abandon all hope of ruffing the last losing diamond, due to the fact that his hand did not contain sufficient entries. However, fortunately for him, the finesse of the spade 9 held, and he was enabled to discard two of his losing cards on the Ace and King of spades in Dummy, conceding only 1 trick at the end.

The hand had been greatly overbid, but the one chance of making it had been seized by the Declarer.

Castle In the Sky

(All rights protected by the George Matthew Adams Service. Trade Mark Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

By Mary Brook Lucas

One of the magic spots at the Century of Progress is the Rock Candy Castle! Of course it isn't of real candy, but it takes very little imagination to believe that it is. From the very tip top Little Brother waves to Judy, who has been left to watch the kiddies this afternoon.

Little Sister is just ready to enter the dark tunnel across the swan bridge. Presently she will come out into view and will climb the spiral stairway, up and up, to see the armored knight who always stands on guard. A black flag waves from the top of the castle.

The dancing dog, mechanical man and funny clowns delight the young ones. Judy wears the latest in fall berets, of black duvetyn with a shiny feather. Her frock is in the new shade called "golden green." The material is a dull sheer that resembles jersey. The jabot is bound in black.

There are some very smart clothes to be seen about the grounds, and Judy spots them all. One wide shoulder coat that catches her eye is of black and white dotted sheer, with large white silk revers. It is worn over a white frock crepe and complemented with matching hat and gloves.

Markets Filled With Luscious Fruits and Quality Vegetables

If Cleopatra Were Around In These Days!

Twentieth Century Food Fancies to the Queen's Taste.

By the Meanderer.

Instead of asking politely, "Two lumps, or one?" the modern hostess pours your cup of tea and says, "Rose or violets?"

These dainty flowers have adapted themselves to the sugar bowl as well as the flower bed. The candy producers have seen to that. They offer crystalized blossoms to take the place of sugar lumps.

If Cleopatra were only with us now! She amused the blase Antony by dissolving pearls in wine.

"Poof," we'd say, casually dropping a flower in our tea, "Look what we can do!"

This way, Antony!

Shoppers who can, and shoppers who can't can but have friends who can, will be interested to hear that the time and peaches are ripe for canning. This week and next will find the prices at low ebb, so if you can, can while the canning's good. Or, if you prefer, pack a peck of pickled peaches in pretty pickle jars. Georgia Bells, $1.25.

Gone are the days of costly cucumbers; their price is bending low. They cut the lowest figure in 10 years, selling now for 75 cents a bushel.

Fresh vegetable suggestions: Tomatoes, $1.75 half bushel; string beans, $1.50 bushel; lima beans, $1.50 bushel; okra, 40 cents pan; summer squash, $1 bushel.

From Down in Carolina.

"North Carolina canteloupes are delicious!" a fruit dealer told the Meanderer.

"You mean," she asked him, "that connoiseurs of canteloupes elect the North Carolina species?"

"Yes," he smilingly replied. "This particular variety of muskmelon is sweeter and more succulent than any others on the market."

Here's a good thing to bite on!

The wise housewife stocks her pantry shelves with an eye toward the future. She already is thinking of the game season, of the wild ducks, and other fowl to grace her table. She is saying to herself that current jelly will be an important item on her menu. If she is really in earnest, let her ask the Meanderer where she may find currents of unusually large size at a very reasonable price.

"Pretty is as pretty tastes," remarked the white aproned young man back of the counter, proudly displaying the "luxury loaf." "Here," he added, "is the reigning beauty of cold meat slices." His eyes glowed with enthusiasm. His poetic instinct was awakened. "A veal loaf base is enriched with crimson pimientos and green pistachio nuts. It is studded with bits of beef tongue." He paused for breath, but continued hastily. "Ah, madam, savory, flavory and pleasing to the palate!"

Who could resist? The Meanderer hastened away with a small package under her arm. Her purse was lighter by 40 cents.

That Sunday evening gathering need no longer be an expense item on your budget. With little trouble and small cost you may easily prepare a delectable supper. A tasty, tempting platter of cold meats, including tongue, salami, liver sausage and boiled ham to serve six people need not exceed 75 cents. Complete the menu with potato salad, 50 cents a quart, and iced coffee. There you are, a delightful little informal meal for $1.25.

Mothers! Please Look.

Apple pies may not have "it," but they suit the masculine taste. Did you ever see a man who didn't wax eloquent over the apple pies his mother used to make, and eat heartily of the one you made. U. S. No. 1 apples are now priced unusually low at a wholesale fruit store on Water street. With visions of crisp brown tarts and pies in mind, buy now and bake tomorrow.

The best cheese to serve with apple pie is American sharp cheese. "A big slice of pie and a little piece of cheese is the after-dinner touch which never fails to please." (It could be worse.) In a downtown market a cheese dealer who specializes in this 1-year-old variety sells it at 40 cents a pound.

Cellophane is not only popular with cigarettes, raincoats and sport hats, but with blueberries, too. A very special kind rivaling the cherry in size comes to Washington from New Jersey. They arrive in crated grandeur carefully wrapped in cellophane. Here's a fashion hint for fresh fruits and berries, 30 cents a box.

What's in Fashion

18th Century Pieces Comfortably Grouped Encourage Family to Demonstrate Origin of Living Room

By Amos Parrish.

New York, July 22.—In another couple of months, you'll be moving from the porch back into the house, and the family will be demonstrating where the name "living-room" came from. And it's not a bit too soon (especially with midsummer furniture sales coming along) for you to begin thinking what you're going to do with the living-room this winter.

Are you going to need another chair or two . . . or a table to make things more comfortable? Or are you one of those lucky persons who are about to furnish all new?

If you are, it's very probable that you'll decide on eighteenth century pieces, as so many fashionable women have. They're comfortable yet not stuffy . . . weighty enough for large rooms, yet with graceful lines that make them suitable for smaller rooms also.

You should think of your furniture in groups, for conversation or for reading or whatever you like to do, and arrange it so that it will be convenient for those occupations. You'll appreciate this point if you've ever spent any time in a room that looked very inviting, yet proved on acquaintance to be the height of inconvenience, with ash trays in the wrong place, lamps too high or two low and chairs too far apart.

Notice the fireplace group in the illustration. The sofa is Virginia type, with soft upholstery and down-filled cushion. Comfortable for any of the family to stretch out on, yet with the dignity you like for entertaining. Sofas of this type may be covered with many different fabrics, from durable tapestries to formal striped satins.

The little table next to the mantel holds a lamp which casts light over the entire sofa. And instead of expecting you to reach from one end of the sofa to the other for a match or an ash tray, another little table . . . a small gateleg type . . . has been placed at the opposite end.

The wing chair conversationally faces the sofa. This one is dressed in flowered chintz, but it could wear many other fabrics as well. The drum table beside it holds ash tray, cigarettes and a book or two. And the table on the other side holds a lamp at the right height to shine over your left shoulder as you read.

Of course the comfortable, entirely covered lounge chair has a place in an eighteenth century room also. It could be part of the fireside group, on the other side of the drum table.

The secretary illustrated, with its Chippendale fretwork at the top, belongs to the eighteenth century period also. And it helps out with drawer space and bookcase.

And besides these reading and talking and writing groups, you'd want to arrange a window group, following the same principles of lighting and handy tables and so on. With all of these groups carefully planned for convenience and harmony, you'll have a room that the family will like even more as they live in it than they did on first sight.

Monday: White and pastel evening satins set off suntan smartly.

Post $5 Prize Won by Cheese Rolls Recipe

Food Page Award Made to Mrs. Frank A. Stoutamyer of Front Royal, Va.

The recipe for cheese rolls submitted by Mrs. Frank A. Stoutamyer, Front Royal, Va., was awarded the $5 food page prize this week. The recipe follows:

2 packages Philadelphia cream cheese, 10-cent size.

1 bottle maraschino cherries, 10-cent size.

1 cup crushed pineapple.

1 cup peanuts.

Cream the cheese, drain juice from pineapple, drain juice from cherries and chop finely; mix these ingredients thoroughly; mash peanuts with a rolling pin or put through food chopper. Make the mixture of cheese, pineapple and cherries into a roll about 4 inches through, pat firmly and roll this in the peanuts until thickly coated. Place in ice box to chill for several hours. Slice with very sharp knife in one-half inch slices.

All ingredients may be purchased at a Sanitary grocery.

Sunday Breakfast Is Test of Hostess

Flowers in Harmony With Linen and China Will Please Guests.

If the summer hostess is at a loss for an informal and pleasant way to entertain, why not try a Sunday breakfast? Appetites are keen and the weather man is merciful in the morning.

If you have a garden of sufficient size, the table may be set attractively out of doors, or on a shaded veranda. The tablecloth and napkins should match. Add a low bowl of your flowers that harmonize with the linen and china, and your guests will be drawn to the table like bees to a hive.

As to the menus, they may vary to suit the taste of the hostess. A slice of Honey Dew melon, with a few white and green grapes trailing across it, makes an attractive fruit dish. For the substantial course little cakes of crab meat are an appetizing deviation from the usual ham and eggs. Baked eggs in tomato cups make a colorful plate. Look around the pantry and see if you can find some strawberry jam. It is delicious on hot biscuits.

In order to have the breakfast a complete success everything should be immaculate. The meal is simple, but it should be fit for the gods.

Isaac McCarty, cashier of an Altamont, Kans., bank, received $1,100 in rewards for killing one escaped convict and wounding another when the pair sought to rob the bank.

Jump Rope and Keep Your Slim Girlish Figure

Fishing and Rowing Also Help Preserve Youth and Vitality.

Let's sing a song of summer sports for they are worthy of words of praise. Summer is a grand season for doing things for the figure. Exercise is always so much more interesting than just sitting around. It's usually the young woman who exercises who has a "good time." If you are planning to take a long vacation, make the most of it by becoming an active sportswoman (if you aren't one already). No reason for continually lolling around except, of course, heart trouble, or similar ailment.

Educate yourself to exercise. Keeps the spine limber. Makes one feel young in spite of birthdays. Puts a song in one's soul. And more. Reduces one where one needs to and wants to. Develops where one has to. Just evens out the scales, trims down bulges, fattens up hollows and before you know it all's right with the world.

There's tennis, swimming, horseback riding, golf. Take your choice of all or one of these and make the sport or sports your hobby.

No, we're not juvenile. We're about to say rope jumping. A bit strenuous but it brings every muscle into play; arms, legs, shoulders. Go easy at first. Stop just as soon as you begin to pant or feel short of breath. Skipping rope is a favorite beach sport of many leading screen stars. Great way to feel young. And look it too.

Even a stroll on the beach with your dog is a little activity. So much better for the figure and more fun for you than sitting 'round.

Mrs. Thomas Doing Murals in Office

Artist Expects to Finish New York Work by Autumn.

Clara Fargo Thomas, artist who in private life is Mrs. Joseph B. Thomas, of New York, has begun the painting of an elaborate series of murals in a suite of offices in the Daily News building, New York. Every day finds Mrs. Thomas perched high on a scaffold, drawing, sketching and painting the intricate and colorful panorama of her design. She expects to complete the work by early Autumn.

Starting with a simple corner room in the building, she has designed the entire office from flooring to furniture, even revising the architecture. She is using the four walls as the basis for the painting.

This is Mrs. Thomas's latest commission in a long list, including the mural decorations of rooms of Preston Davis, Percy Rockefeller, and Vincent Astor. Some of the most widely known murals executed by her are those in the Royal Suite in Grosvenor House, and in the home of the late Russell A. Alger at York Harbor, Maine.

Mrs. Thomas, a descendant of the Wells-Fargo family of express fame, began her career about a dozen years ago, when she suddenly decided to decorate her young sons' room. Without a single lesson, Mrs. Thomas since has continued her career until she has become well established in the ranks of American painters and decorators. She was the first American woman to hold an exhibition of mural paintings in London, when she exhibited there at the Leicester Galleries. At one time in her career she took up stage design, and was responsible for the sets in several Broadway productions. It was during this period that she became the first woman member of the local union of scene painters.

"The Berries," Stars Agree, Put the Flavor in Pastry

Fruit Tarts and Muffins Bring Dividends in Enjoyment, Especially to Mary Pickford and Warner Baxter.

By Ann Barrett.

From the raspberry tarts that Mary Pickford prefers, to the blueberry muffins that make such a hit with Warner Baxter—it's the berries! So here are a few quick tips on how to win approval with these small fruits in favorite dishes.

There's nothing, I think, that pays bigger dividends in enjoyment—for the amount of work you put into them—than fruit tarts. You can make the little pastry shells up ahead, a dozen or so at a time, put them away carefully in a covered tin, and have them ready for quick crisping in the oven when fine berries show up in market.

Don't cook the berries unless they are gooseberries. Cook these (with sugar) only enough to tender. Both gooseberries and blackberries are better served with a soft custard (chilled very cold), than with whipped cream, I think. Whether you turn the custard into the tart shell first, then heap it up with berries, or work it the other way 'round, it'll taste just as good. Only I think the first way looks prettier

Blueberry Muffins.

For blueberry muffins that make slick eating for breakfast, lunch or supper, here's a quick recipe: First beat 1 egg slightly, then add ¾ cup milk. Then mix and sift together 2 cups sifted flour (except for 2 tablespoons to mix with berries), 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup sugar. Next beat the liquid ingredients into the dry ingredients. Then stir in the floured berries (1 cup) and 4 tablespoons melted shortening. Turn the batter into well-greased muffin tins and bake at 400 F. for about 30 minutes.

Blackberry Cobbler.

For a quick berry dessert, there's nothing to surpass a good berry cobbler, most people think. Here's one made with blackberries, but you can substitute other berries by changing the sugar measurement. First mix 1½ quarts of blackberries with 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice (a sprinkle of cinnamon if you like) and 2 tablespoons melted butter. Turn this into a shallow greased pan. Then cover with a rich biscuit crust made of 2 cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ cup shortening and ¾ cup milk. Bake in a 400 oven about 20 minutes.

This kind of cobbler should be served hot with hard sauce. If you prefer a cake topping to your cobbler, use favorite plain-cake batter the same way. But then serve your cobbler with whipped cream. For a deep-dish berry pie, put your berries in the same kind of pan, but cover with pie crust.

Send for More Recipes.

Maybe you'd like to have your berries and eat them too! I mean put some of your berries up into luscious jams and jellies as well as eating some of them fresh right now. I have a whole new bulletin, "Seventeen Sure Ways to Make Jelly, Jam and Preserves," that will tell you how to do this. You might like to have a second new bulletin, "Fifteen Favorite Recipes for Vegetable Pickles and Relishes," to use when cucumbers and tomatoes come in plentifully. Send coupon below with 6 cents in loose stamps and a self-addressed envelope for each bulletin or 12 cents for both.

What Today Means

By Mary Blake.

IF July 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this day are from 6:30 a. m. to 7:50 a. m., from 11 a. m. to 12:20 p. m. and from 4:45 p. m. to 5:40 p. m. The danger periods are from 2 p. m. to 3:45 p. m. and from 8:50 p. m. to 10 p. m.

Influences operating on this date will probably prove of a disturbing nature; people generally will find it difficult to maintain their usual degree of poise. It is possible that you will become greatly alarmed over some situation, only to find later that your alarm is entirely without basis. The acquaintance made on this date will probably ripen into an enduring friendship.

The child born on this July 22 will probably be endowed with a great many fine qualities. He will be handicapped, however, by one or two major faults of character that will have to be overcome if he is to progres as he should. A winning personality will endear him to all with whom he comes in contact.

If July 22 is the date of your birth, you are undoubtedly a person who truly loves his fellowman. You have a strong sense of right and wrong; you do your level best to live up to the principles that you believe. You are quick to see the error of another's ways and you are equally quick to point them out to that person. This you do in a kindly way, condemning not the person, but rather the error by which he has become bound. Your forthright and outspoken manner gains you many enemies, people do not like to hear the truth; but you never lose any friends because of it. You have a grand sense of fun and among your intimates, you often are very much the "cut-up."

Born on July 22, you have great energy and you are a naturally enthusiastic person. You can not be luke-warm in your attitude toward anything. During the course of your life, you will no doubt turn out great volumes of work, much of it original in nature. You will leave your mark on those with whom you come in contact, for you will stimulate them and uplift them to a point where they will see and strive for better things. You will not make the best parent, for your interests are too many and varied. Suffice to say, however, that your children will lack no advantages that money can buy.

Radio Dial Flashes

By Robert D. Heinl.

THE City Affairs Committee in New York has sent a letter asking for the privilege of radio time on New York City's municipally owned station, WNYC, for the broadcasting of three talks on city problems by the Rev. John Haynes Holmes; Prof. Joseph B. McGoldrick, of Columbia University, and Paul Blanshard.

All are identified with the movement to unseat Tammany at the coming city election.

An address, "Estate and Gift Taxes," by Robert M. Estes, formerly deputy commissioner of internal revenue, will be heard tonight at 6 o'clock (WMAL).

Mynard Jones, singer, and coach of the Knickerbocker Four Quartet, has lost 20 pounds in one month, merely by cutting out potatoes—but he still weighs 225 pounds.

The Over the Rhine German Band every Saturday night at 10 o'clock on WLW is always a good bet. This little band is tremendously popular in the Middle West and can be picked up very easily here.

The escape of German sea raiders from a South American port, aided by a German intelligence agent who posed as a beachcomber, is the theme of the K-7 broadcast tonight at 8:30 o'clock over WRC.

USUALLY in Europe at this season Eugene Ormandy, who is making a great name for himself as conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, will conduct the Philadelphia Summer Concerts Orchestra in an all-Beethoven program during the broadcast from Robin Hood Dell in Fairmount Park tonight at 7:30 o'clock over WJSV. Ormandy is the second guest conductor of the season.

The program opens with the spirited overture to "Egmont." Based on Goethe's narrative of the Netherlands conspfracy which resulted in the death of the Flemish nobleman, Count of Egmont, the overture traces the dramatic story in powerful musical outlines. Beethoven's Symphony No. 7 in A major closes the broadcast.

A work which vies in popularity with the famous Fifth, this symphony is the most romantic and the most consistently cheerful of all the German master's compositions. It is written in perfect dance rhythm and its four movements contain themes representative of most of the popular dance forms of Beethoven's day.

The "Water Carnival" will be given quite a splash by Ira Lee Law at WOL tonight. The carnival is under the auspices of the District Chapter of the Red Cross and Mr. Law will speak at 7:15 o'clock.

The "Night Owls" will again hoot over WOL from midnight until 3 o'clock tomorrow morning.

MUSICAL instruments used by Incas in South America more than 6,000 years ago will be used by the United States Army Band, which will be heard this morning at 10:15.

The program, "Music of the Incas," arranged by Capt. William J. Stannard, will be broadcast over WMAL and will also be short-waved to South America. Fourteen instruments known to have been used 40 centuries before the birth of Christ will be featured. They will include twelve "quennas," which sound like fifes; ancient harps and an Inca drum.

One special number will be directed personally by Maj. R. J. Hernandez, U. S. Army (retired), who recently learned how to play the ancient quenna and in turn taught members of the Army Band.

The days of the forty-niners will be portrayed in a variety program to be broadcast over WMAL at 2:30 this afternoon. All of the romantic color of the early days will be included. Entertainment will include an Indian war dance, a cowboy clog dance and comedy skits. The program will be presented from the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago.

The Mandolin Club from New York, led by D'Annunzio, a brother of the poet, is being widely advertised over the networks. Likewise we have a similar organization in Washington of considerable merit, the Nordica Mandolin and Guitar Orchestra, which plays under the direction of Walter T. Holt over WOL tonight at 5:45 o'clock.

IT may afford additional satisfaction to some listeners that those attending the Lewisohn Stadium concerts of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra may now have beer with their symphonies.

Numerous requests for the beverage at the open-air concerts prompted the executive committee of the New York Board of Education, whose jurisdiction extends over the stadium as well as the academic work at City College, to authorize the concessionaire of soft drinks to include beer in his stock.

The presentation for the first time at a stadium concert of Haydn's Symphony, No. 39, in G minor will be a highlight of the program by the Philharmonic Orchestra over WMAL at 7:30 o'clock tonight. It also will be the first concert of the broadcast series conducted by Leon Barzin, of the Nation Orchestral Association. Included on the program will be "Russian East," by Rimsky-Korsakoff; "Death and Transfiguration," by Strauss and "Pomp and Circumstance," by Sir Edward Elgar.

Mme. von Unschuld's piano club will give its Saturday night recital over WMAL at 7:15 o'clock.

The text of the International Sunday School lesson will be "Isaiah Denounces Evil," by Charles Barnes (WMAL, 4:45 p. m.).

The Arlington Handicap will be carried by WMAL at 5 o'clock.

Al Jolson has signed up for the Paul Whiteman program.

FATHER FINN, leader of New York's Paulist Choir, will conduct a symphony orchestra and a chorus of 300 voices in a presentation of Verdi's "Requiem" during the Hollywood Bowl concert which will be broadcast over WRC at 11:15 tonight. Father Finn, vacationing in California, will be guest conductor during one of the "Symphonies Under the Stars."

Every time we see a notice of the London Terrace Orchestra (WRC, 11 p. m.) we think of the imitation London policemen which they have over there. It is a large apartment hotel located in West Twenty-third street, New York, and the doormen and other attendants are all dressed like "Bobbies."

Compositions of Swedish composers will be included in the concert of the Swedish Choral Society, of 40 voices from the Century of Progress Exposition at 3 p. m. over WMAL.

Walt Mason, Himself

The World's Most Famous Rhymester

The Appointed Time.

THIS is the time to buy a suit of navy blue or roan, for soon the price is bound to scoot to heights before unknown. The public prints these days are full of rising prices tales, and cotton, rayon, hemp and wool are wearing wings and sails. This is the time to buy a hat, for soon the price will rise where you can't shoot it with a gat or see it with your eyes. This is the time to buy a cow, a dachshund or a hen; the prices that are offered now will ne'er be seen again. If there is anything we need, this is the time to buy, for soon the prices will proceed to bump against the sky. It seems the better day has come, there's hint of dawn, at least; the factories begin to hum, the pay rolls are increased; the idle men go back to work in small but cheerful bands, the corner grocer and his clerk now wave exultant hands. The first effect to greet our eyes now shows up good and strong, and everywhere the prices rise, from where they've drooped so long. So he is sane who buys and buys, socks, pantaloons and shirts, who journeys forth to patronize the village soda squirts. And he is wise who takes his roll to buy while things are cheap, who buys himself a ton of coal, a washboard or a sheep.

Court Denies Writ To Release Jupiter

Baltimore, July 21 (AP).—Circuit Judge Charles F. Stein today dismissed a writ of habeas corpus to secure release of Page Jupiter, Charles County Negro farm hand, held on a charge of murdering his employer's wife, Mrs. Evalyn Reifschneider.

The judge also dismissed a petition for permission to have William N. Jones, editor of a Negro publication, interview Jupiter.

Bernard Ades, counsel for the International Labor Defense, brought both actions, contending Jupiter was not permitted to talk to friends who sought to advise him.

State's Attorney Herbert R. O'Conor asserted no privileges had been taken away from Jupiter. O'Conor said Jupiter had been visited by Charles Huston, Negro attorney, of Washington.

Jupiter was brought to Baltimore from Charles County after an effort was made to lynch him. Mrs. Reifschneider was killed July 8.

New Yorker Today

By Mark Barron.

New York.—Shortly before noon I observed a well groomed, mustached fellow gazing into the windows of one of Fifth avenue's leading couturiers. It was Prince Michael Alexandrovich Dmitry Obolinsky Romanoff. He had just gotten out of jail.

Perhaps you know him better as "Prince Mike," or, as the New York Police records list him, Harry Gerguson.

Although he isn't a prince—he had to admit that himself to prove to immigration authorities that he is an American citizen—Mike is a picturesque man of the world. There are more adventurous legends woven about him than any other character I've ever encountered amid New York's night life.

Twice he escaped from Ellis Island, once by swimming the harbor, and only recently he has been serving a short jail term because of his flouting immigration regulations. Now he is at large again, but with the promise that he will be a good boy.

Things won't be the same, with Mike so thoroughly exposed this time. Several times before newspaper reporters have exposed him, but Mike, with his sauve royal manners, always manages to muddle through without too much embarrassment. Never again, however, can he play at his imaginative comic opera plots under a mask of Russian royalty. He is just "Prince Mike," with big quotation marks.

Regal Reality.

In a garden penthouse overlooking Central Park, blonde Claire Luce was escorted by authentic royalty. He was Prince Augustus.

"Want to meet a real prince?" she asked.

"Oh, sure," I answered.

"You embarrass me," said the prince.

"Oh, August," Miss Luce cooed, "you look so funny when you're embarrassed."

Still Tripping Along.

Incidentally, Miss Luce's dancing career isn't ended. When she was playing in "The Gay Divorce" she went through an extremely intricate dance climaxed by stepping onto a chair and then atop a small table.

The strain injured a leg muscle and for days she was confined to a hospital. It was thought her dancing days were over, but she is now quite recovered. Still she has come forward so successfully as a dramatic actress that it is unlikely that she will again be seen in a musical show.

One of the most thrilling of summer shows, to me, is when they pull in the big nets at Atlantic City with their haul of deep sea fish. It's startling to note how some of those odd-looking fish resemble your best friends.

Steady Upturn Of Prices Top Decade Mark

Commodities Keep Gains for 13 Weeks Without Break in Tone.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, July 21.—After thirteen successive weeks in which advances have outnumbered the declines, the former were carried to 80 this week, while the latter dropped to 4 in the Dun & Bradstreet list of wholesale commodity quotations.

This is the second time in less than three months that advances have touched 80, an occurrence without precedent in the last 15 years.

While higher quotations were spread througout the entire list, they were particularly conspicuous in the foodstuffs, textile, hide and leather, metal, and oil groups. Three of the four declines were contributed by lambs, oats, and hops, the latter having continued the downward trend of the last few weeks. The other decline was due to the drop of $2.50 in the price of platinum, which now is selling at $30, against $37.50 an ounce last year at this period.

Drought and Grain.

With the grain yield outlook the poorest in 50 years, and with the acreage for harvest to be reduced further, if the drought is not relieved quickly in some of the largest producing areas, all the grains, with the exception of oats, moved into higher ground. The widest gains were made by corn and rye.

While all grades of flour were advanced, in sympathy with grains, some of the increase was due to the processing tax of 30 cents a bushel on wheat, which went into effect on July 10. This tax adds roughly $1.38 to the price of a barrel of flour. Spring patents now are up to $7.55, whereas a year ago the quotation was $4.

The remainder of the 25 advances, which were set down for the foodstuffs division, were contributed by beans, coffee, butter, eggs, dried apples, spices, sugar and vegetables. Lamb, oats and hops were the only three items which showed a decline.

Hides Turn Stronger.

After the easier trend of the last two weeks, hides have turned stronger, under the renewed buying for the account of tanners and the further improvement in trade conditions. Four of the 10 quotations were marked higher. Packer No. 1, No. 1 Texas, Colorado, heavy native cows and branded cows now are three times higher than they were a year ago, while No. 1 kip is five times and No. 1 calfskin nearly six times above the comparative level of a year ago.

Leather is following the trend of hides, although some of the price rises have not been quite so abrupt. The 3-cent mark-up this week in all the items brings union backs 13 cents, scoured oak backs No. 1, 12 cents, and No. 2 butt bends 13 cents over the level obtaining at the same week a year ago.

Of the 80 advances in this week's tabulation, 21 appeared in the textile division, with cotton goods contributing the major portion. No declines were recorded. Of the ten cotton goods items, nine were advances, the rise in wide sheetings 10-4, amounting to 9 cents, and hose belting 5 cents.

Fiber Products Rise.

Burlap, hemp and jute all were included in the upswing. The advance of 35 cents in cotton (middling), spot, New York, lifted the current quotation to 10.75 cents a pound, in contrast to 5.70 cents a year ago.

There has been no abatement in the uptrend of wool prices, the gain of 3.32 cents in the average of the 25 quotations this week setting it ahead to 50.68 cents, which is more than double the 23.18 cents recorded for the same week in 1932. The rise in the raw material has spread to woolen goods, most of the items this week having been raised as much as 5 cents a yard.

Advances in the iron and steel group are becoming weekly occurrences now, the latest items to enter higher ground being black sheets, No. 24, Pittsburgh, and galvanized sheets; both were raised 15 cents.

Nonferrous Metals.

In the nonferrous metals, all the revisions were in an upward direction, with the largest gain made by tin. The latter now has reached 47⅜ cents, the highest position occupied since March, 1929. A year ago it was selling at 20¾ cents. Copper was marked up ¾ cent to 9 cents, against 5¼ cents a year ago, while zinc, lead and silver were advanced fractionally.

The strength which has become evident in building materials during the last few weeks now is spreading in naval stores, the advances this week in rosin B and turpentine bringing both above last year's level. Drugs and chemicals are showing more activity than in years; no declines appeared in this division, while outstanding advances were made by quicksilver, quinine, camphor and tragacanth.

Petroleum crude, at wells, continues upward, and higher levels also were reached by china wood, corn, cottonseed, linseed and soybean oils. Reports of further restriction progress between Great Britain and Holland sent rubber up sharply in the most actively traded market on record. The advance of 1⅛ cents in standard thick latex to 8¼ cents a pound stands out boldly against the 3¾ cents for which the same grade could be bought a year ago.

Business Notes.

(Associated Press.)

New York, July 21.—The Annalist's preliminary index of business activity for June is 76, as compared with 66.8 for May, 57.4 for April and 52.9 for March—the highest figure since July, 1931.

United States cotton spinning operations reached a new high record of activity during June. The Census Bureau reported today operation were 129.1 per cent of capacity on a single shift basis, compared with 112.3 per cent during May this year and 57.7 per cent during June last year.

New York, July 21.—Substantial additions to employment and pay rolls and quickening flow of orders were reported by Dun & Bradstreet today in its weekly review.

Vandalia, Ill., July 21.—Johnson, Stephens & Shinkle Shoe Co., employer of 1,200 persons in its local factory, announced today it would increase wages 7½ per cent, the second raise in the past few months. It was not stated if the raise restored previous wage cuts.

Kewanee, Ill., July 21.—The Boss Manufacturing Co. today announced a 10 per cent wage increase for piece work in all its cotton glove plants, effective July 24. It was not said whether the raise restored previous reductions.

Orders Drive Trade Activity, Survey Shows

Employment and Pay Rolls Cited as Evidence of Steady Uprising.

New York, July 21 (AP).—Dun & Bradstreet, in its weekly review of trade today, says that substantial additions still are being made to employment and pay rolls, and the flow of orders and inquiries is quickening, rather than diminishing, with buyers being pressed to action by the broadening sweep of rising markets.

"Many of the latter," the review says, "have been provided by an additional element of strength by the adoption of the industrial code, * * * thus excluding the possibility of any weakening of the firm position held.

"The technical reaction in commodity and security markets is viewed as a temporary relaxation of speculative enthusiasm, which merely has paused to gather strength for a fresh revival.

"While reports from all sections of the country revealed an extension of manufacturing activity, there was less uniformity as to the increase in wholesale buying.

"Retail sales, on the other hand, have continued steadily upward, with new records for the current season being made in agricultural districts, where early crops have been marketed.

"In fact, buying appears to be increasing more rapidly than it decreased during some stages of the period of economic readjustment.

"In some districts, retail sales are making the best comparative showing in three years."

Wool Market.

Boston, July 21 (A.P.).—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"Wool prices are firm to slightly dearer for the week on moderate trading in the seaboard markets. This applies to all qualities of wool, but more especially to the medium grades, which are getting relatively scarce."

The Bulletin will publish the following quotations:

London, July 21 (A.P.).—At the closing today of the fourth wool auction, 8,542 bales were offered, of which 6,565 were sold. A good selection was offered for sale with merinos in smaller supply than usual. The sales opened with a strong demand, but eased around the end of the second and early part of the third weeks, although the tone was animated during the last days. Merinos closed 20 to 25 per cent higher than the last series, while crossbreds, fine, advanced 20 per cent, and medium and coarse grades were 10 to 15 per cent dearer. Capes were also 20 to 25 per cent higher and Punta Arenas closed 10 per cent dearer. The home trade bought 62,000 bales during the series, the continent 66,800 and America 2,000, while 45,000 bales were held over to the next series.

Selling Blows Force Bonds Lower Again

1.5 Points Loss Recorded as Sales Mount to $22,448,000.

New York, July 21 (AP).—Reeling under the impact of an unrelenting series of selling blows, struck in the latter part of the trading session, the bond market today suffered sharp losses over a broad front.

In the forepart of the day the declines were fairly limited, but with the approach of the final hour, an avalanche of selling orders appeared. The bond ticker did not report final transactions until 3:43 o'clock, a new late record for a 5-hour day.

Total sales for the day amounted to $22,448,000. The composite average of 60 representative issues closed at 81.1, a net loss of 1.5, and the greatest daily decline since December 15, 1931.

Averages for Year.

Today's averages compare with a high for the year of 83.5 and a low of 63.6.

In the foreign field, losses of from 1 to 4 or more were registered by loans of the Argentine, of Antioquia, Berlin City, Bolivia, Chile, Cuba, France, New South Wales, Sao Paulo, Tokyo and Uruguay. Even the United Kingdom 5½s, in recent demand because of the announcement yesterday of a conversion plan, lost their early gains and closed for a net loss of around 2 points.

The most badly battered group in the industrial list were the rails, where losses of from around 2 to 5 and more were frequent. In this category were liens of the Alleghany Corporation, Atlantic Coast Line, Baltimore & Ohio, Boston & Maine, Chicago & Eastern Illinois, Chicago Great Western, St. Paul, Chicago & North Western, Denver & Rio Grande Western, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, International Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, Frisco and Wabash.

Leading Industrial Losers.

Leading industrial losers included issues of Bush Terminal, By-Products Coke, Colorado Fuel & Iron, Container Co., Goodrich, Houston Oil, International Paper, Kelly Springfield, McCrory Stores and Pure Oil. An extreme break of from 7 to over 10 points was shown by such issues as American Beet Sugar 6s, Central of Georgia 5s, International Telephone 4½s, Nickel Plate 4½s, Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 7s and Southern Railway general 6s.

United States Government securities were irregularly higher.

Late Buying of Stocks Checks Wild Declines

Bargain Hunters Trim Losses to Average of 7.4 Points in Most Active Market Since October, 1929; Sales Total 9,592,570 Shares.

New York, July 21 (AP).—Stock prices crashed today in the wildest and most active market since the 1929 collapse.

Shares of all descriptions, high grade and low grade, were thrown into the maelstrom of sinking values without benefit of bids or support from short covering. It was the sort of rout that, at one time, seemed impossible to stop. But last-minute reinforcements of "bargain hunters" arrived, however, and losses of 3 to 17 or more points were pared or substantially reduced.

While the close was weak, the late rally encouraged market observers to hope that the third day of drastic reactions might mark the beginning of the end and that trading would settle down to a quieter and more dignified pace, with much of the mad speculation of recent weeks eliminated.

Owing to the concluding recovery, the Associated Press-Standard Statistics average for 90 selected stocks managed to hold its loss to 7.4 points at 76.5. This compared with a net decline yesterday of 8.2. The sales volume was the heaviest since October, 1929, with 9,592,570 shares changing hands.

While numerous obviously baseless rumors circulated throughout Wall street, there was no actual news to account for the slump. As a matter of fact, the course of business and industry was still on the upgrade. The week-end trade review of Dun & Bradstreet reported additional evidences of broadening enonomic revival. The weekly carloadings report tomorrow, it was estimated, would disclose that the movement of freight had reached another peak for the past year or more.

The American dollar moved somewhat erratically in foreign exchange markets, dropping sharply in terms of sterling at one time, then recovering all of its losses and adding gains of a few cents. The trend of European gold currencies was generally lower.

Important financial quarters expressed the opinion that the "house cleaning" of the past three days in the security markets could be looked upon as a healthy "correction" of the unwieldly and top-heavy situation if public sentiment toward business and industrial recovery was not cooled too severely by the adjustment of quoted values.

Stocks opened with every indication of getting back some of the territory yielded in the previous session. Many of the leaders recorded early gains of 1 to 3 or more points, and some of the volatile alcohols got back as much as 8. Trading slowed down to a jog around noon, another selling rush, however, starting around 1 o'clock, and from then on until just before the finish values crumbled.

Homestake Mining dived off the deep end for a loss of 37 points, but emerged with a net decline of only 17 points. Casualties at the finish of 3 to 7 or more points included U. S. Steel, Du Pont, Chrysler, Auburn, Baltimore & Ohio, United Aircraft, Union Pacific, National Distillers, American Tobacco B, American Can, Owens-Illinois, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, International Harvester, Westinghouse, Anaconda, General Motors, American Telephone, Lackawanna, Allied Chemical, Montgomery Ward, Western Union, New York Central, Lowe's and American Commercial Alcohol.

Floor traders were literally swamped with orders during the afternoon, and the ticker tape ran for almost 45 minutes after the close of the session.

Goods Markets.

New York, July 21 (A.P.).—Buying continued limited in most textile divisions today. The trade was reported holding aloof pending price readjustments upward on many types of cotton goods to accord with added costs under the recovery act. Similar readjustments were reported being planned in other textile divisions.

Curb's Sinking Is Tempered by Closing Upturn

Losses Before Late Rallies Up to 10 Points; Sales, 1,440,000 Shares.

New York, July 21 (AP).—The curb market followed the big board in another sharp drive today, losses in pivotal issues running from 2 to more than 10 points.

A late upturn gave the market a slightly better outlook at the close, particularly in the alcohol shares, which approximately halved earlier losses of 3 to 10 in such issues as Hiram Walker, Canadian Industrial Alcohol A, Schneley Distillers and Distillers' Corporation-Seagrams.

Oils, metals and various industrial shares met an avalanche of selling and little support appeared for the oils even at the finish. Humble and Gulf closed off 7 and 9 points, respectively, while Standard Oil of Ohio lost 6. Metals, however, staged a smart rebound, Newmont reduced a 6 points loss to 2¾, while Lake Shore almost entirely cancelled a 4½ point drop.

Losses among inactive shares were acute. General Tire & Rubber dropped 17 points, while other stocks, such as Eureka Pipe, Axton Fisher, Fajardo Sugar and Singer Manufacturing were off around 9 to 15. Aluminum Company of America closed 10 points lower.

The most spectacular loss among utilities was a 25-point drop in Columbia Gas & Electric preferred. Leaders, such as Electric Bond & Share and American Gas & Electric, sagged around 5 points or more. Transfers today approximated 1,440,000 shares compared with 1,290,000 for Thursday.

Silver Prices Declines 1/4 to 37½ Cents

New York, July 21 (AP).—Bar silver was heavy today. In the spot market there was a drop of 1¼ cents to 37½ cents an ounce. Extreme loses in the futures market amounted to half a cent an ounce.

Stocks.

Prices crashed in the wildest and most active market since October, 1929. Near the close, however, bargain hunters started buying and losses were trimmed to 7.4 points. No particular reason could be assigned for the slump. Sales totaled 9,592,570 shares.

Bonds.

Selling blows again drove bond prices lower. The average loss at the close was 1.5 points. Sales volume mounted to $22,448,000.

Curb.

Losses followed the big board and ranged from 2 points to more than 10. Late rallies tempered the declines. Sales increased to 1,440,000 shares.

Wheat.

Chicago grain markets were all set for resuming trading today. It is understood that limits will be placed on fluctuations. Wheat prices at Winnipeg were higher. Winnipeg July wheat sold at 78⅛; December, at 82¼ cents. Chicago cash wheat sold at 89 to 90 cents.

Cotton

A break of more than $5 per bale was partly recovered in a closing rally. The final result left the general market down 42 to 50 points. July sold at 9.96; October, at 10.26. Liverpool reported prices 12 points lower.

Rubber

Crude futures closed steady. July sold at 6.80; September, at 7.40.

Sugar

Raw sugar was quiet with prices ranging from 3.50 to 3.62. Refined sold at 4.70.

Coffee

Spot coffee was easy. Rio No. 7 sold at 8; Santos No. 4, at 9¼.

Silver

Bar silver sold in New York 1¼ lower at 37½ cents per ounce.

Gold

Bar gold sold in the United States at $20.67 per ounce; in London, at 124 shillings and 1 penny.

Dollar

The United States dollar reacted moderately, after being firmer early in the day. It stood in New York, with reference to other currencies, $4.67 to the English pound; $.50 cents to the French franc; and 33.55 cents to the German mark.

Foreign Markets.

(Associated Press.)

London—Adverse Wall street reports were responsible for hesitation and liquidation on the stock exchange today and week-end settlements, also restricted business generally. Industrials and transatlantic issues reacted with most of the latter closing at their lowest for the day, although other sections recovered fractionally. Gilt-edged securities and rubber shares were steady. The market closed uncertain.

Paris—The slump in the Wall street market depressed prices on the bourse mildly. International issues were the chief sufferers, while French stocks were moderately heavy. The closing was heavy.

Berlin—Business on the boerse was inactive and prices closed barely sustained.

Grain Traders Hail Closings To Halt Losses

Markets of Nation Move to Protect Prices After Wild Collapse.

Chicago, July 21 (AP).—The grain trade drew a long breath and relaxed today as trading was suspended at all the American exchanges to allow rest from the violent sessions which culminated yesterday in the worst price collapse in many years.

Following the action of the Chicago Board of Trade in suspending dealings for the day, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Louis and Duluth were quick to fall in line and take a holiday.

When trading is resumed tomorrow there will be limits on daily fluctuations.

The action taken by directors of the Board of Trade late last night caused but little surprise. The reason given for the suspension of trading was that tired employes needed some rest, but veteran observers saw it as a means of checking the frenzy which characterized transactions late yesterday. Then wheat dropped upwards of 17 cents, rye 28 and other grains in proportion.

Although it was a holiday in the pits, hundreds of traders circled uneasily around the vast trading floor of the exchange, with huge crowds in the gallery watching curiously.

The comparative quiet of the trading floor was in strange contrast with the uproar that usually prevails. Brokers' clerks worked many hours checking their records.

A few transactions were taken care of in the cash market, mainly business that had to be cleared on newly arrived shipments.

Traders gathered in knots to talk the situation over, but the shouting and gesticulating was absent. Most of them were glad of the holiday. The tense, worried expressions of yesterday gave way to smiles and jokes and the enforced holiday was taked as "good medicine" for the speculative fever which had infected the pits practically all the time since the lifting of the national bank holiday.

The Winnipeg market was open as usual, as was Liverpool, and the chief activity of those who "talked shop" was in watching ticker quotations from these market centers.

New Bond Issues Drop To $1,742,000 in Week

New York, July 21 (AP).—New bond issues formally offered this week aggregated $1,742,000, compared with $7,556,000 in the preceding week and $26,956,000 in the like week last year.

Wheat Trading In Chicago to Resume Today

Grain Markets All Set for Reopening; Prices Rise at Winnipeg.

Chicago, July 21 (AP).—The Nation's grain markets were all set tonight to resume trading tomorrow morning.

Directors of the Board of Trade, which suspended business today, met to agree on plans for resumption of trading. No early word came from their meeting.

The announcement yesterday of suspended activities merely said that there would be no trading in grain futures on Friday, July 21. However, persistent rumors reported that trading would also be suspended until Monday.

There were said to be two factions, one asking for no trading tomorrow, and the other for a much shorter period than the usual 150-minute Saturday session.

Curb on Fluctuations.

It was definitely known that when trading is resumed, daily price fluctuations will be limited to 8 cents, either up or down, in wheat and rye, 5 cents for corn and 4 for oats. The directors announced that daily fluctuations limits of 75 cents a hundred pounds would also be placed on provisions, lard and bellies.

Unsettled conditions in stocks and cotton during today's sessions in those markets were factors to be considered by directors of the Grain Exchange.

Cash Grain Demand.

Demand was good for cash wheat, mainly from millers, with prices ½ to 1 cent higher than yesterday; No. 1 red, 88¼; No. 2 red, 88½; No. 1 hard, 89-90; No. 2 hard, 89; No. 2 dark hard, 88½; No. 2 yellow hard, 88½-89; No. 1 mixed, 89; No. 2 mixed, 88½.

Corn was 1 to 2 cents higher; No. 2 yellow, 48-50; No. 3 yellow, 47-49; No. 4 yellow, 48; No. 2 white, 51; sample grade, 45.

Oats strong; No. 2 white, 32-33; No. 3 white, 31-32.

Rye, no sales.

Barley quotable, 58-75.

Timothy seed, 4.00-4.25 cwt; clover seed, 8.00-12.00 cwt.

St. Louis, July 21 (AP).—Suspension of grain and provision futures trading, in accordance with action by the Chicago and Kansas City Boards day by the St. Louis Merchant's Exday by the St. Louis Merchants Exchange.

Upon the resumption of trading wheat prices will not be permitted to vary more than 8 cents on any one day. Corn fluctuations will be limited to 5 cents and oats to 4 cents.

Winnipeg Prices Up.

Winnipeg, July 21 (AP).—After two days of plunging prices, values on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange opened unchanged to 2¾ higher in erratic trading today. It was difficult to trace the source of the large volume of business, but trading was extremely active.

New Orleans Ships Cotton to Russia

New Orleans, July 21 (AP).—Loaded with 13,000 bales of cotton destined for Leningrad, the Lykes Brothers-Ripley steamship Quistconck sailed from here today as the first American ship to carry a cargo from a gulf port direct to Russia since establishment of the Soviet Republic.

The shipment is part of a 70,000-bale purchase by the Russian government, made possible through Reconstruction Finance Corporation financing.

Foreign ships have carried cargo to Russia from here in recent years and American vessels have taken shipments to other European ports for transshipment into Russia, but the Quistconck is making the first American sailing straight for Leningrad under the Soviet regime.

Company Is Organized To Sell French Wines

New York, July 21.—Announcement is made today of the formation of Tiller-Thompson, Inc., under the laws of New York State to engage in the importation and sale of wines, to such extent as may be permitted by law. Jean Tiller is resigning as American representative of the French line to become president of the new corporation. Associated with him will be Henry S. Thompson, formerly president of Thompson-Starrett Co., as vice president and treasurer, and J. R. Hanna as secretary.

The new company announces that it has acquired contracts with Pommery & Greno, the well known Champagne house; Chauvenet, the well known burgundy house; Riffault & Cie., the well known anjou and touraine house, and a syndicate of Alsatian wine producers who handle the best Alsatian wines, for sales of their products exclesively to it for distribution in this country. Negotiations are also in progress for other contracts of a similar nature.

Eggs and Butter Futures Slump

Chicago, July 21 (AP).—Future deliveries of both eggs and butter smashed downward again today, with sales at an all-time record for volume. Sales totaled 1,300 cars, far surpassing the previous record total of 1,140 cars made yesterday.

November butter declined 1½ cents a pound at the opening of trading, but recovered half the loss near the finish. The extreme low was 24¼ cents, with close up to 25. October eggs dropped 1¾ cents a dozen to 19 cents, but also closed up half the gap to 19⅞.

Selling at the start was of a panicky nature, and was caused by the wide-open break in grain values yesterday. Bearish statistical news added to the selling pressure. After the initial selling wave had run its course, the market steadied.

U. S. Dollar Closes Slightly Higher

New York, July 21 (AP).—The American dollar displayed further firmness in some foreign exchange markets today and reacted moderately in others.

The British pound sterling, after an early rally of around 7 cents, again turned down later and recorded a loss of 2½ cents, at $4.62 for cables. The French franc was also an early gainer, but it, too, reacted with the pound and was off .06½ of a cent, at 5.42 cents. Dutch guilders, up more than 1 cent at the time, retracted its steps for a loss of 3-5 of a cent, at 56 cents. German marks and Swiss francs were off around 1-5 of a cent each.

Belgian belgas held a gain of 1-20 of a cent, at 19.60 cents. Some of the Scandinavians were up about 1-10 of a cent. Canadian dollars gained 5-16 of a cent, at 95.31¼ cents, and Far Eastern exchanges rallied moderately.

Rubber Closes Steady.

New York, July 21 (AP).—Crude rubber futures closed steady. July, *6.80; September, 7.40; December, 8.20@8.27; Jnauary, *8.30.

Fox Film Stockholders Ratify Company's Plan

New York, July 21 (AP).—Stockholders of the Fox Film Corporation today ratified the management's reorganization plan.

The vote showed 1,737,652 class A common shares and 96,720 class X shares in favor of the plan. The opposition numbered only 755 class "A" shares and 900 class "B."

Cotton Losses Trimmed by Late Advances

October Sells at 10.26 as General Market Drops 42 to 50 Points.

New York, July 21 (AP).—Cotton broke more than $5 a bale today, but the market met support in the late trading and more than half the losses were recovered.

December contracts sold up to 11.13 at the start, but broke to 9.76 under a renewal of liquidation and selling on stop orders, making an extreme decline of 117 points from the previous close. Trade and investment interests were reported active buyers on the decline, and the December position closed at 10.46. The general market closed steady at net declines of 42 to 50 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 4 points to an advance of 7 points, but overnight selling orders were quite readily absorbed by trade buying and covering.

Active Months Gain.

Active months soon showed net advances of about 16 to 30 points, but this bulge met a renewal of liquidation and the market was literally overwhelmed by selling orders during the early afternoon when cotton appeared to be coming out in volume and numerous stop orders were uncovered. October broke to 9.58 and March to 10.10 under the pressure, making net declines of 99 to 117 points, while December at the low price showed a loss of 244 points, as compared with the high price of Tuesday.

Offerings tapered off at these figures, however, and there were sharp recoveries in the late trading, with last prices showing rallies of 56 to 72 points from the lowest.

Trade interests were credited with buying very heavily on a scale-down during the day, and when the liquidation subsided, the demand from these sources evidently made itself felt, while there was also said to be rebuying by investment interests who had taken profits earlier in the week.

Stronger Dollar Effects.

The stronger ruling of the dollar in relation to sterling was mentioned in connection with some of the selling, but the pressure was again attributed most largely to readjustments of the technical position and weakness in other markets. Exports today 50,457, making 8,377,906 so far this season. Port receipts, 26,374. U. S. port stocks 3,171,535.

Houses with Liverpool and Far Eastern connections were among the buyers here today, and the early Liverpool cables were better than due on the New York close of yesterday, with considerable scale-down buying reported. The Continent was also reported a buyer here later in the day, while some of the Western selling was believed to be as a hedge against grain holdings.

The weather news attracted very little attention, with traders evidently more interested in the action of the market than the general news or the week-end statistics. Showing continued large deliveries to mills.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil declined 90 to 119 points today under heavy general liquidation, promoted by the weakness of stocks, crude oil and cotton.

There was heavy covering on the break and partial rallies followed, with the market closing 70 to 85 points net lower. Sales, 211 lots. Bleachable spot, July and September closed 5.40, December nd January, 5.70.

Refinery Loss Is $1,002,000 For 6 Months

Mathieson Alkali Works Income Advances to $503,682.

New York, July 21 (AP).—Atlantic Refining Co. and subsidiaries report for the six months ended June 30 net loss of $1,002,000, compared with a profit of $3,185,000 for the same period last year. The 1933 figure is after a $901,000 adjustment of inventory and a nonrecurring profit. For the last half of 1932 the profit was after inventory adjustment of $929,000.

Mathieson Alkali Works had first half net income of $503,682, or 67 cents a common share, against $422,215, or 52 cents a share in the same 1932 period. June quarter net was $330,841, or 46 cents a share, against $171,929, or 20 cents a share, a year ago.

Howe Sound Co. reports second quarter net profit of $145,862, equal to 30 cents a share, against net loss of $6,114 in the same 1932 quarter.

Profits contributed to Drug, Inc., in 1932 by its five main operating subsidiaries were disclosed today by the parent concern.

Drug, Inc., according to plans already announced, is to be dissolved and the subsidiaries reestablished as independent companies. Income accounts show earnings from 1932, together with per share results, on the basis of the proposed capitalization of each company.

Sterling Products had net profits of $9,348,314, equivalent to $5.34 a share on the stock to be outstanding upon consummation of the plan; Bristol-Myers Co., profit of $2,447,130, or $3.49 a share; Vick Chemical, profit of $2,625,761, or $3.75 a share; Life Savers, Inc., and Pine Brothers, Inc., profit of $88,257, or $2.53 a share, and United Drug, net loss of $2,451,437.

Quebec Power Co. reports for the six months ended June 30, gross revenue of $1,899,688, compared with $2,111,189 for the same period in 1932. Operating expenses, taxes, exchange on interest payments and fixed charges amounted ot $1,457,101, against $1,624,219 for 1932, leaving surplus before depreciation and income tax of $442,587, as compared with $486,969 for the first six months of last year.

Directors have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents per share for the quarter ended June 30, payable August 15 to shareholders of record July 26.

Special to The Washington Post.

Chicago, July 21.—Container Corporation of America reports net loss of $49,309 for the second quarter and $24,177 for the six months ended June 30, 1933, after deduction of selling and administrative expense, interest, depreciation and adequate reserve for year-end adjustments, and before profit on purchase of bonds and debentures. This compares with net loss of $416,053 for the quarter and $796,868 for the six months last year, after similar deductions.

Chicago, July 21 (AP).—Marshall Field & Co. and subsidiaries reported a 34 per cent increase in business during June as compared with last year.

Net loss of the combined companies, which include Frederick & Nelson at Seattle, was cut from $4,107,000 for the second quarter of 1932 to $301,900 for the second quarter of this year. Net sales for the quarter were $20,561,300 against $18,646,000 last year, although still 32 per cent lower than the same period of 1931.

The upward sales trend, however, was shown by the report that April sales were 13 per cent under 1932, May sales 15 per cent above 1932, and June 34 per cent above 1932.

Spinning of Cotton Up to High Level

(Associated Press.)

The cotton spinning industry was reported yesterday by the Census Bureau to have operated during June at 129.1 per cent of capacity, on a single shift basis, compared with 112.3 per cent during May this year and 57.7 per cent during June last year.

Spinning spindles in place June 30 totaled 30,918,758, of which 25,540,504 were active at some time during the month, with the average, on a single shift basis, being 39,917,475 compared with 30,959,216; 24,571,498 and 34,778,658 for May this year, and 31,705,038; 20,561,914 and 18,293,991 for June last year.

Active spindle hours for June totaled 9,299,175,026 or an average of 301 hours per spindle in place, compared with 8,309,664,722 and 268 for May this year and 4,247,498,852 and 134 for June last year.

New Theater Bills Appraised by Critical Ayes and Few Noes

Deft Humor Is Dominant Note At the Palace

Varied Screen Stories and Excellent Stage Bills at Other Houses.

By Nelson B. Bell.

"MAMA LOVES PAPA." Paramount picturization of a story by Nunnally Johnson and Arthur Kober, featuring Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland, with Lilyan Tashman, George Barbier, Walter Catlett, Morgan Wallace and Tom Ricketts. Directed by Norman McLeod. Previewed last Tuesday afternoon.

Demonstrating with what happy result deft individual performances can be harnessed to a dramatic structure of rich comic content, "Mama Loves Papa" affords a delightful hour and a quarter of clean, clever humor and honest and homely fun.

There is nothing pretentious about the picture, either in the manner of its construction or the method by which its simple recital is expounded. Its story is based upon that enduring quirk of human nature that finds amusing diversion in the contemplation of the discomfiture of others. But beyond that, it reflects a highly developed sense of the ridiculous, careful preparation, both in the sequence of events and the pungency of the lines and intelligent and wholesome direction.

The structural superiorities of the narrative, of course, are to be attributed to Nunnally Johnson and Arthur Kober, adroit workmen in this field of endeavor; their shrewd manipulation for the greatest benefits of camera and microphone to Norman McLeod, who has completely captured the drollery of the tale.

The whole thing hinges upon a doting wife's effort to imbue her plodding, run-of-the-mine husband with a superiority complex. Inspired by the quaint afternoon lecture of a lionized author of saccharine fiction, Jessie Todd insists upon Wilbur's dressing once a week for dinner in their modest suburban home and wearing a tail coat and striped trousers to his clerical duties in the offices of the Kirkwood Furniture Co.

Mistaking this handsome gesture as evidence of a death in the family, Boss Kirkwood insists on Wilbur's taking the day off to do fitting honor to the obsequies. Whiling away a tedious hour in the park, he is set upon by a group of radicals as a further penalty for his formal, "white collar" attire. So what happens?

So he is chased to an unveiling ceremony—the only protective gathering in sight—and there mistaken for the tardy park commissioner. Thus, inadvertently launched upon a career of politics and public service, the whole course of Wilbur's life is changed—especially after he has met the gay Mrs. McIntosh, wife of the political leader, who is tossing a considerable soiree over a moist and merry week-end.

There is a strand of drama threaded through the action, having something to do with public playgrounds and their safe equipment for children, but, in the main, the merits of the comedy are those contributed to it by the superlative performances of Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland in the roles of the title's domestic love-birds. Mr. Ruggles has never been better, and Miss Boland, less well known to motion picture audiences, is quite as good.

George Barbier, as Kirkwood; Morgan Wallace, as McIntosh, and Lilyan Tashman, as the blonde and brassy Mrs. McIntosh, afford conspicuously able support, with Walter Catlett and Ruth Warren doing their bit as small-time neighbors of the Todds.

"Mama Loves Papa" has its moments of letting down a bit, to be sure, but, by and large, it is seasonable and seductive entertainment.

The auxiliary attractions are rather more noteworthy than usual. A good deal will probably be heard about "Inflation," a short-reel subject in which Pete Smith, as an unseen voice, keeps up a running fire of smartcracking comment upon M-G-M's pictorial exposition of the economic value of purchasing power and the speed with which unemployment is being overcome. Not very profound, but reassuring in purpose and effect.

In "Nertsery Rhymes," Ted Healy and a large band of supporting comedians, singers and dancers have a natural-color musical review that has some very worthy moments and some that are pretty terrible, with the balance, if any, slightly on the credit side. The Metrotone News completes a sumptuous summer bill.

"GAMBLING SHIP." Paramount picturization of a story by Max Marcin and Seton I. Miller, featuring Cary Grant and Benita Hume, with Roscoe Karns, Jack LaRue, Arthur Vinton and Glenda Farrell. Directed by Louis Gasnier and Max Marcin. Reviewed Friday morning.

Like a good many of the patrons who frequented it, Paramount lost a bet on its "Gambling Ship."

Here is a lurid tale of hard-boiled yeggs that builds itself up to such bullet-riddled and fantastic climaxes as to lose all forcefulness and point as a believable depiction of even the most rabid of the underworld's rivalries and antagonisms.

The basic element of plot—the blazing and bona fide love that springs up aboard a transcontinental train between a suddenly "reformed" racketeer, posing as a gentleman, and a gangster's moll, masquerading as a lady—might have been turned to some useful account, had not every vestige of realistic drama literally been thrown overboard when the opposing gangs, operating two palatial floating casinos, inaugurated a type of warfare that presupposes a total absence of police authority on the West Coast. The picture's climax touches the farthest reaches of absurdity for the sake of a spectacular but specious thrill.

Thanks to Roscoe Karns, there are occasional flashes of humor that do much to ameliorate the film's otherwise drab impression. Cary Grant and Benita Hume, two usually capable British players, find it a bit beyond their capacities to breathe actuality into two typically American underworld types. Their Piccadilly accents just won't do for these particular assignments, although Mr. Grant, as Ace Corbin, is a thoroughly handsome hero, and Miss Hume a beautiful young woman whose personal pulchritude so closely approximates Mary Astor's that the two might be twins.

Jack LaRue is his customary good journeyman thug and Glenda Farrell once more creates something of the pleasant impression that she made in "Life Begins," but has not made since. The large number of others in the cast are for the most part excess baggage.

On the stage there is an entirely different story to tell. Seldom have four better acts been assembled for a single bill.

Roy Atwell, veteran comedian and the English language's foremost twister-upper, presents his garbled bedtime story of "Little Red Riding Hood" before the microphone, and then revives that classic among comic songs, "Some Little Bug Is Going to Find You Some Day," which, if memory serves, he wrote and first sang back in the days of the Princess Theater musical comedy hits that included such favorites as "Oh, Boy," "Oh, Lady, Lady," "Very Good, Eddie," and the like. Mr. Atwell is still a hit.

Then there is Cardini, master prestidigitator, who performs miracles with a deck of cards and plucks lighted cigarettes out of the air in unbelievable profusion, finally producing a cigar from nowhere, and, lastly, a corncob pipe about the size of a base-burning coal stove and all nicely stoked. Cardini stands distinctly apart from all others of his bewildering calling.

The most pretentious of the acts, introduced by the opulently appareled Miss Maxine Doyle, is the glamorous orchestral interlude presented by "The Ingenues," a group of remarkably talented and versatile young women. In addition to the familiar orchestral instrumentations and vocal interpolations, these accomplished artistes become successively ensembles of saxophones, brasses, banjos, piano accordians, harmonicas, mandolins and guitars and whatnot.

Their solo passages are executed on all manner of instruments, including the infrequent English horn, bassoon, double-belled euphonium, and celeste. Some are singers, some whistlers, some drummers and some trumpeters. There is, in fact, a little of everything in this most brilliant of all the orchestral acts seen in the Capital in recent years.

The Andre Duval dancers open the bill with a daring display of adagio work in which three stalwart young men do their utmost to disjoint two fragile young women.

W. C. Fields in a Sennett comedy, "The Barber Shop," and Mr. McNamee's newsreeling complete a program in which the stage completely overshadows the screen.

"DISGRACED." Paramount picturization of a story by Alice D. G. Miller, featuring Helen Twelvetrees and Bruce Cabot, with Adrienne Ames and William Harrigan. Directed by Erle C. Kenton. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

Should you be one of those not yet inured to the vagaries of motion picture title writers, do not be alarmed by the implications of this one, for "Disgraced" is far from being the sordid tale that might be supposed.

Not that disgrace does not enter, for it does—in quite the usual way. Gay Holloway, a beauteous model, meets Kirk Underwood and the acquaintance blossoms into love so far as Gay is concerned. But Kirk, tiring of the quiet Gay, turns to his fiance for an immediate marriage. Hearing of this, Gay makes an abortive attempt to shoot Kirk, whereupon she is locked in a closet pending the arrival of an officer of the law, who turns out to be Gay's father. Parental ire being righteously aroused, papa calmly shoots Kirk on his own account!

After running into legal difficulties due to conflicting confessions, the whole matter is, supposedly, cleared up.

Helen Twelvetrees, as the modern Nelly, who falls for the blandishments of gay Lothario Bruce Cabot, is both charming and ingenuous. William Harrigan, as the police captain, is the right kind of a father, and Ken Murray makes a very acceptable friend from childhood who would be husband.

Throughout the picture a commendable restraint is shown in all departments.

Up to now only one actor has (to these eyes, at least) successfully impersonated Sherlock Holmes. He is William Gillette. Now, however, comes Richard Gordon seriously to threaten Mr. Gillette's claim to supremacy. In "The Mazarin Stone," dramatized by Edith Meiser from a story by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Mr. Gordon ratiocinates in the true Holmes manner, a positive delight to all chronic addicts of Sir Arthur's engaging yarns presented from stage, screen or radio.

Ably supporting Mr. Gordon are Leigh Lovel, as the omnipresent and ever useful Dr. Watson; Octavia Kenmore, as the maternal Mrs. Hudson; George Houston, as the insidious Count Sylvius, and Stanley Harriman, as the count's henchman.

Burno, Whiteside and Anita, assisted by Tap Dancer John Elliot, open the bill with a diversified act, with Anita's toe dancing, Francis Pepper's singing of Victor Herbert's "Italian Street Song" and Miss Whiteside's Amerindian-Fan ballet solo the high spots.

With his four "cousins," Charles Foy carries on the family tradition that is literally "the relative-ity theory of nuts." Steve Evans offers a series of excellent imitations, including those of El Brendel, Will Rogers, Joe E. Brown and Lon Chaney's immortal delineation of The Frog in "The Miracle Man."

Rounding out a program with everything for everybody are a Taxi Boys comedy, "Thundering Taxis;" a Screen Song, "Down by the Old Mill Stream;" a release of the Fox Movietone News that specializes in Gen. Balbo and Mussolini and an abbreviated arrangement of Von Suppe's "Poet and Peasant" overture, played by the Fox Orchestra under the leadership of Phil Lampkin.

Metropolitan.

"FORTY-SECOND STREET." Warner Brothers' picturization of a novel by Bradford Ropes, featuring Warner Baxter, Bebe Daniels, Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell, George Brent, Una Merkel and Ginger Rogers. Directed by Lloyd Bacon. Reviewed, return engagement, by Isabel Haraman.

Popular demand brings "42nd Street" to the Metropolitan for a return engagement and we are forced to the observation that it is just as gay, just as entertaining and fully as enjoyable as it was during its initial bow to Washington movie circles at the Earle inauguration week.

In fact, in our deliberate and mature opinion, as a marvelous aggregation of luxurious entertainment and distinguished movie talent it far exceeds the "Gold Diggers of 1933," which Warner Brothers hastened to put on the market before the glamour of their first musical extravaganza had quite worn off.

But there could never be a duplication of that first astonishing naivete of Ruby Keller's and Dick Powell's performances in "42nd Street;" nor could there be another character created that would contain half the forcefulness or the finesse that Warner Baxter gives to the part of Julian Marsh.

Then, there are such names and personalities as Bebe Daniels, Una Merkel, George Brent, Ginger Rogers, Ned Sparks, Guy Kibbe, Henry B. Walthal and a real beauty chorus—well, "42nd Street" was just a superlatively good show that had everything, and still has it!

There is the usual first-run Paramount News supplementing the picture and a Loony Tune animated cartoon, "Beau Bosko," which brings down the house.

RKO-Keith's.

"DOUBLE HARNESS." RKO-Radio picturization of the play by Edward Poor Montgomery, adapted to the screen by Jane Murfin, costarring Ann Harding and William Powell, with Henry Stephenson, Lillian Bond, Reginald Owen and Lucile Browne. Directed by John Cromwell.

Spicing a soundly written and well-nigh flawlessly acted drama of conjukal contretemps with a pivotal situation of extraordinary daring, "Double Harness" expounds a domestic philosophy that has completely fulfilled the prophecy that it would interest and divert a great number of people.

It is a high tribute to the entertaining quality of any picture that its run should be continued through a second week in any downtown theater at this season of the year, when it is a problem of some magnitude to secure pictures which may reasonably be relied upon to "stand up" at the box-office for even a single week.

The strong appeal exerted by "Double Harness," beyond the fact that it is a cleverly contrived play, can be largely traced to the perfect casting of Ann Harding and William Powell in the costellar roles—the one, as a designing young woman who looks upon love and matrimony as the authentic "business" of her sex; the other, as a rich and roving bachelor, tricked into marriage by a maneuver that is later exposed. Neither is guilty of any gross departure from the normal procedures of ladies and gentlemen, in given circumstances, and both are agreeable, poised and convincing.

There have been some suggestions that the direction of "Double Harness" is marked by an annoying monotony of stage "business"—a view to which this department does not wholly subscribe. The important figures in the action comport themselves with remarkable fidelity to the behavior of real people under like conditions.

Among those who contribute valuably to the success of the picture are Henry Stephenson, Lucile Browne, George Meeker, Reginald Owen, as one of the most amusing of butlers; Lillian Bond and Kay Hammond.

A timely Century of Progress Exposition reel, one of the season's most ridiculous cartoon comedies, "In the Park," and the new release of the Pathe News complete an unusually effective equipment for slaying a few happy summer hours.

Eternal Triangle Handled Skillfully in "Grey Cottage"

Gertrude McPherson Book Presents Artist and Misunderstood Women.

The dual genius which distinguished Ruskin, Thackeray and a number of modern authors prevails with Gertrude McPherson, who is not only a writer of fascinating fiction but an artist of real ability as well.

In Miss McPherson's latest book, "Gray Cottage," published today by the MacMillan Co., of New York, this author has taken as her hero an artist, Michael Donnelly, and his attempted escape from all in his life that did not conform to his conception of beauty.

How Michael succeeded and his struggles to maintain a foothold in the world of art is the theme of the book, written with a subtle irony which contributes to its interest, and with distinction of style.

Of course, a successful novel must have an interesting heroine, and this element is found in "Gray Cottage" in Margaret Peters, also in search of the beautiful in art, but chained to the uncongenial task of assisting a sister-in-law in the care of a young family, a sort of family drudge, as it were.

When Margaret and Michael met in the Piccadilly tube station in London, and their first moment was marked by his accidental knocking off of her new hat, they little dreamed what fate held in store for them.

The romance begins right there and it progresses so swiftly that, before the reader can fairly catch his breath, they are in a seaside cottage—Grey Cottage—together, happy as the day is long, but only for a day and a night. Then Margaret goes back to her drudgery.

Michael waits for a year, painting quietly in the little studio of Grey Cottage or on the sands until another woman, Katherine Morton, enters his life. She, too, has an unhappy home life and helps him to realize some of his ideals of beauty. Then, at Victoria Station, he meets Margaret Peters again. She is very tired, very plain, and looks even older than her years. This time the brother, the Rev. John Peters, and his wife and the children are with her. Fortunately, they are all going the same way to Finsbury Park and once more the romance awakens and Katherine Morton fades out of his thoughts.

The eternal triangle formed, the book speeds up in intensity and action.

It is Margaret Peters, though, who endures to the end of the story. When Michael and Margaret part it is with the comforting knowledge that their romance, while fantastic and beautiful, has been kept within the range of the conventional, a raga avis in this year of grace, indeed.

Miss McPherson lived for a number of years in China and was taught the use of the Chinese brush by a distinguished Chinese artist with whom she afterward held a joint exhibition. She has exhibited her work also in England, where she has lived for the last five years devoting herself to drawing and writing.

Cost of Feeding Civilian Corps Jumps in July

Rise in Commodity Prices Reflected in Rations at Forestry Camps.

The cost of feeding each member of the Civilian Conservation Corps will be approximately 7 cents per day more during July than in was last April, according to rations reports from the various work camps received yesterday at the War Department.

A gradual rise in commodity prices during the period since the C. C. C. camps were first established last April is reflected generally throughout the list of articles purchased for the various messes.

Increase of 25 Per Cent.

For April the average cost of the daily rations was 28.16 cents, and while reports from some of the camps are not in yet, those received so far indicate that the average for July will be approximately 35 cents, an increase of about 25 per cent.

Based on the July strength of all men enrolled in the Civilian Conservation Corps in the Third Corps Area in which Washington is located, the increase represents more than $2,000 per day over what would have been required to feed the same number last April. There are 32,000 men, including veterans, now enrolled in the C. C. C. in the Third Corps Area.

Troops of the regular Army remaining in garrison also find food costs up more than four cents from that three months ago, the average rising from .2764 for April to .3167 for July. Both the regular troops and the C. C. C. members live on the same ration in so far as items are concerned, but costs are computed by each camp separately and are based upon the best figures obtainable for local delivery.

Pay Controlled Prices.

Establishment of sub-depots for subsistence at regular supply bases at New Cumberland, Pa., Fort George G. Meade, Md., Fort Myer, Va., and Fort Monroe, Va., where nonperishable subsistence of standard quality can be obtained at Quartermaster Corps prices, enable camps to obtain most of the food stuffs other than fresh vegetables, fruits, milk and the like, at controlled prices, but these, too, are on the upgrade as indicated by new contracts each month.

Technology Scholarship Won by District Girl

The regional scholarship award of $500, covering full tuition for the first year at the Massachusetts Intitute of Technology, has been awarded for the year 1933-1934 to Miss Margaret Sara Vinson, 1209 Jefferson street northwest, it was announced yesterday by the scholarship committee of the Washington Society of the M. I. T.

Miss Vinson was a member of the February, 1933, graduating class at McKinley High School, and is the first of her sex to be accorded the honor of the M. I. T. regional scholarship for Washington and vicinity.

PAUL D. HANNA.

Idle Man, 37, Wants to Sell Self for Work

Paul D. Hanna, B. E. F. Veteran, Has Looked for Job in 8 States.

Former Private Paul D. Hanna, 37, surrenders to the depression.

Heart-sick and foot-sore, he limped into Washington yesterday and announced he was willing to sell himself to anybody for anything, providing he is paid for it. He's not particular, but he prefers his employer to be in a legitimate business.

The former soldier, who spent more than a year over seas and saw duty on four fronts and has papers to prove it, means exactly what he says about selling himself. He will even give a lease if anybody wants it.

Body and soul, Hanna promises his services to the best of his physical and mental ability. All he's looking for is some one with an offer. What can he do? He can drive a car, a truck, work as a gardener, do a bit of cooking, wash dishes, swing an ax or shovel dirt.

Hanna has been out of work more than two years, and has worn out seven pairs of heavy shoes looking for jobs. Two of the pairs of shoes had steel hobnails.

He's looked for work in eight States and has used his feet as means of transportation most of the time. Like a number of other men in his predicament, he came to Washington with the first Bonus Army, full of high hopes and ideals. Now he hasn't got the hopes.

Hanna is available any moment. He can be reached at the Central Union Mission, and he's ready for all takers of his offer. Confident that no one can offer him a job that he wouldn't try, no matter how dangerous or difficult, he's sitting and waiting.

Threatened Riot Halted by Police

Chase Tramps From Scene of Stabbing After Man Cut Near Heart.

A knife fight at the corner of Seventh and K streets northwest yesterday afternoon, and threats of a riot among vagrants on the Public Library grounds, led to the eviction by police of a score of tramps from the lawns about the Library Building.

Sam Blackman, 35, colored, 916 Sixth street northwest, was stabbed near the heart. He was taken to Sibley Hospital. Charles Manson, 24, of Southerland, Va., was arrested as Blackman's adversary. He is being held at the First Precinct. Blackman later was transferred to Gallinger Hospital.

Three Negroes were arrested for vagrancy and were taken to No. 1 Precinct. They are Spurgeon Hawthorne, 22, of Louisville, Ky.; George Jenkins, 32, who gave no fixed place as his residence, and Will Graham, 27, of Elizabeth City, N. C.

Business Zone At White House Awaits Ruling

Proposed Gasoline Station Will Draw Decision by Fine Arts Group.

The problem of permitting industrial enterprises in the neighborhood of the White House will be presented to the Fine Arts Commission at its meeting here July 28, H. P. Caemmerer, secretary of the commission, said yesterday.

A solution of the problem is demanded following a proposal to erect a gasoline-filling station on Seventeenth street, between Pennsylvania avenue and H street, northwest. "Because this is on the 'border line' of the area outlined by the Shipstead-Luce Act, the plan of the station should come before the commission," Mr. Caemmerer said.

The Shipstead-Luce act compels builders to submit to the commission plans of structures to be erected near public buildings. The proposed filling station raises not only the question of design, Mr. Caemmerer pointed out, but also the question of permitting any gas station so close to the White House.

Mr. Caemmerer also said that he would write the District Commissioners asking that the Fine Arts Commission be notified when a permit for the filling station is requested.

The July 28 meeting of the Fine Arts Commission is to be jointly with the Park and Planning Commission. It was called to discuss plans for the new Calvert Street Bridge. A separate meeting of the Arts Commission will convene to discuss the proposed filling station and the whole question of industrial neighbors for the Executive Mansion.

Eliot Named National Planning Board Head

Charles W. Eliot 2d, director of planning of the National Park and Planning Commission, has been placed at the head of the National Planning Board, to assume full-time duties at the end of the month. His present place will not be filled immediately in all probability, because for many years the planning work of the National Park and Planning Commission has been done in advance and will take much time and money in its execution. Mr. Eliot is not expected to relinquish his present post until after the commission meets a week from Monday.

Virginian Is Believed Hit-Run Car Victim

Herbert Harrison, 55, 610 North Herbert street, Alexandria, Va., was treated at the Alexandria Hospital last night for severe injuries to his head and shoulders, apparently suffered when struck by a hit-and-run driver.

The man was unable to say where the accident occurred, and he was brought to the hospital by unidentified persons.

Nats Trample Tigers, 7-1, to Hold Own in Race as Yanks Win, 10-2

Vines, Allison Decisively Beaten by Austin, Perry in Davis Cup Play

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

THE nonplaying captain of the U. S. Davis Cup team, or whoever it is that does the official thinking, will be a long time thinking up an excuse for what happened yesterday at Roland Garros Stadium, Paris, where Messrs. Vines and Allison, particularly Vines, botched the high hopes of America.

Perhaps there isn't any excuse. Perhaps Vines just wasn't good enough as the straight-set beating by Bunny Austin indicates. That defeat by Crawford at Wimbledon was no fluke either, and now Vines wins only six games from the Britisher in three sets.

And they can't use that clay court gag either because Austin, like Vines, was fresh from the grass surfaces at Wimbledon. There's still a chance for Vines and Allison, too, to redeem themselves in the final singles if America wins the doubles, but at this writing I am forced to recall the prediction of Big Bill Tilden that America wouldn't get by the challenge round.

Overlooking Big Asset.

Ranking with pigeon racing at the top of the simon-pure sports untainted by gate receipts and guarantees is the Southern Rowing Association regatta on the Potomac today wherein the lads will heave ho for nothing more intrinsic than a few cups and medals.

It seems to be that the civic-minded bodies of the Capital which infest the downtown hotels at luncheon time are overlooking in the development of the water front one of the city's prime natural assets. Outside of the President's Cup regatta and the informal canoe races, Washington's water front is devoid of competition that would spice the city's attraction.

Asks Ladies' Tolerance.

Mr. Clark C. Griffith, of the Griffith Stadium Griffiths, asks the tolerance of the women folk in his decision to limit the number of free fair fan guests to 6,500 for next Friday's game here between the Nats and the Yankees.

It looks like a good spot to sympathize with Griff. Despite the high position of the Nats in the league pennant race, only meager attendance has greeted their home stand, and Griffith discerns in the Yankee series a chance to warm the coffers of his heart.

"I hope the women of Washington will play ball with me on this occasion," said Griffith. "In limiting them to 6,500 seats, I'm giving them 1,000 more tickets than the average ladies day crowd of 5,500. In Chicago they always have a limit on ladies day tickets, but I have tried to avoid any restrictions heretofore. I don't think it's too much to ask."

Runs, Hits and Errors.

The Nats will not be pained to hear that Pitcher Russ Van Atta, of the Yankees, will be out of the game for two weeks with a broken blood vessel in his pitching arm . . . it was no surprise to see Bucky Harris station Hymie Greenberg on first base yesterday instead of the light-hitting Davis . . . with Bridges working Thursday, Harris knew the Tigers didn't need many runs, and Davis' defensive play is far superior to Greenberg . . . but with Frasier in the box, Harris needed Greenberg's hitting power . . . this is sad: Heinie Manush yesterday celebrated his sixteenth consecutive time at bat without a hit . . . Joe Cronin is serious about starting Whitey Campbell very soon . . . the Nats are not encouraged either by the fact that Lou Gehrig yesterday hit his first home run in a month . . . Fred Marberry has fortified himself with a Goose Goslin model bat . . . which is slightly flattering to Goslin at this time.

Browns Overcome Macks in 12th, 6-3

PHILADELPHIA, July 21 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns, going into extra innings with the Athletics for the second consecutive day, took a 6-to-3 victory by scoring three runs in the twelfth inning today.

With two out and men on first and second in the twelfth, Bruce Campbell punched out his fourth hit, scoring Sam West. Burns then walked and Ossie Melillo singled to left, driving in Reynolds and Campbell.

Bump Hadley and Roy Mahaffey both went the distance. Max Bishop accounted for the Athletics' three runs when he hit his third home run of the season with Johnson and Williams on base in the second.

Hope of U. S. Dimmed by Upsets

Californian Loses by 6–1, 6–1, 6–4; Texan by 6–1, 7–5, 6–4.

Both Badly Off Form; America Must Take Last 3 Matches.

By Melvin Whiteleather.

AUTEUIL, France, July 21 (AP).—England's Davis Cup team, which the Americans had considered less of a menace than Australia, startled the tennis world today by overwhelming the twin hopes of the United States, Ellsworth Vines and Wilmer Allison, in the first two singles matches of the interzone finals.

Dapper 26-year-old Henry Wilfred ("Bunny") Austin, a juvenile figure in shorts, trounced the great Vines, American champion, with machine-like ease, 6—1, 6—1, 6—4, and then Frederick J. Perry, the British No. 1 star, made almost as short work of Allison by scores of 6—1, 7—5, 6—4.

Swift and Decisive.

Thus the Americans saw their hopes all but crushed with two setbacks as swift and decisive as they were surprising, while the British moved quickly toward a duplication of their 1931 triumph over the United States and the challenge round with France next week. It was the most bitter Davis Cup pill the Americans have had to swallow since they lost the famous trophy at Germantown in 1927, particularly as this year's invasion was considered one of the best equipped to take the cup back to the U. S. A.

With a 2-0 lead in the series of five matches, England needs only one more victory to settle the issue, whereas the United States now faces the terrific uphill assignment of taking three matches in a row to avert elimination.

Up to Van Ryn and Lott.

If Perry and his doubles partner, George Patrick Hughes, are as effective tomorrow as the British singles players were today, it will be all over. The burden of keeping America in the fight is now strictly up to John Van Ryn and George Martin Lott, jr., the doubles combination. If they can win tomorrow, there will remain the chance for Vines and Allison to redeem themselves in the concluding singles matches Sunday, against Perry and Austin, respectively.

Vines' play in almost every department was so crude as to make him appear like a novice against the smooth-working Austin, who covered court like a cat, returned the American's "cannon ball" service shots consistently and showed remarkable control at all times. The American seemed always to be fighting to get his strokes under control. Instead of slackening his pace, he kept trying to turn on the power. This failed, and when his mighty service virtually collapsed he seemed like a man stranded in midocean.

The American champion's downfall could be traced easily to the shortcomings of his service. He lost it seven out of 12 times, and double-faulted 10 times.

Apparently having enjoyed seeing the three-time conqueror of Henri Cochet, French idol, defeated, the large, sweltering and hostile crowd increased its demonstrations as Perry continued the British sweep against Allison. Spectators whistled and booed when they were not applauding the British. Both matches were too one-sided for thrills or suspense.

Perry Prances and Poses.

Allison relied chiefly on his fast service, but when it failed him, he softened his game to Perry's liking. Throughout the match, Allison kept putting on or pulling off his white linen cap while Perry, wearing a jockey's cap, pranced and posed, as he yielded to playful whims or reacted to the gallery's manifestations.

Peacock Faces Pitt Today in Finals

Capital Champion Assured in Md. Golf Tourney at Indian Spring.

By Dave Herman.

A WASHINGTON golfer will be the new Maryland State amateur champion.

The new title holder will be either Roger Peacock, of Indian Spring, or Harry Pitt, of Manor. They will clash for the crown that has never been worn by a District golfer this morning at 10 o'clock and again in the afternoon at 2 o'clock. Thirty-six holes will be the ordeal.

Peacock, the medalist, reached the final round yesterday at Indian Spring by defeating two of his club members, John Jankowski, by 4 and 3, and Louis Fuchs, by 3 and 2.

Pitt stopped Henry G. Wood, a Manor companion, 4 and 2, in the morning and later won an exciting semifinals match from Dave Crook, of Rolling Road, 2 up.

Peacock Shoots 68.

Peacock furnished the morning blast by shooting a par-shelling 68 against Jankowski. At the turn both Peacock and Jankowski had rifled 33s, and the medalist was 1 up, but the pace was too fast for Jankowski on the stretch and he wilted before Peacock's heavy bombardment of pars and birdies.

There was no let-up in Peacock's

Ryder Cup Golfers To Get Concession

Milwaukee, July 21 (AP).—Officials of the Professional Golfers Association decided today that the annual tournament will be held here August 8-13, as scheduled, but that the association will be asked to sanction automatic qualification of all members of the American Ryder Cup team.

The officials agreed it would be impossible to change the dates to September to accommodate Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Denny Shute, Joe Kirkwood and Craig Wood, who have threatened not to play.

The P. G. A. officials said the association was certain to grant the request for qualification of the Ryder Cup team.

World Marks Set by Holm and Kight

Smash 220 Back Stroke, 440 Free Style Marks in A. A. U. Contests.

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP).—Two world's records fell before the powerful strokes of the country's greatest girl swimmers today in the National A. A. U. championships at Jones Beach. Eleanor Holm, New York, smashed her own mark in retaining the 220-yard back-stroke crown, and Lenore Kight, 20-year-old Homestead, Pa., star, shattered the great Helene Madison's recognized record in winning the 440-yard free style. It was Miss Kight's third victory in the championships.

With a crowd of 15,000 packing the stands around Zachs Bay, Miss Holm, who won her first national title early in her teens, churned through the choppy waters in 2:57 1-5, 3-5 of a second faster than when she won the 1932 title at Tempe, Ariz.

25 Yards in Front.

Miss Kight, victor in the 100-meter and mile events yesterday in her campaign to succeed Miss Madison as queen of American swimmers, was even more emphatic in lowering the time of 5:39 4-5 set by Miss Madison in winning the 1930 national championship at Long Beach, Calif.

The Pennsylvania girl, a perfection of applied power, stroked her way to victory in 5:33 3-5, finishing 25 yards in front of her nearest competitor, Susan Robertson, of the Women's Swimming Association, of New York.

Brilliant Exhibition.

Forced to overcome a handicap of being only 5 feet 2½ inches in height in comparison with the 5 feet 10 of Miss Madison, Miss Kight gave a brilliant exhibition of coordinated power, finishing with a sprint that recalled the performances of some of the country's greatest swimmers of the past. In the 1932 Olympics, the new champion lost to Miss Madison by inches in the 400-meter final only because of a shorter reach.

Miss Kight was the first in the water and, quickly opening up a body length advantage, she swung along in front, steadily increasing her lead. At the halfway mark she had 10 yards to spare over Miss Robertson and through the final laps, the national long-distance

Myer's Triple, Rice's Double Are Features Of Whitehill's Victory

Southpaw Pounded for Nine Hits, But Keeps Them Scattered.

Frasier, Fischer Grant 11 Bingles; Crowd of 8,000 Looks on.

By Shirley L. Povich
(Sports Editor of The Post.)

EARL WHITEHILL, the escaped Tiger who familiarized himself with the habits of the denizens of Detroit through 10 years incarceration at Navin Field, whiplashed his left-handed curve across the corners at Griffith Stadium yesterday and put his old mates through the hoop for eight innings.

The hoop is represented in the box score by those first eight innings wherein zero represents the efforts of the Tigers. Only in the ninth did Whitehill fail to crack the whip over the Tigers, but the old ringmaster gave up only one run which accounts for Detroit's share of the 7-to-1 score.

Still Tied For Lead.

The Nats' net gain, however, is open to dispute, for the Yankees up in the Bronx were on their winning ways again and that they have ways all their own is attested by the 10-2 shellacking they gave the hapless Cleveland Club. Twilight found the Nats and the Yanks still grappling in a tie for the league lead.

While Whitehill was reducing the Tigers to the feebleness of house kittens, the Nats were bunching their base hits, 11 in number, to make away with the ball game against the pitching of Vic Frasier and Carl Fischer, making both their hits and runs in bunches, like bananas.

Myer Slams Triple.

Two pokes in particular were noteworthy. A three-base hit by Buddy Myer with the bases full, which is getting to be a daily feature at Mr. Griffith's ball yard, put the skids under the ball game in the second inning, and a double off the right field wall by the venerable Sam Rice mopped up the remains.

Yes, Mr Rice came out of winter quarters to go back into the line-up in right field where Goose Goslin had been hibernating, and that's all, for the past few weeks And the ancient Rice was in the thick of the firing that gave the Nats their first five runs early in the ball game.

Manush, Cronin Hitless.

Whitehill, himself, was no drawback up there at the plate yesterday, making, among other things, two singles and a double that raised his batting average approximately 650 points. Heinie Manush and Joe Cronin alone took no part in the festivities at the plate

The Nats' southpaw was a big tease out there yesterday on the mound. He was dispensing base hits freely, nine in number, except when a base hit would hurt, and then he tightened up and made old Silas Skinflint look like a philanthropist. Until Charley Gehringer and Hank Greenberg put together a pair of doubles in the ninth only one man progressed as far as third against the Washington southpaw, who eventually lost his shutout.

Double Play Helps.

Joe Cronin came to Whitehill's rescue in the second after Greenberg and Doljack had rammed out a pair of singles, when he started a double play on Rogell's grounder, and then the Nats went out and won the ball game, as later events proved.

Two were out when three runs rose up and engulfed Frasier in the second inning. Sewell smashed a single through the box and Whitehill himself shot a single into left. What happened next was Frasier's

Gehrig's 18th Aids Yanks in Victory

Indians Defeated, 10-2; Van Atta Is Injured by Batted Ball.

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP).—Lou Gehrig came out of his batting slump today and led the Yankees to a 10-to-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians that enabled them to hold their tie with Washington for the American League lead.

"Buster Lou" hit his eighteenth home run of the season and his first since June 21 with two aboard in the first inning to start the world champions off ahead, and added a triple and a single later in the game.

Russell Van Atta pitched some great ball for the Yanks, but after giving only three hits in six innings, he was injured in the seventh and had to be relieved by Wilcy Moore, who allowed only two more.

Blood Vessel Broken.

A line drive hit by O'Dell Hale hit Van Atta's left arm and broke a blood vessel just above his elbow. He is expected to be out of action for a couple of weeks. Despite the painful injury, Van Atta threw the runner out at first.

Bill Dickey also helped the Yankee cause along with three singles, while Joe Sewell walked three times. The Yanks pounded Willis Hudlin to cover in the sixth inning, when they put together four hits and an error by Billy Knickerbocker for four runs that put the game on ice. Sarge Connally settled down after being pasted for two blows in that frame and gave only one more hit, Gehrig's triple, which led to a run in the eighth.

Boilermaker Leads From Start to Triumph in Arlington Park Feature Race

Westrope Up, Has 2 Other Winners

Fair Image Is Second in Purse; Helianthus Wins Over Action.

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP).—Col. E. R. Bradly's Boilermaker, with Jack Westrope up, easily accounted for the Hinsdale Purse, Arlington Park's feature today, scoring by two and a half lengths over Mrs. W. E. Schmidt's Fair Image.

Westrope, who scored a triple today, sent the 3-year-old son of Bubbling Over—Vaila to the front at the start and the Bradley star stayed there all the way, with Fair Image always closest in pursuit. C. V. Whitney's Caterwaul was third. Boilermaker ran the six furlongs under a boiling sun in 1:12 and paid $5.80 for $2 in the mutuels.

Westrope also scored with Mintogee in the fourth, and Fingal in the seventh.

The Brookmeade Stable's Helianthus ran a smashing race in the sixth, a dash of a mile for 4-year-olds and up. Helianthus ran the eight furlongs in 1:36 3-5 to beat Action by three-quarters of a length in a thrilling stretch drive.

with Bill Bennings.

Arlington Park, July 21.

Dear Al:

Jack Westrope really threw the hooks into the Bennings selections today. The crack rider had three winners and each time he beat out a horse carrying the Bennings stamp of approval. Tickory Tock, Fair Image and Royal Blunder all followed Westrope's mounts home. In addition, Kummel and Action ran second for me and Busy Spain and Batty were third. Mike was in the same boat. Bright Beauty was the only one of his horses to see action, and she was second. For tomorrow, Mike likes, among others, Dunrock, Lakite, Billy Champ, Mrs. Foster, Hacky H. and War Banner.

BILL.

First race—Postscript finds a spot here that the stable likes and I see no reason for mistakes. Seems to have the edge on these juveniles. Cabouse and Lamporte for the place and show awards.

Second race—Grand Prince is ideally suited by this sprint. Gets in with only a steadying impost and breaks from a favorite position on the outside. Rubio looks second best. Pancho Lopez is being whispered around tonight and may do it. Mud would help.

Third race—Singing Wood figures to beat this field. I have been over the dope carefully and can't see anything else. Sun Tempest for the place ahead of Vicar.

Fourth race—Fairbypair is a solid sort and seems capable of carrying the 120-pound assignment to victory in this sprint. He will have No More as his chief rival. The sleeper may turn up in Cambridgeshire. Ran creditably the last time.

Fifth Race—As much as I would like to put Swivel on top of this heap, it looks like Strideaway and Barn Swallow will do the chief battling. Both are at the peak of their form. Swivel has not been the same since that coughing spell at the Graw, but is dangerous just the same.

Sixth Race—I'm going to name this one and then duck. I mean Larranaga. Previous races here have been conditioners for this big dough engagement. This one will turn on the juice tomorrow and, at the weights it might be too bad for Equipoise. Plucky Play for the show.

Seventh Race—They tell me that Euxine is going to take the measure of Miss Tulsa tomorrow and I'm stringing along. Mountain Elk is the longshot that I'm afraid might awake to cause trouble.

Eighth Race—Scimitar seems to have a purse within his grasp here. I see no reason for a slip. Haramzada ran out of the money on me the other day. This is a better spot. Might be second. Lahor to show.

Ninth Race—This would be a fine place to gallop Sergeant Hill home at a $30 mutuel. He has been fooling lately. All Hail and Rusty may be the ones to complete the money picture.

Potomac Boat Club Favored in Regatta Today

Out-of-Town Stars Will Compete

Bill Miller, U. S. Singles Champion, to Oppose Gude, Brower.

Gala Program to Open at 2 o'Clock; East Is Well Represented.

By Lewis F. Atchison.

A SMALL army of bull-chested young oarsmen, the cream of Eastern rowing talent, rested on their oarlocks yesterday after indulging in a final workout before the start of the Southern Rowing Association regatta this afternoon. Promptly at 2 o'clock the gun will send contestants in the first event skimming over the waters of Washington Channel toward Hains Point. Thereafter, almost without interruption, there will be racing until well after 6 o'clock.

While the crews put the finishing touches to their preparatory work and shells cleaved a path through the placid waters of the upper Potomac in final trial spins, the Potomac Boat Club, host to visiting teams, was installed as favorite to win the team championship. A well-balanced representation in almost every event was the deciding factor in elevating Coach Clarence W. Hecox's charges to the position of favorites.

Strong Visiting Clubs.

An air of confidence pervaded the club yesterday afternoon, but not one of unwise exuberance. Clubs from New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore have strong contingents primed for the races.

Eyes of the fans will be glued on the muscular frame of Big Bill Miller, national senior single scull champion, representing the Penn Athletic Club. Runner-up in the last Olympics, Miller is a heavy favorite to win his event.

But there are other topnotchers entered who will thrill the fans with their expert work today. Granville Gude, veteran sculler and champion of the Potomac, will oppose Miller in the sculls, teamed with Paul Brower. The Arundel Boat Club of Baltimore, has sent an experienced senior double sculls combination in Frank Grunder and J. Nelson Roth, who should show the fans real speed. The program is as follows:

2:00—Quarter-mile dash, senior single sculls.
2:20—Junior single sculls, 1 mile.
2:40—Junior four-oared gig, 1 mile.
3:00—Association senior single sculls.
3:20—Junior quadruple sculls, 1 mile.
3:40—Senior double sculls, 1 mile.
4:00—Intermediate single sculls, 1 mile.
4:20—Junior double sculls, 1 mile.
4:40—Senior four-oared gig, 1 mile.
5:00—Senior single sculls, 1 mile.
5:20—Junior eight-oared shell, 1 mile.
5:40—Exhibition canoe tilting.
6:00—Senior quadruple sculls, 1 mile.
6:20—Senior eight-oared shells.

own fault. Greenberg made a clever stop of Rice's bounder, but Frasier was otherwise engaged scanning the Ladies' Day turnout of 8,000 and failed to cover first on the play, which filled the bases.

Then it was that Buddy Myer bunted a triple out to the left center fence to send the parade into the plate.

The bottom of the batting order made some more trouble for Frasier in the fourth when Bluege and Sewell singled and the troublesome Whitehill turned a slow ball into a right field double to score Bluege. The Nats should have had more than two runs out of the uprising, but Whitehill was tied to second fearing that Rice's double to the right field wall would be caught, and thus only Sewell scored on the blow. I forgot to mention that Carl Fischer was then in the employ of Bucky Harris in the box.

Fischer got his in the seventh. Cronin walked and scored on a double by Schulte that Doljack dropped after a long gallop. Schulte scored with the second run of the inning when Kuhel popped a single into right.

The owners of the Tigers finally got a run for their money in the ninth.

Spanglers Meet George Washington.

The Spangler baseball team of the American Legion, will engage the George Washington nine at 11 a. m., tomorrow on the West Elipse.

Giants' Rally Wins From Bucs, 6-5

Ott's Single With Bases Loaded Decides; Terry Adds to Streak.

PITTSBURGH, July 21 (AP).—The Giants put an exciting finish on a close ball game today to defeat the Pirates, 6 to 5, and even their "crucial" series at two victories each.

Moore Starts Rally.

Joe Moore started the rally with his fifth straight hit, a single. Hughie Critz bounded down the first base line and Gus Suhr threw wildly trying to force Moore at second. Bill Terry then smacked a single to load the bases and Mel Ott followed with a hefty single to left center that brought in the two runs.

Terry's hit extended his streak to 18 consecutive games.

Treasury Tennis Team Clinches League Title

The Treasury Department Tennis Team yesterday clinched the Departmental League championship which it won in 1932 by defeating the Patent Office, 3 to 2. The Treasury team needed only two matches to tie up the championship and relegate the Patent Office to second place in the league. It won the requisite two matches in actual play, but gained one more match than it needed when the Patent Office team of Klovstad and Truehart failed to show up on the Monument courts, thereby granting the Treasury aggregation a one-match margin.

Goldsmith and Wallenstein (P. O.) defeated Phillips and Seidel, 6—3, 6—0; Clark and Starr (Treas.) defeated Georges and Tomelden, 6—4, 7—5; Carney and Edwards (P. O.) defeated May and Castleman, 6—1, 6—3, 6—4. Coe and Chamberlin (Treas.) defeated Moncure and Snyder, 6—2, 6—3; Klovstad and Truhart (Treas.) defaulted.

Pacini Adds No. 1 District Ranking to Bowling Laurels

ESTABLISHING a new high mark for all-around brilliancy on the maple ways, Ollie Pacini yesterday was accorded No. 1 ranking position in bowling by the Washington City Duckpin Association. Pacini already holds the No. 1 national ranking. He is the only bowler ever to win both awards in a single year, an honor which was accorded him last year also.

Albert (Dutch) Newman was ranked second to Pacini.

Pacini rolled with Northeast Temple in the District League, averaging 121 pins for the season. He averaged 125 pins a game with Rinaldi Tailors in the National Capital League. He bowled with St. Peter's in the Holy Name League, and Northeast Temple Major League, for a season's average of 123. His 408 set in the National Capital League was the highest of the campaign.

Newman compiled the highest average ever made by a District bowler, 127, in the National Capital League. "Whip" Litchfield scored the greatest number of "400" sets in local duckpin history, getting within the charmed circle no less than 14 times.

Judge Denies Request For Carnera Receiver

New York, July 21 (U.P.).—Supreme Court Justice Peter Schmuck today denied "reluctantly" an application for appointment of a receiver for Heavyweight Champion Primo Carnera's share of his purse for his bout with Jack Sharkey.

Theodore J. Skrapp sought the receiver to protect the claim of Emelia Tersini, London waitress, who recently was awarded a $14,616 judgment against Carnera by an English court on breach of promise grounds.

Skrapp charged that Carnera had assigned the Sharkey purse and a farm in Italy to Louis Soresi, his manager, to evade the waitress's claim. Justice Schmuck admitted there was good reason "to suspect the honesty and sincerity of the transfer of the funds in question, but that astute advice" kept Carnera and Soresi within the law.

Americans Take 15 Of 18 Track Events

Cunningham and Metcalfe Are Stars in Victories at Stockholm.

Stockholm, July 21 (AP).—Capped by another pair of brilliant victories for Glenn Cunningham and Ralph Metcalfe, America's touring track stars wound up a protracted meet with the athletes of 11 nations tonight with a record of 15 victories in 18 events on the three-day program.

Cunningham, crack Kansas miler, turned in his third triumph, racing Eric Ny, of Sweden, ragged again, to win the 1,500 meters in 3 minutes 53 seconds. Metcalfe, American national sprint champion, sped through 200 yards in 9.6 seconds, beating Berger, of Holland, considered fastest of the European dash men, by two-tenths of a second.

It was Metcalfe's third victory and brought him equal honors with Cunningham.

Man, 65, Beats Off Two Thugs In Apartment

Gunmen Invade Home of Retired Federal Employe, Club Him.

Pitting himself against the combined assault of two armed men who invaded his apartment last night, John T. Kearney, 65, retired Government Printing Office employe, was felled by the blow of a revolver butt only after successfully beating off his assailants.

Kearney told police he was quietly reading in his third-floor apartment at 3500 Thirteenth street northwest, when the pair knocked at his door.

Men Produce Guns.

Responding, he said, one of the men asked to see "Mr. Brown." When told that no one by that name lived there, they pushed open the door and walked in.

Once inside, both men produced guns, Kearney declared. The taller of the two mumbled something about a holdup, and shoved Kearney into a chair.

The latter immediately called to Mrs. Kearney, who was in an adjoining room. As she appeared at a doorway both gunmen turned to face her. Kearney went into action.

With flying fists he lunged at the armed pair. Taken by surprise, the intruders gave way. Then followed a terrific scuffle. The apartment was all but wrecked.

Head Gashed.

Meanwhile Mrs. Kearney ran screaming into the outer hallway. Her cries brought neighbors. They were just in time, however, to see Mr. Kearney's assailants flee through the door of a fire escape stairway.

Kearney was found lying on the living room floor, a deep gash in his head. The intruders took nothing after hitting him with a gun. Kearney was taken to Emergency Hospital by Tenth Precinct police and treated for severe head lacerations.

Delusions Charged In Will Contest

Some One Influenced Her Mother, Laura S. Post Declares.

Charging that her mother, Laura J. Sanner, was not of sound mind, and was, in addition, suffering from insane delusions when she wrote her will, Laura Sanner Post yesterday in the District Supreme Court, filed a paper opposing the validity of her mother's will.

Mrs. Post claimed that her mother was not only of unsound mind, but was unduly influenced by "unknown persons" in the writing of that document. The mother was controlled by "certain insane delusions," Mrs. Post asserted.

The disputed will left an estate of approximately $32,000 to Mrs. Sanner's niece, Marie Sanner Montgomery. There was a provision of the will that declared that the daughter was omitted from its list because she was "well provided for." Mrs. Sanner died May 24.

30 More Beer Sellers Approved in District

Thirty more permanent beer retailers' licenses and two solicitors' permits were approved yesterday by the District Commissioners upon recommendation of the Beverage Permits Board.

This brings the total number of permanent licenses to 52, with more than 2,000 temporary permits still outstanding.

Man, Found Shot, Dies Refusing to Name Killer

Shot by an unidentified assailant, James Dozier, 19, colored, 802 Four-and-a-half street southwest, was fatally wounded last night, dying shortly after being taken to Providence Hospital.

He was shot down in the areaway at 303 H street southwest. Though conscious when found, he refused to discuss the shooting with police.

Clean Press

Reporters' Room at Police Headquarters Is Hit by Renovize Drive.

A pall of sadness hung over the news room at police headquarters yesterday. The renovize movement had reached there. The walls were going to be painted!

With this startling announcement from "up front" reporters' feet came off the battered desks and with hurt pride they looked longingly at their artistic efforts of years.

The reporters gazed like old friends parting at the array of smiling faces and robust figures of dazzling feminine beauties as they fell prey to the scraper's knife.

Their smiles and alluring figures have done much to offset the flattening effect of the city editor's voice over the phone, insinuating that the reporter might go to work for a change.

And, what might be termed more of a loss, will be the destruction of the graphic record of the events of the past years as portrayed by screaming headlines on the walls.

Here are the actual records of the reporters' efforts pasted before his eyes and the eyes of others to see. To some of the stories he points with pride, while others make him turn his head in shame.

But walls are not the only objects of this renovizing campaign. The windows are going to be screened.

And just when the boys, after weeks of labor, have trained the flies to come in one window and out the other—with the help of an electric fan behind them!

British Woman Labor Leader Is Feted at Tea

Margaret Bondfield Studies Problems of Married Women at Work.

"We have to live by faith. We have to have faith. My faith is a little dimmed. I hope my charity will be sustained." Such was the cryptic and only comment on the significance of the London Economic Conference that Margaret Bondfield, former minister of labor of Great Britain and a present member of the privy council, would make yesterday at a tea given in her honor at the Cosmos Club by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

The Old World and the New World were well represented at the tea, as the guests included most of the Cabinet officers now in Washington and their wives, women in executive positions in the Government, the British Ambassador and most of his staff, and groups of women from foreign nations in this country to attend the series of conventions in Chicago.

While Miss Bondfield would not extend her remarks on the economic conference, she was anxious to discuss and listen to the problems of women in employment in this country, and spent some of the tea time in converation with leaders from the American Federation of Labor and the Woman's Trade Union League.

The former British cabinet officer commented on the interest women of all classes in this country are taking in the employment problem. She asked many questions about American women in relation to labor. In England, Miss Bondfield said, they do not encourage married women to work, but, of course, have this question as part of their labor problem.

Miss Perkins and Miss Bondfield received the guests together. Miss Mary Anderson, chief of the Woman's Bureau of the Department of Labor, made the introductions and Miss Katherine Lenroot, assistant chief of the Children's Bureau, presided at the tea table.

State Regent of D. A. R. To Visit Boys' Camp

Mrs. Harry Colfax, State regent, and other State officers and chapter members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will visit tomorrow the boys' camp sponsored by the organization at Old Landing, Port Tobacco, Md. The boys have been in the camp for 10 days. Each week until school opens in the fall, groups of boys and girls will be sent to the camps, sponsored by the D. A. R.

Twelve Cited For Failing to File Returns

Court Gives Them Until August 15 to Answer in Tax Dispute.

Nine Washingtonians and three concerns here accused of failing to comply with requests of the District Commissioners that they file their personal property tax returns, were cited yesterday by Justice Oscar R. Luhring, in the District Supreme Court to show cause before August 15 why writs of mandamus should not be granted, compelling them to file the returns.

Those name are B. H. Roberts, 2318 Ashmead place northwest; Mrs D. T. Mannix, 1718 Webster street northwest; Howard W. Phillips and the Howard W. Phillips Co., 917 Fifteenth street northwest; Louis W. Southgate, 2500 Calvert street northwest; Z. Thomas Goldsmith, Woodley Park Towers; Hanson E. Ely, jr., 2026 Allen place northwest; Clinton T. Messner, 5712 Thirty-third street northwest; R. Golden Donaldson, Wardman Park Hotel; Kennedy Bros. Co. and Kennedy-Chamberlain Development Co., 3133 Connecticut avenue northwest, and Walter A. Dunigan, 3105 Woodley road northwest.

The suits were filed by Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride, under the authority of an act of Congress that enables the Commissioners to proceed in the courts against persons who are suspected of failing to file personal property taxes when they have taxable property.

Jones Begins Rescue Work Of Home Loan

Although He Has No Office Local Manager Tries to Halt Foreclosures.

Rescue work on behalf of Washington home owners who are in danger of foreclosure is being carried on by Charles A. Jones, local manager of the Home Owners Loan Corporation, despite the fact that he has not yet obtained headquarters and started his business functioning.

Mr. Jones said yesterday that in cases of imminent foreclosure he is appealing to the mortgage holders to delay action until his office has begun operating. He is receiving satisfactory cooperation, he said.

At the same time, hope loomed for the family of Jerome L. Michaels, at 1013 East Capitol street, due to the efforts of Mr. Jones. The mortgage holder, who has bought back the home, has agreed to refrain from evicting the family, pending action of the local home loan office, and to cooperate with the loan office if the home can be refinanced through this agency.

Picks Offices Today.

Mr. Jones expects to select suitable headquarters in the downtown section today.

The District Council of Building and Loan Associations will meet at the Raleigh Hotel next Tuesday evening to discuss the question of accepting the bonds of the loan corporation in exchange for mortgages. William S. Quinter, executive secretary of the association, said yesterday that building and loan associations affiliated with the council are prepared to lend 100 per cent cooperation to President Roosevelt in his plan to aid the small home owner.

New Appointments.

William Montgomery, president of the Acacia Life Insurance Co., whose home office is in this city, scoffed at the idea that life insurance companies have laid down a flat policy in regard to not accepting the corporation bonds.

"Speaking for my own company," Mr. Montgomery said, "I can say that we have adopted no such policy and have not entered into any agreement with other insurance companies.

"We are trying to treat every case on its individual merits. We want to do the best for the borrower and the compnay, and at the same time cooperate with the Government as far as is consistent."

Peter M. Kennedy, of Thompsonville, Conn., was appointed State manager for the loan corporation yesterday. Henry G. Brunner, of Mansfield, Ohio, was appointed manager for that State.

Two Missing Girls Seen Hitchhiking to Chicago

Gloria May Flaherty, 12, 1407 S street northwest, and Calla Rice, 14, 811 Quincy street northwest, who left home Wednesday and were believed to have been hitchhiking to the Chicago Century of Progress Fair, were seen in a truck heading in a southerly direction and bearing North Carolina tags, it was learned yesterday.

Mrs. Mary M. Thompson, mother of the Flaherty girl, and Mercer M. Rice, a telephone operator at the White House, father of Calla Rice, were notified by police of the information about the children's whereabouts. Police have been asked to take the girls in custody and arrange for their return home.

Slaying Witness Released on Bond

Writ Frees Man Detained by Police in Probe of Poolroom Fight.

Held by police as a material witness to the shooting of Frank Snow, 30, in a Ninth street pool room Tuesday night, George W. Mattingly, 34, yesterday was released on a $1,000 bond when Attorney Charles Ford applied to Justice Oscar R. Luhring, of the District Supreme Court, for a writ of habeas corpus.

Two others who received bullet wounds in the same affray remain in a hospital. The are Charles MacAboy, 37 years old and Charles McNeil, 27, a bystander.

MacAboy is in a critical condition. Police declared they would charge him with murder if he recovers. Policeman U. M. Gaile shot MacAboy when he entered the pool room and found the latter standing alone in the center of the place with a smoking gun in his hand.

Yeggmen Chisel Safe and Find it Empty

Angered by finding the safe empty, robbers early yesterday ransacked the tailor shop of Nathan B. Schwartz and Hermann S. Robbin, 809 Vermont avenue northwest. The robbers found nothing to their liking, Mr. Schwartz said.

The yeggmen used a pair of chisels to open the safe after prying open a rear door.

Arrests and Seizure In Raid on L Street

Headquarters liquor squad swooped down on an alleged "joint" yesterday and confiscated a quantity of whisky and wines.

The place visited was that of Tom Ristifo, of 1526 L street northwest. There they found 23 bottles of alleged colored wine, eight jars of alleged whisky and three bottles of alleged champagne. Ristifo and Charles Pagano, also of the above address, were released on $500 bond each.

Women Among Best Tattooing Customers Of Sole Skin Painter in Washington

Alienist Office In District Cut; To Save $5,000

Duties Will Be Shifted to Hospital Staff for Economy.

The position of District alienist was ordered abolished yesterday by the District Commissioners, with the retirement of Dr. Percy Hickling, incumbent, September 30.

The duties of the alienist will be transferred to the chief psychiatrist of Gallinger Hospital, a post now held by Dr. Joseph L. Gilbert, with no advance in salary. As a result the District will save the $3,500 annual salary paid Dr. Hickling and the $1,500 paid his stenographer-clerk.

District officials have had the transfer in mind for some time, and in testimony before Congress on the 1934 appropriations act, Auditor Daniel J. Donovan revealed the plan. Dr. Hickling, who devoted only a part of his time to the job, has been in District service more than 30 years.

The commissioners also intend to renew their efforts at the next session of Congress to abolish the position of District coroner and substitute a medical examiner, with the legal duties of the coroner going to an assistant corporation counsel.

Capital Business Men Play for Day

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hysong Hosts to Federation on Annual Outing.

The Federation of Business Men held its annual outing yesterday at the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hysong, at Broadwater Beach, on Chesapeake Bay.

Principal among the athletic events planned by Prof. William R. Whipp, athletic director of the Racquet Club, were a baseball game and a 50-yard foot race for presidents of all the associations attending. Arthur Clarendon Smith, president of the federation, was declared winner by the flip of a coin after he and Claude Owen, president of the Board of Trade, tied for first place.

Prizes for the athletic events were awarded by Prof. Whipp at the shore dinner at 6 p. m.

Boat on Potomac Captured With Still

A floating distillery taken on the Potomac River near Four-Mile Run is being held by Prohibition raiders at the Harbor Precinct.

Those arrested were Fred Burrell, 51, fisherman, of Slaters Cove, and Russell Herman Gehring, 22, of North Washington street, Alexandria. Burnell admitted ownership of the 30-foot boat and cargo, according to police. A run was being prepared in the 100-gallon still when the boat was boarded by W. R. Blanford, deputy prohibition administrator, while it was anchored in Slaters Cove. The officers said they also found 75 gallons of sour mash.

Admitted Bank Robber Facing 45 Years' Term

Philadelphia Man Pleads Guilty to 3 Counts; Held in Jail.

Pleading guilty to three charges of robbing branch banks of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank, Spencer Walden, 29, of Philadelphia, yesterday was remand to jail to await sentence.

Walden entered a plea of guilty to each one of three indictments. The first charged him with assisting in the looting of the Eighth and E streets branch on April 6, when $7,639 was taken.

The other two related to robberies at the Ninth and East Capitol and Georgia avenue branches, when a total of $23,000 was taken by armed brigands.

Three others, Abraham Reefer, John J. Cahill and Max Zove, were named with Walden in the first robbery. They are serving terms in Pennsylvania following their conviction there on similar charges.

Assistant United States Attorney Julian Richards represented the Government. Walden had no lawyer. He faces a maximum sentence of 45 years.

Carpenter Faints at Work.

Arthur E. Rabbitt, 50, a carpenter employed by the Internal Revenue Bureau, was treated at Emergency Hospital when he fainted while at work yesterday. He was removed to the hospital by the Fire Rescue Squad. His condition is not serious.

Girls Prefer Butterflies and Hearts With Name of Sweetheart.

Strange to Say, Sailors Are Not Backbone of Art Practiced Here.

By Gerald G. Gross.

"Tattooing Done Here."

The sign was in a barber shop window on lower Pennsylvania avenue, a stone's throw from the scene of last July's bonus riots. The writer entered, prepared to weep upon the tattooer's shoulder and mourn the decline of a manly art.

"Plucky fellow," we rehearsed, "that game is shot, but, like the village blacksmith, he holds on."

The tears were never shed. Why, the United States has more tattooers on the road than ever before . . . women are excellent customers . . . some hot week-ends he has to turn patrons away . . . Government workers are steady trade.

Take the word of Einar "Bill" Kluge, who sailed three years before the mast, who has plied his calling from Quebec to Mexico City and who is the only tattooer now operating in the Nation's Capital.

"Of course," says Bill, "there is more tattooing in Europe, but business in the States was never better. They say Kaiser Wilhelm had a double eagle on his breast and the King of Denmark is tattooed."

Popular With Georgetown Girls.

Contrary to popular belief, sailors are not such good customers. Women, especially Georgetown girls; taxicab drivers and Government employes are the backbone of the 41-year-old Norwegian's brisk trade.

One printer at the G. P. O. is almost completely covered with ships, names, emblems, eagles, et cetera. A cab driver who came in during our visit lifted a trouser leg on request and exposed an undraped Venus posing between ankle and kneecap.

"She still smarts a little," he said. The art was only a few days old.

Girls and women come in for butterflies or hearts in which are indelibly needled their sweethearts' names. One local vixen had her boy friend's name tattooed on a leg and now she keeps company with another fellow who threatens to give her up unless she has the ever present souvenir taken out.

Some wish to conceal their ornamentation, however, and select the site accordingly. These usually are the well-dressed individuals who sidle in furtively and leave the same way. Now and then one will confide he holds a pretty high position in the Government "and you know how it is."

Calls Tattooing Foolish.

When a member of the uninitiated takes a seat to select his (or her) first tattoo design, the blue-eyed Scandinavian starts a patter to the effect tattooing is very foolish. That is, unless the purpose is to distinguish between tribes or between married and unmarried women. Such is the custom in some Oriental lands and South Sea islands.

If the prospect still wants to be tattooed, Bill suggests a large piece, like a handsome sailing ship or double eagle. Mark yourself up with a mess of small pieces and where're you going to put a full rigger, her handsome sails curved against a nor'easter, when the notion comes. So reasons Bill, and the notion usually comes eventually, says he.

A tattoo mark, by reason of its permanence, sometimes comes in mighty handy anywhere. Several years ago a man was killed in Georgia while Kluge had his pitch there, and he might never have been identified if he had not paid Kluge a professional visit a short time before.

Butterfly Becomes Lizard.

An old tar, pensioned from the Navy, rolled in this week and announced he was tired of his butterfly. Kluge sized up the situation and a few minutes later the sailor departed with a lizard, which had been deftly worked out of the butterfly.

Is the process painful? we asked. Not much, was the reply. The small designs hurt more than the big ones, he said, because numbness sets in over a large area of flesh. If it is only a name or small heart, say, the work is done while each jab of the needle brings fresh pain. A small piece takes only three minutes.

One customer fell asleep while Kluge toiled two and a half hours over an eagle on his chest. Pain the first few minutes. Then nothing.

Kluge is doing more back and chest work than any time in ten years. He is proud of his St. George and the Dragon, perpetrated on the dorsal side of his best G. P. O. customer a few days ago. Another lucrative job was Rock of Ages recently.

But his steadiest patron is an elderly gentleman who is tattooed whenever and wherever he has a pain. If a knee hurts, Bill applies a blooming rose or something. Headaches, he comes in for a forehead design. His "doctor" tells him on each visit the practice is absurd, but the patient avers the tattooing gives relief.

Many youngsters in their teens bring in their quarters of half dollars, but Kluge turns them away unless they have mother's or father's permission. A husky 16-year-old refused to be talked out of a sitting but compromised, in his own mind, by picking a simple design with the inscription, "Mother."

Credit Denied in Tattoo.

A merchant, tired of being asked for credit, had Kluge inscribe "There ain't no chance" on his palm.

Three former marines had cooties, almost life size, tattooed on their shoulders the other night. They were homesick for the feel of their World War inseparables.

Kluge came to this country in 1908 from Norway. He has been a tattooer for 15 years and has walking proof of his skill in Mexico, Canada and nearly all the States.

"It is the only honest skin game," puns the Norwegian with a laugh.

City Heads Ask Idle Aid From Surplus Funds

Douglas Told Again of 466 Jobs Available in Repairs to Water System.

District Commissioners yesterday made their second request to Budget Director Lewis W. Douglas for permission to spend municipal funds for the relief of local unemployment.

They asked approval of a proposed expenditure of $501,275 out of the surplus of water department revenues for improvement of the District's water system. The Budget Director recently refused, temporarily, to approve an expenditure of $1,500,000 from the gasoline tax surplus for highway improvements. Congress specified in both appropriations that approval must be obtained from the Budget Bureau.

Reemployment for 466.

Approval of the request will bring about reemployment of 466 men in the water department, the payment of $261,300 in wages, and the purchase of supplies amounting to $239,975. Even with this expenditure, and in the face of a 10 per cent reduction in water rents, the water department will still end the fiscal year, it is estimated, with a surplus of $860,000.

The $501,275 is to be expended as follows: Maintenance, $45,810; extension of distribution system, $93,000; installing and repairing water meters, $72,540; installing fire hydrants, $10,675; replacement of old mains, $64,250; pump at Anacostia station, $15,000, and 30-inch water main along Eleventh street southeast, $200,000.

Meter Recommendation.

An accompanying report by W. D. Holton, superintendent of the water department, carried a recommendation that during the fiscal year installation of new meters be suspended, except in case of larger meters purchased and maintained by consumers, and that efforts be concentrated on the maintenance of existing meters either by repairs or replacements.

An item of $26,510 is further specified for use in the detection and repair of leaks in the water system. This will permit the continuance of a 3-year survey which was halted this year by the failure of Congress to appropriate additional funds.

Attorneys Named In Wardman Quiz

Will Investigate Company Claims Against Two Bond Houses.

Acting on a petition filed by the receivers for the Wardman Real Estate Properties, Inc., Justice Oscar R. Luhring, in the District Supreme Court yesterday appointed W. Gwynn Gardiner and Seth W. Richardson as special attorneys to investigate possible claims the corporation may have against Halsey, Stuart & Co. and Hambleton & Co., Inc., who were identified with an issue of approximately $11,000,000 in bonds by the Wardman company in 1928.

The receivers, Julius T. Peyser and Joseph P. Tumulty, asked that the two attorneys be instructed to "investigate and consider matters concerning Halsey, Stuart & Co. and Hambleton & Co., Inc."

The two are to report to the receivers. It was emphasized that at this time there was no definite cause of action against the bond houses, but that an investigation was being launched to satisfy all parties to the floating of the bond issue.

Nurse Saved in Fall In River From Yacht

Miss Mary Morgan, 26, a nurse living at the Ohio Hotel, was rescued from near-drowning early yesterday when she fell into the Potomac from the yacht Anne Marie, tied up in the Washington Channel near the Tidal Basin.

Miss Morgan was pulled from the water by an unidentified man from a boat nearby. The fire rescue squad was called. She was taken to Emergency Hospital and treated for exposure.

Woman Reports Home Robbed.

Mrs. Sadie Kogok, of 1219 Good Hope road, reported to police yesterday that her home was entered and a pocketbook containing $30 taken from a dresser drawer.
